Dulles Tells Big 4 Russia, Not West, Is Real Threat

U. S. May Call Upon Communists To Get Along With Peace 'Prelims'

Nation Would Let Bygones Be Such to Promote Plans for Conference on Korean War

Washington, Feb. 2 (AP)—The United States may call on the Communists in Korea today to let bygones be bygones and get on with preliminary peace talks, stalled now for nearly two months.

Top level State Department officials were wrestling with the problem of how to word a reply to the Communist demand that Special Ambassador Arthur H. Dean return to Panmunjom and resume conversations intended to pave the way for a full dress Korean peace conference.

A department spokesman told newsmen a reply will go out "very shortly."

Secretary of State Dulles has been kept up to date on the efforts to draft a reply. Dulles is in Berlin attending the Big Four foreign ministers meeting.

Walked Out Dec. 12

Dean, a former law partner of Dulles, walked out of the preliminary talks at Panmunjom Dec. 12, saying he had had enough of Red insults. He objected most strenuously to a Red charge that the United States had connived with South Korea to release 27,000 anti-Communist war prisoners before the truce began last summer.

Dean said at the time he would not return until the Communists had retracted a perfidy charge aimed at this country. He came back to the United States and now is in New York, where he practices law. However, this government has said Dean is ready to return to Korea "on short notice."

So far, the Communists have given no indication of readiness to retract. Just last week, they wrote Dean, demanding the resumption of talks, but saying nothing about the issue that prompted him to break off those talks.

For Graceful Acceptance

The State Department officils were said to feel they must so word the reply that the Communists can accept it with grace—and yet not be able to claim a victory for propaganda purposes.

One suggestion said to be under favorable consideration is that the U. S. note go something like this:

"Your letter indicates you accept our conditions. Therefore, we stand ready to resume preliminary peace talks."

However, diplomats were not too optimistic that this tack would do the trick.

In the background is a desire among American officials to move ahead with the difficult talk of concluding peace in Korea.

The truce signed over six months ago called for a peace conference to begin last Oct. 27.

Sharp Tone Hits Soviet Challenge

Secretary Hurls Back Molotov's Own Words Spoken in '39 After Polish Partition

Berlin, Feb. 2 (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles told the Big Four Foreign Ministers Conference today the Soviet bloc and its one-man rule is the real danger to world peace, not the Western Defensive Alliance.

This was the American statesman's answer to Soviet Minister Molotov's charges that the Western powers are promoting war in trying to unify Germany within the family of European nations.

In stinging language, Dulles hurled Molotov's own words—spoken after the 1939 Nazi-Communist partition of Poland—back at him. At that time, with Moscow and Berlin in a booty-hungry partnership, Molotov called it "not only senseless but criminal" for the Western nations to war against Hitler.

Just as Wrong

Molotov, in challenging the Western world's motives about peace now, is just as wrong today as he was then, Dulles asserted.

The secretary led the Western broadside against the Russian as a retort to Molotov's unyielding position yesterday. Molotov had stressed that Russia would settle only for a neutral Germany unable to have any link with the West and saddled with Communist influence.

Said Dulles:

"Perhaps Mr. Molotov would admit that he then (in 1939) made a mistake—we all make mistakes. That fact should lead us not to be so confident of our judgment that we throw across the table accusations of criminal intent."

Cites Accusation

Dulles said Molotov had "accused us yesterday of being the enemies of peace."

"The greatest danger to world peace," Dulles said, "lies in the fact that in some cases a vast military establishment can be made to attack by the decision of a single nation, sometimes by the decision of a single man. That is a situation that is understandably terrifying."

He left no doubt that he was talking about the Monolithic Soviet regime.

Dulles lit into the Russian's demands for East German Communist participation in any all-German deal and declared the Soviet Zone regime has been imposed on 18 million helpless people. What more proof does one need, he said, than the fact that a million East Germans have fled west since the last so-called East Zone "elections" in 1950.

Armed Force of 250,000

"In the eastern area there is an armed force of 250,000 to keep order," he continued. "That is one guard for 80 persons. In West Germany there is one policeman for 330 persons. Does this shocking discrepancy prove that the East Germans freely accept the order that their rulers impose?"

The essence of Soviet proposals for Germany is that the big four should accept the East German regime as a principal instrument for solving the German problem, Dulles said, but "we cannot accept that position."

He urged Molotov to "agree to create quickly by free, all-German elections a German government which can genuinely speak for all of Germany."

Dulles then recalled that Molotov had charged that the United States Congress had appropriated 100 million dollars for "subversive activities within the Soviet satellite countries."

Dulles said this had been rejected when Russia raised it in the United Nations and "I refute it again as being totally untrue."

Reds' Push Seen Aimed To End War

Strategy Would Provide Talking Point for Negotiations—Laos Is Threatened Again

Hanoi, Indochina, Feb. 2 (AP)—Vietminh attacks in five separate sectors shaped up today as parts of a general offensive apparently aimed at overrunning enough territory to give the Communist-led rebels a powerful talking point for ending the Indochina war by negotiation.

A new invasion of Laos threatened Luang Prabang, the royal Laotian capital, as Ho Chi Minh threw virtually all his eight regular divisions—trained and equipped by Red China—into the winter campaign.

The war picture looked like this:

1. Vietminh Division No. 308, detached from the siege of Dien Bien Phu, crossed the border from northwest Viet Nam into northern Laos, overran French-garrisoned Muong Khoua after a 30-mile advance and headed on toward Luang Prabang, 85 miles to the south.

2. In central Laos, a war theatre for six weeks, other rebel troops battled French forces in the Mekong river area north and east of Thakhek, a town the Vietminh won during Christmas week and then gave up without a fight.

Pressure Maintained

3. Three Vietminh divisions including No. 316, a heavy weapons outfit called the Iron Division, maintained pressure on Dien Bien Phu, the heavily fortified plain where the French keep a toehold in the Thai mountain country at Laos' back doorstep.

4. Two hundred miles to the east, troops of Vietminh Division No. 320 infiltrated the Red river delta, the key defense bulwark of French Union forces against the sweep of communism into southeast Asia, and opened attacks on guard posts in the Minh Binh and Nam Dinh sectors.

5. In the southeast Viet Nam, rebel resistance stiffened against a French drive to oust the Vietminh from the rich coastal strip of 220 miles between Cap Varella and Faifo.

French army sources here said that, of all the sectors involved, the most important is the densely populated Red river delta.

Seem to Have No Chance

But the Vietminh soldiers, with all their strength and with the aid of perhaps 60,000 irregulars and guerrillas who have infiltrated the delta, appeared to have no chance of smashing the tens of thousands of French Union defenders or seizing any significant number of the 1,200 fortifications they man.

Nor did they appear to have anything to gain in the thrusts into Laos except political prestige. As for Dien Bien Phu, the French say the American-equipped, air-applied garrison there could hurl back anything the rebels throw at them.

The Vietminh seem to be seeking instead to put as much territory as possible under the Red flag before the spring rains to convince the war-weary French a negotiated peace is the best way to end the 7-year-old conflict that has brought no decisive victory to either side.

Europe Becomes Vast Icebox

London, Feb. 2 (AP) — The worst winter in seven years turned Europe into one vast icebox from the Urals to the Mediterranean today, spread misery among the homeless in the big cities, and covered the play resorts of North Africa with snow.

Trains were stalled. Rivers turned into giant ice ponds. Overworked electric lines broke down. Hundreds of villages were cut off.

The weatherman said even lower temperatures were on the way.

Already, more than 45 people have died.

In North Africa, many parts of Morocco had their first snowfall in 35 years. Near Meknes, three feet of snow was reported and the hills around Algiers were ice-capped.

London had its coldest night in seven years—23 degrees.

Schifano's Trial Opens Wednesday In County Court

Civil Matters to Be Taken Up Later—10 Men Face Judge in Policy Cases

District Attorney Howard C. St. John moved the Samuel Schifano first degree manslaughter case for trial on Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock when the criminal calendar was called at the opening of County Court Monday afternoon before Judge John M. Cashin. Charles Gaffney, who with Senator Harry Gittleson, appears for Schifano, indicated he would be ready.

Judge Cashin advised counsel in criminal cases that he intended to dispose of criminal matters as they were moved for trial by the prosecution and he cautioned attorneys to be ready to proceed. Today will be devoted to conferences with counsel in criminal matters, Judge Cashin announced.

Civil matters will not be taken up until the second week of the term and this week will be devoted to criminal matters. Jurors were excused until Wednesday, Feb. 3, at 10 a. m. and the civil calendar will be made up on next Monday.

Men Are Arraigned

Ten local men picked up on bench warrants last week were in court for arraignment on charges of violation of Section 974 of the Penal Law, in connection with possession of policy slips. Bail in each case was continued at $250 cash bail or $500 property bail.

James Kiernan, represented by John Larkin, entered a plea of innocent to the charge, alleged to have been committed on January 6, 1954, bail was continued and counsel was granted 20 days for further motions.

George Weeks was also represented by John Larkin and he too entered a plea of innocent to violation of Section 974. Bail was continued and 20 days for motions granted.

Haymes and Rita Shut Themselves in Suite, Balk Writ

Deputies Wait 15 Hours to Serve Papers in Civil Case; Signed by McNally

New York, Feb. 2 (AP)—The door to the hotel suite of singer Dick Haymes and his actress wife, Rita Hayworth, stayed shut today while two sheriff's deputies waited outside to arrest him on a civil writ.

The deputies took up their posts last night and still were standing by 15 hours later.

No food had been sent to the room since the couple had dinner shortly before the deputies arrived.

Sounds of a television or radio emanated from the room until about 2 a. m. today. Then silence.

At 10:30 a. m., one of the deputies said he presumed the couple still was asleep.

The deputies arrived at 8 p. m. last night with a civil arrest order obtained by Haymes' former wife, actress Joanne Dru.

Lawyers for Haymes and Miss Dru followed the officials on the scene; the door remained closed to them too. Then came reporters and photographers.

Still in Corridor

Today the deputies and newsmen were still in the 12th floor corridor outside the couple's Hotel Madison suite. The attorneys were gone but planned to meet tomorrow.

Whether Haymes and Miss Hayworth had food provisions was not known. They were reported to have eaten sometime before the deputies arrived last night. The deputies said they could enter the suite and serve their order if the door was unlocked for any purpose, including the receipt of food supplies.

The civil arrest order held by the sheriffs was signed yesterday by Supreme Court Justice James McNally on the strength of a similar one from California courts.

Miss Dru's Complaint

Miss Dru alleged in the complaint: Haymes concealed assets "for the purpose of defrauding creditors" and owes her $33,323. The singer has admitted he owes her $32,000. He also has violated an agreement with her to give her 10 per cent of his earnings to clear the bill.

Miss Dru, who said Haymes earned $40,000 between August, 1953, and last month, put up a $3,000 bond as a guarantee for costs in the event that Haymes has

Uptown Business Votes Approval of State Route Plan

Unanimous Backing Given 'in General' to Proposal —Will Build Stairs to Parking Lot

Unanimous approval of the state arterial route plan was voted by the Kingston Uptown Business Men's Association, Inc., Monday evening at a meeting held at the Governor Clinton Hotel.

It was also voted that every alderman, Alderman-at-Large Kelly and Mayor Frederick H. Stang be notified of this action by telegram today in order that the position of the Association members be known at the Common Council this evening when the matter of city approval of the proposed plan may be acted upon.

Prior to adoption of the plan, N. Jansen Fowler explained the proposition and stated by way of preliminary introduction that the proposed arterial route program was perhaps one of the most important things for the benefit of the city, outside the coming of IBM, which had happened in the city in a long time.

Had Been Misunderstanding

Fowler said that there had been a misunderstanding of the arterial route proposal by many, but that it was now becoming better understood. All that was asked now was that the "preliminary stage" of the plan be approved so that it might be either accepted or rejected by the city and, if approved details would later be worked out. Various phases of the plan would come up for further consideration and for approval by the Common Council and the people of the city, he said. What was needed now was an approval "in general" of the proposition, details to be worked out later.

There are some who feel there is no need for the plan and that when the Hudson river bridge is completed the connecting road to the Thruway from the bridge will be sufficient, Fowler said, but he explained the Arterial Route would be of the greatest importance to the city and of benefit to business here.

Resolution Adopted

On Fowler's motion the Association unanimously adopted a resolution of approval that "the preliminary arterial route plans as submitted be approved, and, that the Common Council and the Board of Supervisors be so advised and further, that consideration as to modifications and supplements to the plans be left for further consideration."

Vincent R. Burns presided at the meeting with Robert B. O'Reilly secretary-treasurer.

Following a lengthy discussion on the advisability of installing a stairway now from the parking lot back of North Front street to give better access to the area, it was voted to appoint a committee to raise funds for the stairway and to pay the balance now due on the parking lot improvements and to make arrangements for securing funds for the annual maintenance of the parking facilities. It

Tax Cuts to Mean More Jobs, Humphrey Says

Secretary Defends U. S. Program, Says He Is Confident of Transition

Washington, Feb. 2 (AP)—Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey told Congress today the basic purpose of 6¼ billion dollars in actual or proposed tax cuts this year is to bring "more jobs, better jobs, and higher and better standards of living."

With this tax program, Humphrey said, he is confident "this nation can make the transition to a period of less costly military preparedness without serious interruption in our economic growth."

Humphrey's testimony before the Senate-House economic committee amounted to a vigorous defense of the Eisenhower administration's tax program, under fire from some Democrats on charges it favors big business and corporation stockholders.

Leads Cabinet Men

Humphrey led a procession of cabinet members, business and labor leaders who will testify over the next few weeks on President Eisenhower's economic message to Congress. The President said the current business dip likely will end in a few months and the economy then should turn up again, but any economic troubles must not be treated complacently.

Humphrey said the administration permitted five billion dollars in annual tax cuts to take effect Jan. 1, even though the federal budget is not balanced, "to transfer billions of dollars which the government will not be spending back to the taxpayers so that there will not be any sudden dislocation." The cuts eliminated the excess profits tax on corporations and reduced individual income tax rates an average of 10 per cent.

Would Benefit

The cabinet member noted that millions of individuals would benefit further from a proposed general tax revision program providing better tax treatment for working children, child care expenses, for doctor's bills, for annuities and some pensions, and from easier procedures in filing returns.

The revision program, if enacted, would reduce revenues an additional 1¼ billion dollars this year and perhaps more than two billion dollars in later years.

But actually, Humphrey said, individuals will benefit more from

Tug Strike Is Set For New York Area

Dispute Involves 3,500; Federal Mediators Are Seeking Pact

New York, Feb. 2 (AP)—Tugboat men today charted a midnight strike deadline, confronting the world's biggest city with the possibility of food and fuel shortages.

Federal mediators strove to avert the walkout, which would bring one more labor problem to a port already beset by one strike and a battle between two rival unions.

The tugboat dispute involves some 3,500 members of Local 333 (United Marine Division) of the independent International Longshoremen's Assn. and the Marine Towing and Transportation Assn., an employers' group.

About 200 weighers, members of the ILA's Local 947, have been on strike since last week.

In Other Tieups

The fight for control of waterfront labor between the ILA and the AFL International Longshoremen's Assn. (AFL-ILA) has resulted in other tieups.

However, the tugboat dispute

Teacher, School Series in Freeman

Data Has Been Collected on Request for More Pay for Work

(This is the first in a series of stories about the teacher in the Kingston public school system, indicating broadly his attitudes, aspirations and problems, with particular attention to his request for a pay increase).

There are 236 teachers in the Kingston public school system.

They want more money.

For approximately a month this reporter has collected all data he could get his hands on that might shed light on the request of these teachers for pay increases.

He has before him a ream of surveys, statistics, excerpts from newspapers and magazines, results of questionnaires, submitted to local teachers and students, broad statements of teacher aims, aspirations, problems and educational philosophy, comparisons with other communities of similar size and situation, fiscal reports, budgets, explanations of state aid, present and anticipated, legislation pending, its prospects, etc.

He also has talked to the superintendent of education, members of the board of education and local citizens in an effort to extend his own understanding to present a full and impartial picture—as full and impartial as possible.

This is not enough.

It is a matter which requires public understanding. It is in that spirit The Freeman has undertaken to place before the community what data it has been able to assemble.

It also requires public action.

Local 'Horse' Terminal

Ulster county was allegedly the terminal for a telephone circuit which was connected with a "horse room" which was raided in Yonkers Monday afternoon about 3:30 o'clock. At the place raided was Isadore Getner, a brother of Samuel Getner of Yonkers who is well-known in this area where he was associated with the organizing of music box activities some time ago. Raiding officials reported to local authorities that a telephone circuit from the Yonkers establishment was connected to an Ulster county address.

Drivers Strike Ends

Garden City, Feb. 2 (AP)—A strike of 150 fuel oil truck drivers in Nassau and Suffolk counties ended late yesterday with the men winning their demand for a pay increase of $2.60 up to $18.57 for an eight-hour day.

Coffee Ruling Might Hurt Supplies, Committee Told

Washington, Feb. 2 (AP)—A New York coffee dealer told senators today that government regulation of coffee trading might cut down supplies in this country and send prices even higher.

Gustavo Lobo Jr., president of the New York Coffee and Sugar Exchange, said in a statement prepared for the Senate Agriculture Committee that restrictions on coffee trading in the United States might divert shipments to other world areas of heavy demand. For example, he said consumption is increasing in Western Germany, where the retail price is now $3 a pound.

Demands for various kinds of action have arisen in the United States, with coffee going past the $1 a pound mark and up to 15 cents a cup in some restaurants.

Lobo told the senators that the Coffee Exchange, while convinced that regulation is not advisable, nevertheless would cooperate in every way if Congress decides government supervision "can in any way increase the world supply of coffee, or aid in any way in bringing about lower prices for the American consumer."

The Senate Committee is considering legislation by Sen. Gillette (D-Iowa) which would authorize government supervision of coffee trading similar to that now operating over trading in wheat, cotton, corn and other commodities.

Chairman Aiken (R-Vt.) of the committee made public a letter from the Agriculture Department endorsing the proposed supervision.

True D. Morse, acting secretary, said in the letter:

"While there may be substantial doubt as to the justification for trading in coffee futures on an American exchange, enactment of S.1386 (Gillette bill) would enable the department to maintain surveillance of such trading and at the same time afford opportunity to evaluate the services provided by the coffee futures market."

Gillette, unable to attend today's public hearing, sent a letter saying he was convinced "that adoption of this proposal would be a major contribution toward limiting, if not entirely correcting, the potential repetition of the speculative raids which have

Forger Admits Cashing $100,000 in Checks; Preyed on New York Garment Officials

New York, Feb. 2 (AP)—A forger admitted today that he had cashed bogus checks for more than $100,000, including some to call girls, police said.

The prisoner, booked as Herbert Kaminski, 26, of Manhattan, reportedly confessed preying on manufacturers in the garment center here. The system was to pose as a labor union organizer, promise to drum up business for the manufacturers, and then get them to cash checks.

Kaminski, seized in a hotel last night after being traced through rogues gallery pictures, was charged with forgery.

In addition to confessing that he had victimized garment manufacturers for $100,000, police said, Kaminski also is suspected of being a member of a gang fleecing supermarkets and of a gang cashing forged Burns Detective Agency wage drafts with Burns clients.

Police Lt. Joseph Harley, commander of the forgery squad, said the bespectacled prisoner has a record of 10 arrests and has served time in prison.

Harley gave this description of Kaminski's garment center operations during the past year: He introduced himself to a manufacturer as an organizer for the AFL International Ladies Garment Workers Union and promised to increase the manufacturer's business. When the manufacturer turned his back or left the room, Kaminski stole several checks from a checkbook.

After Kaminski left the office, Harley continued, he made out one of the checks to cash for $100 to $500. He then went to a second manufacturer and, using the same ruse as a buildup, asked that the check be cashed. When the second manufacturer was not looking, Kaminski stole some of his checks. He then would fill one out, and get the first manufacturer to cash it. This went on and on.

Harley also reported:

Democrats Charge Budget Hides, Dumps Pay-Go Plan

Albany, Feb. 2 (AP)—The Democratic leaders of the Legislature charged today that Gov. Dewey's 1954-55 budget "conceals more than it reveals" and "tosses his pay-as-you-go policy into the trash can."

Sen. Francis J. Mahoney and Assemblyman Eugene F. Brannigan, minority leaders of their houses, declared in a joint statement that the Governor was using a "hatful of fiscal gimmicks" to avoid raising taxes in an election year.

They said Dewey had admitted in his annual budget measure to the Legislature "that a 350-million-dollar bond issue for mental hygiene was not necessary." The state's social welfare services felt "the impact of the Dewey meat-axe technique," they added.

Dewey called yesterday for a record spending program of $1,122,700,000 in the fiscal year that begins next April 1.

He asked for appropriations amounting to $1,113,200,000, also a record, and said the state could finish the 1954-55 fiscal year without new or higher taxes—except for an increase on pari-mutuel bets at harness racing tracks.

Despite Democratic objections, the governor's budget is expected to glide untouched through the heavily Republican Senate and Assembly.

The governor yesterday signed a bill continuing until Feb. 1, 1955, the temporary state com-

Queen Is Welcomed

Sydney, Australia, Feb. 2 (AP)—Thousands gathered tonight at Sydney harbor's Farm Cove to welcome Queen Elizabeth II to Australia. Ashore and afloat, they waited her arrival with the Duke of Edinburgh aboard the liner Gothic at 8 a. m. tomorrow (5 p. m. Tuesday EST). Like New Zealand, which said its farewells to the royal couple Saturday, Australia will be entertaining a reigning British monarch for the first time in its history.

Pupils Are Evacuated

New York, Feb. 2 (AP)—A fire in a supply closet brought quick evacuation today of 1,000 pupils of Public School 42 on the lower east side. The blaze on the top floor of the five-story structure at 71 Heater street, was extinguished quickly. Many of the youngsters at first thought they were taking part in a fire drill. Teachers marched them to nearby Essex Park. The pupils returned to the school an hour later.

Late Bulletin

New York, Feb. 2 (AP)—Mediators saw some hope today of averting a midnight strike of oilboat and tugboat crewmen that might bring New York city fuel and food shortages.

Thomas G. Daugherty, federal mediator, and Joseph E. O'Grady, director of the city's Labor Relations Division, told reporters union leaders planned to modify their demands at a 2 p. m., meeting of union and employer representatives.

A walkout would bring one more problem to a port already beset by one strike and a battle between two rival unions.

Secretary Hurls Back Molotov's Own Words Spoken in '39 After Polish Partition

Berlin, Feb. 2 (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles told the Big Four Foreign Ministers Conference today the Soviet bloc and its one-man rule is the real danger to world peace, not the Western Defensive Alliance.

This was the American statesman's answer to Soviet Minister Molotov's charges that the Western powers are promoting war in trying to unify Germany within the family of European nations.

Just as Wrong

Molotov, in challenging the Western world's motives about peace now, is just as wrong today as he was then, Dulles asserted.

The secretary led the Western broadside against the Russian as a retort to Molotov's unyielding position yesterday. Molotov had stressed that Russia would settle only for a neutral Germany unable to have any link with the West and saddled with Communist influence.

Said Dulles:

"Perhaps Mr. Molotov would admit that he then (in 1939) made a mistake—we all make mistakes. That fact should lead us not to be so confident of our judgment that we throw across the table accusations of criminal intent."

He urged Molotov to "agree to create quickly by free, all-German elections a German government which can genuinely speak for all of Germany."

Dulles then recalled that Molotov had charged that the United States Congress had appropriated 100 million dollars for "subversive activities within the Soviet satellite countries."

Dulles said this had been rejected when Russia raised it in the United Nations and "I refute it again as being totally untrue."

Hanoi, Indochina, Feb. 2 (AP)—Vietminh attacks in five separate sectors shaped up today as parts of a general offensive apparently aimed at overrunning enough territory to give the Communist-led rebels a powerful talking point for ending the Indochina war by negotiation.

A new invasion of Laos threatened Luang Prabang, the royal Laotian capital, as Ho Chi Minh threw virtually all his eight regular divisions—trained and equipped by Red China—into the winter campaign.

The war picture looked like this:

1. Vietminh Division No. 308, detached from the siege of Dien Bien Phu, crossed the border from northwest Viet Nam into northern Laos, overran French-garrisoned Muong Khoua after a 30-mile advance and headed on toward Luang Prabang, 85 miles to the south.

2. In central Laos, a war theatre for six weeks, other rebel troops battled French forces in the Mekong river area north and east of Thakhek, a town the Vietminh won during Christmas week and then gave up without a fight.

Pressure Maintained

3. Three Vietminh divisions including No. 316, a heavy weapons outfit called the Iron Division, maintained pressure on Dien Bien Phu, the heavily fortified plain where the French keep a toehold in the Thai mountain country at Laos' back doorstep.

4. Two hundred miles to the east, troops of Vietminh Division No. 320 infiltrated the Red river delta, the key defense bulwark of French Union forces against the sweep of communism into southeast Asia, and opened attacks on guard posts in the Minh Binh and Nam Dinh sectors.

5. In the southeast Viet Nam, rebel resistance stiffened against a French drive to oust the Vietminh from the rich coastal strip of 220 miles between Cap Varella and Faifo.

French army sources here said that, of all the sectors involved, the most important is the densely populated Red river delta.

Seem to Have No Chance

But the Vietminh soldiers, with all their strength and with the aid of perhaps 60,000 irregulars and guerrillas who have infiltrated the delta, appeared to have no chance of smashing the tens of thousands of French Union defenders or seizing any significant number of the 1,200 fortifications they man.

Nor did they appear to have anything to gain in the thrusts into Laos except political prestige. As for Dien Bien Phu, the French say the American-equipped, air-applied garrison there could hurl back anything the rebels throw at them.

The Vietminh seem to be seeking instead to put as much territory as possible under the Red flag before the spring rains to convince the war-weary French a negotiated peace is the best way to end the 7-year-old conflict that has brought no decisive victory to either side.

Europe Becomes Vast Icebox

London, Feb. 2 (AP) — The worst winter in seven years turned Europe into one vast icebox from the Urals to the Mediterranean today, spread misery among the homeless in the big cities, and covered the play resorts of North Africa with snow.

Trains were stalled. Rivers turned into giant ice ponds. Overworked electric lines broke down. Hundreds of villages were cut off.

The weatherman said even lower temperatures were on the way.

Already, more than 45 people have died.

In North Africa, many parts of Morocco had their first snowfall in 35 years. Near Meknes, three feet of snow was reported and the hills around Algiers were ice-capped.

London had its coldest night in seven years—23 degrees.

Schifano's Trial Opens Wednesday In County Court

Civil Matters to Be Taken Up Later—10 Men Face Judge in Policy Cases

District Attorney Howard C. St. John moved the Samuel Schifano first degree manslaughter case for trial on Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock when the criminal calendar was called at the opening of County Court Monday afternoon before Judge John M. Cashin. Charles Gaffney, who with Senator Harry Gittleson, appears for Schifano, indicated he would be ready.

Judge Cashin advised counsel in criminal cases that he intended to dispose of criminal matters as they were moved for trial by the prosecution and he cautioned attorneys to be ready to proceed. Today will be devoted to conferences with counsel in criminal matters, Judge Cashin announced.

Civil matters will not be taken up until the second week of the term and this week will be devoted to criminal matters. Jurors were excused until Wednesday, Feb. 3, at 10 a. m. and the civil calendar will be made up on next Monday.

Men Are Arraigned

Ten local men picked up on bench warrants last week were in court for arraignment on charges of violation of Section 974 of the Penal Law, in connection with possession of policy slips. Bail in each case was continued at $250 cash bail or $500 property bail.

James Kiernan, represented by John Larkin, entered a plea of innocent to the charge, alleged to have been committed on January 6, 1954, bail was continued and counsel was granted 20 days for further motions.

George Weeks was also represented by John Larkin and he too entered a plea of innocent to violation of Section 974. Bail was continued and 20 days for motions granted.

Haymes and Rita Shut Themselves in Suite, Balk Writ

Deputies Wait 15 Hours to Serve Papers in Civil Case; Signed by McNally

New York, Feb. 2 (AP)—The door to the hotel suite of singer Dick Haymes and his actress wife, Rita Hayworth, stayed shut today while two sheriff's deputies waited outside to arrest him on a civil writ.

The deputies took up their posts last night and still were standing by 15 hours later.

No food had been sent to the room since the couple had dinner shortly before the deputies arrived.

Sounds of a television or radio emanated from the room until about 2 a. m. today. Then silence.

At 10:30 a. m., one of the deputies said he presumed the couple still was asleep.

The deputies arrived at 8 p. m. last night with a civil arrest order obtained by Haymes' former wife, actress Joanne Dru.

Lawyers for Haymes and Miss Dru followed the officials on the scene; the door remained closed to them too. Then came reporters and photographers.

Still in Corridor

Today the deputies and newsmen were still in the 12th floor corridor outside the couple's Hotel Madison suite. The attorneys were gone but planned to meet tomorrow.

Whether Haymes and Miss Hayworth had food provisions was not known. They were reported to have eaten sometime before the deputies arrived last night. The deputies said they could enter the suite and serve their order if the door was unlocked for any purpose, including the receipt of food supplies.

The civil arrest order held by the sheriffs was signed yesterday by Supreme Court Justice James McNally on the strength of a similar one from California courts.

Miss Dru's Complaint

Miss Dru alleged in the complaint: Haymes concealed assets "for the purpose of defrauding creditors" and owes her $33,323. The singer has admitted he owes her $32,000. He also has violated an agreement with her to give her 10 per cent of his earnings to clear the bill.

Miss Dru, who said Haymes earned $40,000 between August, 1953, and last month, put up a $3,000 bond as a guarantee for costs in the event that Haymes has

Uptown Business Votes Approval of State Route Plan

Unanimous Backing Given 'in General' to Proposal —Will Build Stairs to Parking Lot

Unanimous approval of the state arterial route plan was voted by the Kingston Uptown Business Men's Association, Inc., Monday evening at a meeting held at the Governor Clinton Hotel.

It was also voted that every alderman, Alderman-at-Large Kelly and Mayor Frederick H. Stang be notified of this action by telegram today in order that the position of the Association members be known at the Common Council this evening when the matter of city approval of the proposed plan may be acted upon.

Prior to adoption of the plan, N. Jansen Fowler explained the proposition and stated by way of preliminary introduction that the proposed arterial route program was perhaps one of the most important things for the benefit of the city, outside the coming of IBM, which had happened in the city in a long time.

Had Been Misunderstanding

Fowler said that there had been a misunderstanding of the arterial route proposal by many, but that it was now becoming better understood. All that was asked now was that the "preliminary stage" of the plan be approved so that it might be either accepted or rejected by the city and, if approved details would later be worked out. Various phases of the plan would come up for further consideration and for approval by the Common Council and the people of the city, he said. What was needed now was an approval "in general" of the proposition, details to be worked out later.

There are some who feel there is no need for the plan and that when the Hudson river bridge is completed the connecting road to the Thruway from the bridge will be sufficient, Fowler said, but he explained the Arterial Route would be of the greatest importance to the city and of benefit to business here.

Resolution Adopted

On Fowler's motion the Association unanimously adopted a resolution of approval that "the preliminary arterial route plans as submitted be approved, and, that the Common Council and the Board of Supervisors be so advised and further, that consideration as to modifications and supplements to the plans be left for further consideration."

Vincent R. Burns presided at the meeting with Robert B. O'Reilly secretary-treasurer.

Following a lengthy discussion on the advisability of installing a stairway now from the parking lot back of North Front street to give better access to the area, it was voted to appoint a committee to raise funds for the stairway and to pay the balance now due on the parking lot improvements and to make arrangements for securing funds for the annual maintenance of the parking facilities. It

Tax Cuts to Mean More Jobs, Humphrey Says

Secretary Defends U. S. Program, Says He Is Confident of Transition

Washington, Feb. 2 (AP)—Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey told Congress today the basic purpose of 6¼ billion dollars in actual or proposed tax cuts this year is to bring "more jobs, better jobs, and higher and better standards of living."

With this tax program, Humphrey said, he is confident "this nation can make the transition to a period of less costly military preparedness without serious interruption in our economic growth."

Humphrey's testimony before the Senate-House economic committee amounted to a vigorous defense of the Eisenhower administration's tax program, under fire from some Democrats on charges it favors big business and corporation stockholders.

Leads Cabinet Men

Humphrey led a procession of cabinet members, business and labor leaders who will testify over the next few weeks on President Eisenhower's economic message to Congress. The President said the current business dip likely will end in a few months and the economy then should turn up again, but any economic troubles must not be treated complacently.

Humphrey said the administration permitted five billion dollars in annual tax cuts to take effect Jan. 1, even though the federal budget is not balanced, "to transfer billions of dollars which the government will not be spending back to the taxpayers so that there will not be any sudden dislocation." The cuts eliminated the excess profits tax on corporations and reduced individual income tax rates an average of 10 per cent.

Would Benefit

The cabinet member noted that millions of individuals would benefit further from a proposed general tax revision program providing better tax treatment for working children, child care expenses, for doctor's bills, for annuities and some pensions, and from easier procedures in filing returns.

The revision program, if enacted, would reduce revenues an additional 1¼ billion dollars this year and perhaps more than two billion dollars in later years.

But actually, Humphrey said, individuals will benefit more from

Dispute Involves 3,500; Federal Mediators Are Seeking Pact

New York, Feb. 2 (AP)—Tugboat men today charted a midnight strike deadline, confronting the world's biggest city with the possibility of food and fuel shortages.

Federal mediators strove to avert the walkout, which would bring one more labor problem to a port already beset by one strike and a battle between two rival unions.

The tugboat dispute involves some 3,500 members of Local 333 (United Marine Division) of the independent International Longshoremen's Assn. and the Marine Towing and Transportation Assn., an employers' group.

About 200 weighers, members of the ILA's Local 947, have been on strike since last week.

In Other Tieups

The fight for control of waterfront labor between the ILA and the AFL International Longshoremen's Assn. (AFL-ILA) has resulted in other tieups.

However, the tugboat dispute

Teacher, School Series in Freeman

Data Has Been Collected on Request for More Pay for Work

(This is the first in a series of stories about the teacher in the Kingston public school system, indicating broadly his attitudes, aspirations and problems, with particular attention to his request for a pay increase).

There are 236 teachers in the Kingston public school system.

They want more money.

For approximately a month this reporter has collected all data he could get his hands on that might shed light on the request of these teachers for pay increases.

He has before him a ream of surveys, statistics, excerpts from newspapers and magazines, results of questionnaires, submitted to local teachers and students, broad statements of teacher aims, aspirations, problems and educational philosophy, comparisons with other communities of similar size and situation, fiscal reports, budgets, explanations of state aid, present and anticipated, legislation pending, its prospects, etc.

He also has talked to the superintendent of education, members of the board of education and local citizens in an effort to extend his own understanding to present a full and impartial picture—as full and impartial as possible.

This is not enough.

It is a matter which requires public understanding. It is in that spirit The Freeman has undertaken to place before the community what data it has been able to assemble.

It also requires public action.

Local 'Horse' Terminal

Ulster county was allegedly the terminal for a telephone circuit which was connected with a "horse room" which was raided in Yonkers Monday afternoon about 3:30 o'clock. At the place raided was Isadore Getner, a brother of Samuel Getner of Yonkers who is well-known in this area where he was associated with the organizing of music box activities some time ago. Raiding officials reported to local authorities that a telephone circuit from the Yonkers establishment was connected to an Ulster county address.

Drivers Strike Ends

Garden City, Feb. 2 (AP)—A strike of 150 fuel oil truck drivers in Nassau and Suffolk counties ended late yesterday with the men winning their demand for a pay increase of $2.60 up to $18.57 for an eight-hour day.

Coffee Ruling Might Hurt Supplies, Committee Told

Washington, Feb. 2 (AP)—A New York coffee dealer told senators today that government regulation of coffee trading might cut down supplies in this country and send prices even higher.

Gustavo Lobo Jr., president of the New York Coffee and Sugar Exchange, said in a statement prepared for the Senate Agriculture Committee that restrictions on coffee trading in the United States might divert shipments to other world areas of heavy demand. For example, he said consumption is increasing in Western Germany, where the retail price is now $3 a pound.

Demands for various kinds of action have arisen in the United States, with coffee going past the $1 a pound mark and up to 15 cents a cup in some restaurants.

Lobo told the senators that the Coffee Exchange, while convinced that regulation is not advisable, nevertheless would cooperate in every way if Congress decides government supervision "can in any way increase the world supply of coffee, or aid in any way in bringing about lower prices for the American consumer."

The Senate Committee is considering legislation by Sen. Gillette (D-Iowa) which would authorize government supervision of coffee trading similar to that now operating over trading in wheat, cotton, corn and other commodities.

Chairman Aiken (R-Vt.) of the committee made public a letter from the Agriculture Department endorsing the proposed supervision.

True D. Morse, acting secretary, said in the letter:

"While there may be substantial doubt as to the justification for trading in coffee futures on an American exchange, enactment of S.1386 (Gillette bill) would enable the department to maintain surveillance of such trading and at the same time afford opportunity to evaluate the services provided by the coffee futures market."

Gillette, unable to attend today's public hearing, sent a letter saying he was convinced "that adoption of this proposal would be a major contribution toward limiting, if not entirely correcting, the potential repetition of the speculative raids which have

New York, Feb. 2 (AP)—A forger admitted today that he had cashed bogus checks for more than $100,000, including some to call girls, police said.

The prisoner, booked as Herbert Kaminski, 26, of Manhattan, reportedly confessed preying on manufacturers in the garment center here. The system was to pose as a labor union organizer, promise to drum up business for the manufacturers, and then get them to cash checks.

Kaminski, seized in a hotel last night after being traced through rogues gallery pictures, was charged with forgery.

In addition to confessing that he had victimized garment manufacturers for $100,000, police said, Kaminski also is suspected of being a member of a gang fleecing supermarkets and of a gang cashing forged Burns Detective Agency wage drafts with Burns clients.

Police Lt. Joseph Harley, commander of the forgery squad, said the bespectacled prisoner has a record of 10 arrests and has served time in prison.

Harley gave this description of Kaminski's garment center operations during the past year: He introduced himself to a manufacturer as an organizer for the AFL International Ladies Garment Workers Union and promised to increase the manufacturer's business. When the manufacturer turned his back or left the room, Kaminski stole several checks from a checkbook.

After Kaminski left the office, Harley continued, he made out one of the checks to cash for $100 to $500. He then went to a second manufacturer and, using the same ruse as a buildup, asked that the check be cashed. When the second manufacturer was not looking, Kaminski stole some of his checks. He then would fill one out, and get the first manufacturer to cash it. This went on and on.

Harley also reported:

Democrats Charge Budget Hides, Dumps Pay-Go Plan

Albany, Feb. 2 (AP)—The Democratic leaders of the Legislature charged today that Gov. Dewey's 1954-55 budget "conceals more than it reveals" and "tosses his pay-as-you-go policy into the trash can."

Sen. Francis J. Mahoney and Assemblyman Eugene F. Brannigan, minority leaders of their houses, declared in a joint statement that the Governor was using a "hatful of fiscal gimmicks" to avoid raising taxes in an election year.

They said Dewey had admitted in his annual budget measure to the Legislature "that a 350-million-dollar bond issue for mental hygiene was not necessary." The state's social welfare services felt "the impact of the Dewey meat-axe technique," they added.

Dewey called yesterday for a record spending program of $1,122,700,000 in the fiscal year that begins next April 1.

He asked for appropriations amounting to $1,113,200,000, also a record, and said the state could finish the 1954-55 fiscal year without new or higher taxes—except for an increase on pari-mutuel bets at harness racing tracks.

Despite Democratic objections, the governor's budget is expected to glide untouched through the heavily Republican Senate and Assembly.

The governor yesterday signed a bill continuing until Feb. 1, 1955, the temporary state com-

Late Bulletin

New York, Feb. 2 (AP)—Mediators saw some hope today of averting a midnight strike of oilboat and tugboat crewmen that might bring New York city fuel and food shortages.

Thomas G. Daugherty, federal mediator, and Joseph E. O'Grady, director of the city's Labor Relations Division, told reporters union leaders planned to modify their demands at a 2 p. m., meeting of union and employer representatives.

A walkout would bring one more problem to a port already beset by one strike and a battle between two rival unions.

AFL Urges Plans To Help Economy

Miami Beach, Fla., Feb. 2 (AP)—AFL leaders have urged President Eisenhower to trot out pump-priming plans immediately to soothe the nation's lagging economy.

President Eisenhower has said that he has a public works program already drafted to invoke when a depression threatens the country.

The AFL's executive council, meeting here on Florida's beaches to study Eisenhower policies and union problems, said last night unemployment has grown to the point where public works projects should be taken from the "shelf" and put into immediate effect.

"All the signs indicate we're going down hill," AFL President George Meany told newsmen. All of the nation's considerable resources won't help us if we don't use them."

AFL economists gave figures to claim that the 2,360,000 unemployed reported by the government's last census figure is a conservative estimate.

They said that without considering what should have been a normal increase in the work force, the number of jobs has declined from June to January by 3,350,000—or that one out of every 20 persons has lost his job.

Channel Master Lays Off 200

The Channel Master Corporation of Ellenville last week laid off 200 employes, most of whom had been hired since December 15 because of an unexpected upsurge in business, Louis Berger, public relations representative for the firm, said today.

The firm is continuing to employ 758 persons on three shifts, Berger said, and its volume in December and January was the largest in history.

About December 15, Berger revealed, there was a "fabulous upsurge" in business and the firm had a "tremendous backlog of orders" for television antennas. To meet this unexpected situation, an additional 250 workers were hired by the firm since that date, he said.

With the seasonal drop in business approaching and the end of the upsurge, Berger said that the employment of 200 workers was terminated.

The actual lay-off, he said, involved 140 workers. The balance was discharged for cause, including inefficiency or absenteeism he said.

The 140 laid off for business reasons were told they would receive first preference for future openings.

One reason for the drop in new orders was the snow and ice which prevented persons from going on their roofs to install antennas, Berger said. He said company officials were unable to give a reason for the sudden upsurge in business which occurred in mid-December.

About the Folks

Charles E. Saunders of Albany avenue extension has returned to his home after being a patient at Kingston Hospital.

Woman Is Injured In Ellenville Crash

One woman was injured in an automobile accident on Route 52 four miles east of Ellenville about 11:40 p. m. Monday, state police reported today.

At Veterans Memorial Hospital in Ellenville, authorities said Bessie Dina of Walker Valley was admitted to the hospital following the accident and that her visible injuries included multiple cuts and bruises. No condition report was available.

Troopers of the Ellenville station said the accident was being investigated this morning and no details were known at the present time.

Senate Group Defers Action

Washington, Feb. 2 (AP)—A Senate judiciary subcommittee today deferred action on the nomination of Earl Warren, former Republican governor of California, to be chief justice of the United States.

The five-member subcommittee first held a public hearing on the nomination and then went into closed-door session. Afterward Chairman Langer (R.-N.D.) said he would call another meeting soon. Despite the delay there appeared no doubt that Warren would win overwhelming Senate approval.

Langer, chairman of the full judiciary committee as well as the subcommittee, told newsmen that Warren has not been asked to appear at the hearings. He said he did not know whether the nominee would be called later.

At the public hearing, the subcommittee read into its records endorsements of Warren's appointment by the American Bar Association's Standing Committee on the Federal Judiciary and the Board of Governors of the California State Bar Association.

When Langer asked if anyone present wished to testify, three persons stepped forward from about a score of spectators. One testified in support of the nomination, and two urged the appointment be rejected.

Modena

Modena, Feb. 2—Members of the Plattekill town board will conduct their regular meeting Wednesday evening, Feb. 10, at the town building in Modena.

The Modena Rod and Gun Club will meet Friday evening, Feb. 12, in Hasbrouck Memorial Hall. Reports on the posting project will be made.

The Civic Association of the Town of Plattekill, of which Mrs. Lee Rognon of this place is chairman, is sponsoring a dance and entertainment to be held Saturday evening, Feb. 13, at 9 p. m. at the Villa Garcia, on the Plattekill-Ardonia county highway. Proceeds will be for the purchase of signs to be placed on local highways reading "Welcome to Plattekill Township." Donations or subscriptions received will be appreciated. Tickets for the dance may be purchased from any member of the association or Anthony Puleo. The next meeting of the association to be held in Hasbrouck Memorial Hall at Modena, on Friday evening, Feb. 19, at 8 p. m., will include the election of officers for the ensuing year.

Paul Pedersen, a student at Syracuse University, has been spending two weeks with his mother here.

Mrs. Harry Roosa and daughter Joan, also their guest Mrs. Raymond Bunora of Fostertown, were visitors in New Paltz on Wednesday.

Polio Show a Hit, New Program Is Ready for Tonight

An almost capacity turnout of 1,200 enjoyed Monday night's performance of the polio variety show at Kingston High School auditorium, where a completely new program will be presented tonight to help swell the fund for fighting infantile paralysis. Curtain time is 8 p. m.

Director Frank T. Oulton was showered with compliments for his arrangement of 11 acts, with budding young stars, and as the patrons filed out they were more than enthusiastic about his personal production, School Days, a 44-year-old skit he wrote when he was 12.

Youngsters especially took delight in the classroom scene, with Oulton playing the old German professor, and Patrolman Louis Sapp, a former husky football player, in the role of Percival, the sissy.

$2,096 in So Far

It was reported that tickets for the stage productions had reached $2,096 up to last night, with other returns piled up in the post office for tabulation today. A record crowd is anticipated tonight.

Monday's program consisted of the Cashin School of Dancing; Dianne Chirlin, recitation; Audrey Schultis Dance School; Mary Perhamus, soloist; Betty Bunce and Kathleen Mehm, acrobatic dancers; Angela Lovy, soloist, voice pupil of Miss Lina Schmidtkonz; Ralph Bauer, soloist; Mary and Bud Dance School; Shirley Albright, baton; Hillbilly Harmoneers, Max Wunderlich, accordionist and the Oulton School Days.

County Judge John M. Cashin was master of ceremonies.

Tickets at Door

Kingston High School students acted as ushers last night and will return again for tonight's production. Tickets may be purchased at the door from Howard Stephens, treasurer of Ulster county chapter.

Thursday, local entertainers will go to Saugerties to help with the polio show there.

Williamson Would Divide New York Into Five Cities

Albany, Feb. 2 (AP)—A Republican legislator who lives in Westchester county suggested today that Democratic New York be divided into five cities.

Sen. Pliny W. Williamson, a Scarsdale lawyer who practices in Manhattan, introduced a resolution today proposing creation of a legislative committee to study the problems of New York.

The purpose, he said, would be to determine whether division of the city into five cities, co-terminus with its boroughs, would help.

Williamson said the problems of the boroughs "vary to a considerable degree, and there exists a considerable diversity of interest" among them.

In Williamson's opinion, the city's problems have become so complex that the administration cannot be handled efficiently by a single executive or governmental body.

Police Ticket Cars Minus License Tab

City police placed tickets on a large number of cars parked on city streets today without 1954 license tabs.

Lt. William J. Leonard said it had been reported to police headquarters that some cars were also being driven without the tabs.

He said he wanted to emphasize that tickets which had been placed on cars were not warnings but indicated violations of state law and required payment of a fine.

If cars which have been ticketed are still on the streets after 24 hours have elapsed they will be towed away, Leonard stated.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Feb. 2 (AP)—Trading was relatively quiet today as the stock market declined moderately.

Most major divisions of the market were affected by the slip in prices, but there was no selling pressure at any stage of the fall.

At the most in a few instances, prices were off between 1 and 2 points, but both gains and losses were usually in the small fractions.

Among lower divisions were steels, railroads, oils, chemicals, aircrafts, radio-televisions, coppers, and utilities.

Motors, which were down yesterday, were somewhat mixed today as were the rubbers and distillers. The motion pictures and air lines were steady.

Late Bulletin

Albany, Feb. 2 (AP)—Gov. Dewey today signed his administration bill creating a "czar" to rule the scandal-ridden harness racing industry.

He immediately sent the name of his previously designated "czar," George P. Monaghan, a Democrat and former New York city police commissioner, to the Senate for certain confirmation this afternoon.

Monaghan was to be sworn in this afternoon in Dewey's office.

The governor signed the bill a few minutes after it had received final legislative approval in the Assembly amid Democratic claims the measure had a bid to win headlines and convince the people Dewey was putting forth something new in his moves to purge the sulky sport.

Dorsey Takes Acts To End Sentence

William Dorsey, who in February 1947 entered a plea of guilty to robbery, second degree, for an alleged hold-up at The Elms at Rosendale, was brought back from Green Haven prison Monday and given a hearing in County court on an application to vacate the sentence imposed at that time.

Charles H. Gaffney, who had represented another of the quartet allegedly involved in the robbery, was assigned as counsel.

Dorsey, then 17, along with three other men allegedly robbed The Elms. Pleas of guilty to robbery, second degree, were accepted and sentences of from 3½ to 7 years at Clinton Prison were imposed. Later it was found Dorsey and others involved were inelligible for prison sentences due to their ages and the original sentence to Clinton Prison was revoked and Dorsey went to the Elmira Reception Center there to be classified. The parole board has computed his sentence at the maximum of 15 years and Dorsey now seeks to have the court impose another sentence which will place his term at from 3½ to 7 years as originally applied.

Recently Stanley Agnew, another of the quartet involved in the robbery, had a new sentence imposed and Judge Cashin stated he would treat the Dorsey case in the same manner and impose the 3½ to 7 year term. Dorsey has been involved in a parole violation.

Four Civil Actions Listed as Settled

Four civil actions were announced settled in County court Monday when the February trial term was convened before Judge John M. Cashin. A day calendar will be made up next Monday.

Settled were:

Southeastern Fire Insurance Company against R. DuMenigo, negligence. Richard F. Russell for plaintiff and Robert Ortale for defendant.

Joseph Charles against Frederick and Eva Moone, action to set aside a deed. Hubert A. Richter for plaintiff and Hugh R. Elwyn for defendants.

Richard Jones and others against Elvin P. Davis, negligence. Howard C. St. John for plaintiff and Charles H. Gaffney for defendant.

Rosendale

Rosendale, Feb. 2—The Woman's Club of Rosendale will meet Thursday evening at the Reformed Church hall. A film on the recent coronation, in color and with sound, will be shown preceding the business session. The film will be shown promptly at 8 o'clock. All members are urged to attend. Hostesses for the meeting will be the Mmes. Peter Matthews, William Kloepfer, Louis Mastro and Carl Mihms.

A card party will be held Wednesday at the Grange Hall, starting at 8:30 p. m.

The trapshooting team of Rosendale Sportsmen's Association recently was presented a trapshooting trophy for winning the event at the annual Federation of Sportsmen's field day held in Glasco last October. This was the first time the local club won the event, although it had sponsored it many years. The trophy was presented to James Guerreri and Vincent Steeley, Sr., at the annual Federation of Sportsmen's dinner at Wittenberg on January 21. Members of the winning team include James Guerreri, Holger Rask, Vincent H. Steeley, Sr., Edward Modjeska and I. L. Merrihew.

The mid-winter communion breakfast of the Holy Name Society of St. Peter's Church, Rosendale, will take place Sunday, Feb. 14, following the regular monthly communion Mass at 9 a. m. that day. This will be a father and son communion breakfast and all members and their sons, as well as the men of the parish, are invited to attend.

Editors Ask People To Press Fight on Lawyer News Ban

Buffalo, Feb. 2 (AP) — New York state newspaper editors today solicited "the support of the people" in a protest against a New York State Bar Association proposal to impose rigid restrictions upon publication of news of criminal court cases.

The appeal of the New York State Society of Newspaper Editors came a few days after a Bar Association committee recommended that law enforcement officials be prohibited from discussing certain details of criminal cases prior or during trial.

A resolution approved at the society's winter meeting said:

"This would interfere with the people's right to know what is going on in their courts. It would automatically weaken law enforcement and increase the opportunities for concealment, collusion and miscarriage of justice."

The Bar Association tabled its committee recommendation, until summer.

Editors Resolution

The editors' group resolution also said:

"We protest and solicit the support of the people in our protest against this malevolent effort to conceal the workings of our courts from the people who maintain those courts, and whose welfare and livelihood may be at issue before those very courts.

"We consider this proposal a vicious attempt to interfere with the traditional spirit of open justice which has characterized our country since its beginning."

The editorial group declined to join the Medical Society of the State of New York in advocating a joint code of ethics for physicians' dealings with the press.

Praises Efforts

The society, however, praised the efforts of the physicians to establish a code under which their dealings with the press would be standardized. The society agreed to appoint a committee "to advise and counsel" the Medical Society in an effort to clarify relations between the medical profession and the press.

Explaining its position, the editors' group said "neither profession can concientiously submit to the effort of any professional group to establish a code of conduct which will be binding upon it.

Richard H. Amberg, publisher of the Syracuse Post-Standard and vice chairman of Governor Dewey's special legislative committee on ethics in government, led a discussion on the subject.

"If we can spell out a prohibition against use of public office for private gain, we will have made great progress in an important matter," Amberg said.

In a speech at last night's dinner session, Don J. Wickham, vice president of the New York State Farm Bureau Federation, said farmers should spearhead the fight to preserve the nation's free enterprise system.

Industry could not take the lead, he said, because it was often unjustly branded as the voice of selfish motive.

Hang Up After Ironing

You can undo the ironing job you've completed by carelessly laying down the finished garment. Since there is bound to be a small amount of moisture left in the garment, hang it up to finish drying and thus prevent creases and wrinkles.

BUILD A NEST EGG WITH A Monthly Investment Plan

Perhaps you've always thought you had to have "big money" to invest in stocks. But now, for as little as $25 (or less) each month, you can own an interest in over 50 companies. In such a supervised investment program, your shares increase with each payment. (And there's no penalty if you miss a payment). Dividends are paid in cash — or reinvested if you wish. It's a thrifty and convenient way to build a "nest egg" for your retirement or for your child's education.

AFL Urges Plans To Help Economy

Miami Beach, Fla., Feb. 2 (AP)—AFL leaders have urged President Eisenhower to trot out pump-priming plans immediately to soothe the nation's lagging economy.

President Eisenhower has said that he has a public works program already drafted to invoke when a depression threatens the country.

The AFL's executive council, meeting here on Florida's beaches to study Eisenhower policies and union problems, said last night unemployment has grown to the point where public works projects should be taken from the "shelf" and put into immediate effect.

"All the signs indicate we're going down hill," AFL President George Meany told newsmen. All of the nation's considerable resources won't help us if we don't use them."

AFL economists gave figures to claim that the 2,360,000 unemployed reported by the government's last census figure is a conservative estimate.

They said that without considering what should have been a normal increase in the work force, the number of jobs has declined from June to January by 3,350,000—or that one out of every 20 persons has lost his job.

Channel Master Lays Off 200

The Channel Master Corporation of Ellenville last week laid off 200 employes, most of whom had been hired since December 15 because of an unexpected upsurge in business, Louis Berger, public relations representative for the firm, said today.

The firm is continuing to employ 758 persons on three shifts, Berger said, and its volume in December and January was the largest in history.

About December 15, Berger revealed, there was a "fabulous upsurge" in business and the firm had a "tremendous backlog of orders" for television antennas. To meet this unexpected situation, an additional 250 workers were hired by the firm since that date, he said.

With the seasonal drop in business approaching and the end of the upsurge, Berger said that the employment of 200 workers was terminated.

The actual lay-off, he said, involved 140 workers. The balance was discharged for cause, including inefficiency or absenteeism he said.

The 140 laid off for business reasons were told they would receive first preference for future openings.

One reason for the drop in new orders was the snow and ice which prevented persons from going on their roofs to install antennas, Berger said. He said company officials were unable to give a reason for the sudden upsurge in business which occurred in mid-December.

About the Folks

Charles E. Saunders of Albany avenue extension has returned to his home after being a patient at Kingston Hospital.

Antoinette Strbich of Cementon is a patient at the Benedictine Hospital, where her condition today was reported as "fair." The Greene county sheriff's office reported she was burned about her arms last week in a fire inside her room.

The condition of Mrs. Louise Jordan of Port Ewen, who was injured January 8 in an explosion at the Hercules Powder Company, where she was employed, continues to be reported as "improving," Kingston Hospital authorities said today.

Woman Is Injured In Ellenville Crash

One woman was injured in an automobile accident on Route 52 four miles east of Ellenville about 11:40 p. m. Monday, state police reported today.

At Veterans Memorial Hospital in Ellenville, authorities said Bessie Dina of Walker Valley was admitted to the hospital following the accident and that her visible injuries included multiple cuts and bruises. No condition report was available.

Troopers of the Ellenville station said the accident was being investigated this morning and no details were known at the present time.

Senate Group Defers Action

Washington, Feb. 2 (AP)—A Senate judiciary subcommittee today deferred action on the nomination of Earl Warren, former Republican governor of California, to be chief justice of the United States.

The five-member subcommittee first held a public hearing on the nomination and then went into closed-door session. Afterward Chairman Langer (R.-N.D.) said he would call another meeting soon. Despite the delay there appeared no doubt that Warren would win overwhelming Senate approval.

Langer, chairman of the full judiciary committee as well as the subcommittee, told newsmen that Warren has not been asked to appear at the hearings. He said he did not know whether the nominee would be called later.

At the public hearing, the subcommittee read into its records endorsements of Warren's appointment by the American Bar Association's Standing Committee on the Federal Judiciary and the Board of Governors of the California State Bar Association.

When Langer asked if anyone present wished to testify, three persons stepped forward from about a score of spectators. One testified in support of the nomination, and two urged the appointment be rejected.

Modena

Modena, Feb. 2—Members of the Plattekill town board will conduct their regular meeting Wednesday evening, Feb. 10, at the town building in Modena.

The Modena Rod and Gun Club will meet Friday evening, Feb. 12, in Hasbrouck Memorial Hall. Reports on the posting project will be made.

The Civic Association of the Town of Plattekill, of which Mrs. Lee Rognon of this place is chairman, is sponsoring a dance and entertainment to be held Saturday evening, Feb. 13, at 9 p. m. at the Villa Garcia, on the Plattekill-Ardonia county highway. Proceeds will be for the purchase of signs to be placed on local highways reading "Welcome to Plattekill Township." Donations or subscriptions received will be appreciated. Tickets for the dance may be purchased from any member of the association or Anthony Puleo. The next meeting of the association to be held in Hasbrouck Memorial Hall at Modena, on Friday evening, Feb. 19, at 8 p. m., will include the election of officers for the ensuing year.

Polio Show a Hit, New Program Is Ready for Tonight

An almost capacity turnout of 1,200 enjoyed Monday night's performance of the polio variety show at Kingston High School auditorium, where a completely new program will be presented tonight to help swell the fund for fighting infantile paralysis. Curtain time is 8 p. m.

Director Frank T. Oulton was showered with compliments for his arrangement of 11 acts, with budding young stars, and as the patrons filed out they were more than enthusiastic about his personal production, School Days, a 44-year-old skit he wrote when he was 12.

Youngsters especially took delight in the classroom scene, with Oulton playing the old German professor, and Patrolman Louis Sapp, a former husky football player, in the role of Percival, the sissy.

$2,096 in So Far

It was reported that tickets for the stage productions had reached $2,096 up to last night, with other returns piled up in the post office for tabulation today. A record crowd is anticipated tonight.

Monday's program consisted of the Cashin School of Dancing; Dianne Chirlin, recitation; Audrey Schultis Dance School; Mary Perhamus, soloist; Betty Bunce and Kathleen Mehm, acrobatic dancers; Angela Lovy, soloist, voice pupil of Miss Lina Schmidtkonz; Ralph Bauer, soloist; Mary and Bud Dance School; Shirley Albright, baton; Hillbilly Harmoneers, Max Wunderlich, accordionist and the Oulton School Days.

County Judge John M. Cashin was master of ceremonies.

Tickets at Door

Kingston High School students acted as ushers last night and will return again for tonight's production. Tickets may be purchased at the door from Howard Stephens, treasurer of Ulster county chapter.

Thursday, local entertainers will go to Saugerties to help with the polio show there.

Williamson Would Divide New York Into Five Cities

Albany, Feb. 2 (AP)—A Republican legislator who lives in Westchester county suggested today that Democratic New York be divided into five cities.

Sen. Pliny W. Williamson, a Scarsdale lawyer who practices in Manhattan, introduced a resolution today proposing creation of a legislative committee to study the problems of New York.

The purpose, he said,would be to determine whether division of the city into five cities, co-terminus with its boroughs, would help.

Williamson said the problems of the boroughs "vary to a considerable degree, and there exists a considerable diversity of interest" among them.

In Williamson's opinion, the city's problems have become so complex that the administration cannot be handled efficiently by a single executive or governmental body.

Police Ticket Cars Minus License Tab

City police placed tickets on a large number of cars parked on city streets today without 1954 license tabs.

Lt. William J. Leonard said it had been reported to police headquarters that some cars were also being driven without the tabs.

He said he wanted to emphasize that tickets which had been placed on cars were not warnings but indicated violations of state law and required payment of a fine.

If cars which have been ticketed are still on the streets after 24 hours have elapsed they will be towed away, Leonard stated.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Feb. 2 (AP)—Trading was relatively quiet today as the stock market declined moderately.

Most major divisions of the market were affected by the slip in prices, but there was no selling pressure at any stage of the fall.

At the most in a few instances, prices were off between 1 and 2 points, but both gains and losses were usually in the small fractions.

Among lower divisions were steels, railroads, oils, chemicals, aircrafts, radio-televisions, coppers, and utilities.

Motors, which were down yesterday, were somewhat mixed today as were the rubbers and distillers. The motion pictures and air lines were steady.

Late Bulletin

Albany, Feb. 2 (AP)—Gov. Dewey today signed his administration bill creating a "czar" to rule the scandal-ridden harness racing industry.

He immediately sent the name of his previously designated "czar," George P. Monaghan, a Democrat and former New York city police commissioner, to the Senate for certain confirmation this afternoon.

Monaghan was to be sworn in this afternoon in Dewey's office.

The governor signed the bill a few minutes after it had received final legislative approval in the Assembly amid Democratic claims the measure had a bid to win headlines and convince the people Dewey was putting forth something new in his moves to purge the sulky sport.

Dorsey Takes Acts To End Sentence

William Dorsey, who in February 1947 entered a plea of guilty to robbery, second degree, for an alleged hold-up at The Elms at Rosendale, was brought back from Green Haven prison Monday and given a hearing in County court on an application to vacate the sentence imposed at that time.

Charles H. Gaffney, who had represented another of the quartet allegedly involved in the robbery, was assigned as counsel.

Dorsey, then 17, along with three other men allegedly robbed The Elms. Pleas of guilty to robbery, second degree, were accepted and sentences of from 3½ to 7 years at Clinton Prison were imposed. Later it was found Dorsey and others involved were inelligible for prison sentences due to their ages and the original sentence to Clinton Prison was revoked and Dorsey went to the Elmira Reception Center there to be classified. The parole board has computed his sentence at the maximum of 15 years and Dorsey now seeks to have the court impose another sentence which will place his term at from 3½ to 7 years as originally applied.

Recently Stanley Agnew, another of the quartet involved in the robbery, had a new sentence imposed and Judge Cashin stated he would treat the Dorsey case in the same manner and impose the 3½ to 7 year term. Dorsey has been involved in a parole violation.

Four Civil Actions Listed as Settled

Four civil actions were announced settled in County court Monday when the February trial term was convened before Judge John M. Cashin. A day calendar will be made up next Monday.

Settled were:

Southeastern Fire Insurance Company against R. DuMenigo, negligence. Richard F. Russell for plaintiff and Robert Ortale for defendant.

Joseph Charles against Frederick and Eva Moone, action to set aside a deed. Hubert A. Richter for plaintiff and Hugh R. Elwyn for defendants.

Richard Jones and others against Elvin P. Davis, negligence. Howard C. St. John for plaintiff and Charles H. Gaffney for defendant.

Rosendale

Rosendale, Feb. 2—The Woman's Club of Rosendale will meet Thursday evening at the Reformed Church hall. A film on the recent coronation, in color and with sound, will be shown preceding the business session. The film will be shown promptly at 8 o'clock. All members are urged to attend. Hostesses for the meeting will be the Mmes. Peter Matthews, William Kloepfer, Louis Mastro and Carl Mihms.

A card party will be held Wednesday at the Grange Hall, starting at 8:30 p. m.

The trapshooting team of Rosendale Sportsmen's Association recently was presented a trapshooting trophy for winning the event at the annual Federation of Sportsmen's field day held in Glasco last October. This was the first time the local club won the event, although it had sponsored it many years. The trophy was presented to James Guerreri and Vincent Steeley, Sr., at the annual Federation of Sportsmen's dinner at Wittenberg on January 21. Members of the winning team include James Guerreri, Holger Rask, Vincent H. Steeley, Sr., Edward Modjeska and I. L. Merrihew.

The mid-winter communion breakfast of the Holy Name Society of St. Peter's Church, Rosendale, will take place Sunday, Feb. 14, following the regular monthly communion Mass at 9 a. m. that day. This will be a father and son communion breakfast and all members and their sons, as well as the men of the parish, are invited to attend.

Editors Ask People To Press Fight on Lawyer News Ban

Buffalo, Feb. 2 (AP) — New York state newspaper editors today solicited "the support of the people" in a protest against a New York State Bar Association proposal to impose rigid restrictions upon publication of news of criminal court cases.

The appeal of the New York State Society of Newspaper Editors came a few days after a Bar Association committee recommended that law enforcement officials be prohibited from discussing certain details of criminal cases prior or during trial.

A resolution approved at the society's winter meeting said:

"This would interfere with the people's right to know what is going on in their courts. It would automatically weaken law enforcement and increase the opportunities for concealment, collusion and miscarriage of justice."

The Bar Association tabled its committee recommendation, until summer.

Editors Resolution

The editors' group resolution also said:

"We protest and solicit the support of the people in our protest against this malevolent effort to conceal the workings of our courts from the people who maintain those courts, and whose welfare and livelihood may be at issue before those very courts.

"We consider this proposal a vicious attempt to interfere with the traditional spirit of open justice which has characterized our country since its beginning."

The editorial group declined to join the Medical Society of the State of New York in advocating a joint code of ethics for physicians' dealings with the press.

Praises Efforts

The society, however, praised the efforts of the physicians to establish a code under which their dealings with the press would be standardized. The society agreed to appoint a committee "to advise and counsel" the Medical Society in an effort to clarify relations between the medical profession and the press.

Explaining its position, the editors' group said "neither profession can concientiously submit to the effort of any professional group to establish a code of conduct which will be binding upon it.

Richard H. Amberg, publisher of the Syracuse Post-Standard and vice chairman of Governor Dewey's special legislative committee on ethics in government, led a discussion on the subject.

"If we can spell out a prohibition against use of public office for private gain, we will have made great progress in an important matter," Amberg said.

In a speech at last night's dinner session, Don J. Wickham, vice president of the New York State Farm Bureau Federation, said farmers should spearhead the fight to preserve the nation's free enterprise system.

Industry could not take the lead, he said, because it was often unjustly branded as the voice of selfish motive.

Mrs. Matteson Is Reelected to Home

Mrs. B. H. Matteson of New Paltz, was unanimously reelected president, board of managers, Home for the Aged in Ulster County, at the annual meeting held recently in the home on Washington avenue.

Also elected were Mrs. C. V. Gunther, Mrs. Stanley J. Matthews and Mrs. Jacob Elting, first, second and third vice-presidents; Mrs. Leonard Flicker, good cheer chairman; Mrs. William H. Brigham, corresponding secretary; and Mrs. George M. Hard, recording secretary. Mrs. Alfred Schmid is treasurer.

New members elected to the board included the Mmes. Clyde E. Wonderly, Harry Halverson, Reynolds Carr, H. M. Cameron, Thomas Reynolds, Jack Gill, Arthur Laidlaw, Joseph Garland, and Howard St. John.

To Announce Appointments

Committee appointments will be announced soon, Mrs. Matteson told the managers. She expressed appreciation to members of committees "who served so diligently during the past year" and to the retiring officers comprising Mrs. M. Donald Lane, and Mrs. C. J. Heiselman, first and third vice-presidents; Mrs. C. C. Rose, recording secretary, and Mrs. J. L. MacKinnon, good cheer chairman.

Annual reports were submitted by the secretary and treasurer, as well as by committee chairmen. The latter reports included applications, visiting, house and purchasing, entertainment and public relations, good cheer, and auditing committees.

The secretary's report follows:

Have Had Nine Meetings

"We have had nine meetings during the year with an average attendance of 14. The Mmes. Matteson, Gunther and Lasher have attended every meeting and the Mmes. Eltinge and Rose, all but one. Meetings are held the last Thursday of the month. We have added 10 associate members, keeping our associate list in the neighborhood of 100.

"Our new president, Mrs. B. H. Matteson, has had a busy and successful year. Her committees have worked conscientiously and well. Mrs. A. Donald Lane and her visiting committee have called regularly at the home and have reported excellent conditions. Mrs. Stanley Matthews and her house committee have worked diligently to keep everything in good repair. Mrs. Cornelius Treadwell and her entertainment committee have arranged various entertainments including automobile rides for the guests. Mrs. Grover Lasher and her application committee have submitted five applications which are on file. The Good Cheer Fund, Mrs. John MacKinnon, chairman, has supplied many extras to bring cheer to the home family.

Three Deaths at Home

"There have been three deaths at the home during the year, and four new members have been added to our family.

"Donation Day was observed October 22 at the Home with good attendance. This is the annual opportunity for the residents of our county to see the home, meet the guests and enjoy the hospitality of the board and the home. A fine program was presented by Mrs. George Bond, soloist, accompanied by Mrs. Francis Smiley. Tea was served by the board of managers. Articles of food and $487 in cash were donated.

"The Ministerial Association and the Gideon Society have provided services on Sunday, which have been greatly appreciated.

"A list of donations has been published each month by The Kingston Daily Freemen. The home was made beautiful, warm, and festive place at Christmas through the tireless efforts of Mr. and Mrs. Irving Parks.

"The important event, of the year was the resignation of Mr. and Mrs. Parks, superintendents of the home, after 21 years of capable and loyal service. The board knew it would be difficult to replace management of such high quality. In November, however, the board was very fortunate in securing the services of Mr. and Mrs. Burton Tandy. Mr. Tandy had been general secretary of the local YMCA for 11 years, and resigned September 30. The Tandys have taken up their duties at the home, and we wish to extend to them a cordial welcome and good wishes for a pleasant and rewarding experience in their work.

"Any entertainment is greatly appreciated by the residents of the home, especially during the winter months when it is difficult for them to get out due to the snow and ice. The board is most grateful to all county residents, community groups, and business establishments who have in any way brought happiness to our family at the home."

The newly-elected managers were welcomed at a regular meeting following the annual meeting. Mr. and Mrs. Tandy were also introduced. Both meetings were conducted by Mrs. Matteson.

Condition Is Unchanged

Vatican City, Feb. 2 (AP)—After a week of treatment for a strength-sapping stomach condition, Pope Pius XII's condition was reported "unchanged" today. He passed a quiet and restful night, but the hiccups which have afflicted him since Jan. 26 have not gone completely, according to Vatican sources. Vatican press communiques have been reassuring and have termed the Pope's ailment "slight." But public concern over the 77-year-old pontiff's condition is growing in Rome.

Presents Money to Mother Superior

Mrs. Raymond Wells of 23 Furnace street, winner of $240 on a television show, On Your Account, Friday, Jan. 29, presents the money to the Mother Superior of the Convent of St. Anne, 287 Broadway, to be used toward repair of damage caused last December 17 when fire broke out in the Angel House, a dormitory connected with the convent. (Freeman photo)

Valentine Drive To Repair Angel House Is Launched

Operation Valentine to raise funds for the repair of Angel House, a dormitory at the Convent of St. Anne, 287 Broadway, was launched yesterday with the presentation of $240 in bills by Mrs. Raymond Wells of 23 Furnace street.

The money, won by Mrs. Wells on the WNBT television program, On Your Account, last Friday afternoon, was accepted by the Mother Superior to be used for repair of damage caused by a fire which broke out in the dormitory on the night of December 17.

The Sisters of St. Anne (Episcopal) now have their charges housed in the convent itself. They wish to be able to return them to the dormitory as soon as possible, it was reported.

A committee for Operation Valentine has been organized consisting of Mrs. Wells, chairman, the Rev. and Mrs. Harold Plummer, Mrs. Harry Kaprelian and Mrs. Rudolf Wetterau.

It is estimated that it will take at least $3,000 more than the insurance to repair the roof of Angel House and redecorate and refinish interior walls and floors. A goal of $3,000 has been set.

In an appeal to the community the committee points out that the Sisters have assisted "many others in the past, always without regard to creed or race."

Donations should be mailed to the Convent of St. Anne, Kingston.

The "Welcome" nugget of gold, which was found in Australia, weighed 248 pounds.

Ad Bill Introduced

Albany, Feb. 2 (AP)—Assemblyman Harold I. Tyler, Madison county Republican, proposes broadening the field of publications in which legal notices can be run. He offered a bill yesterday that would permit use of commercial, financial or legal journals, as well as those carrying general and local news. All would have a bona-fide circulation and have been published at least 52 consecutive weeks previously. Last year Tyler offered a similar bill, which would have allowed publication of legal notices in law or court journals, along with newspapers. It was passed by the Legislature but vetoed by Gov. Dewey.

Zenith Hearing Aids
Chicago, Illinois

Rudolph's
DEPENDABLE JEWELERS SINCE 1906
309 WALL ST.
KINGSTON, N. Y.

Dear Commander McDonald:

We've been in the hearing aid business for 7 years. Every year we think the instruments can't get any better. And every year you and your engineers prove we're wrong.

You know, of course, that we're referring to Zenith's new 3-transistor "Royal-T" with no tubes. It has made a bigger hit with our customers than any instrument we have ever seen. Without a shadow of doubt, the "Royal-T" is the equal of any hearing aid--no matter what price--and superior to many on the market. And when you consider its low price--only $125--then it stands out as even a greater bargain.

Some of our customers wonder, we're sure, just how we're able to sell such a top-quality hearing aid at such a reasonable price, especially when most other transistor aids cost considerably more than the Zenith. You know and we know one of the answers is that one, and here's what we tell our customers and prospective customers; while the profit per unit on Zenith Hearing Aids is much lower than on the more expensive aids, volume sales make the difference. Where we might sell one or two of an expensive long-profit make, we now sell many more Zeniths.

Because of the low selling price and small margin of profit on Zenith Hearing Aids, we do not accept used instruments in trade--moreover, we don't believe in selling secondhand instruments to anyone. Our customers like the fact that they can buy the Zenith "Royal-T" for only $125, keep their vacuum-tube hearing aid for a spare and have two hearing aids for less than what some other transistor aids would cost even with a trade-in allowance of $50.00 or so.

We assure our customers that quality never has been and never will be sacrificed...that back of each Zenith Hearing Aid is the expert workmanship and precision engineering of a company that has been in the electronics field for 35 years and has spent millions in research. Further, we tell them that only a company that is sure of its product could offer Zenith's 10-Day Money Back Guarantee, and back that up with a written 1-year Warranty and 5-year Service Plan.

Without exception, all of our customers are delighted with the low operating cost of the "Royal-T". They hardly believe it at first when they realize their "Royal-T" really does operate for only 15 cents a month compared to $4.50 to $9 for the vacuum-tube hearing aids. Of course, we sell fewer batteries because of this, but we sure are selling more hearing aids than ever before!

To sum up, may we just say thanks for the wonderful new 3-transistor "Royal-T".

Best wishes for continued success in Zenith's campaign for better hearing at lower cost. You and the public now know why we are proud to handle Zenith.

Sincerely yours,
B. J. Rudolph

Mrs. Matteson Is Reelected to Home

Mrs. B. H. Matteson of New Paltz, was unanimously reelected president, board of managers, Home for the Aged in Ulster County, at the annual meeting held recently in the home on Washington avenue.

Also elected were Mrs. C. V. Gunther, Mrs. Stanley J. Matthews and Mrs. Jacob Elting, first, second and third vice-presidents; Mrs. Leonard Flicker, good cheer chairman; Mrs. William H. Brigham, corresponding secretary; and Mrs. George M. Hard, recording secretary. Mrs. Alfred Schmid is treasurer.

New members elected to the board included the Mmes. Clyde E. Wonderly, Harry Halverson, Reynolds Carr, H. M. Cameron, Thomas Reynolds, Jack Gill, Arthur Laidlaw, Joseph Garland, and Howard St. John.

To Announce Appointments

Committee appointments will be announced soon, Mrs. Matteson told the managers. She expressed appreciation to members of committees "who served so diligently during the past year" and to the retiring officers comprising Mrs. M. Donald Lane, and Mrs. C. J. Heiselman, first and third vice-presidents; Mrs. C. C. Rose, recording secretary, and Mrs. J. L. MacKinnon, good cheer chairman.

Annual reports were submitted by the secretary and treasurer, as well as by committee chairmen. The latter reports included applications, visiting, house and purchasing, entertainment and public relations, good cheer, and auditing committees.

The secretary's report follows:

Have Had Nine Meetings

"We have had nine meetings during the year with an average attendance of 14. The Mmes. Matteson, Gunther and Lasher have attended every meeting and the Mmes. Eltinge and Rose, all but one. Meetings are held the last Thursday of the month. We have added 10 associate members, keeping our associate list in the neighborhood of 100.

"Our new president, Mrs. B. H. Matteson, has had a busy and successful year. Her committees have worked conscientiously and well. Mrs. A. Donald Lane and her visiting committee have called regularly at the home and have reported excellent conditions. Mrs. Stanley Matthews and her house committee have worked diligently to keep everything in good repair. Mrs. Cornelius Treadwell and her entertainment committee have arranged various entertainments including automobile rides for the guests. Mrs. Grover Lasher and her application committee have submitted five applications which are on file. The Good Cheer Fund, Mrs. John MacKinnon, chairman, has supplied many extras to bring cheer to the home family.

Three Deaths at Home

"There have been three deaths at the home during the year, and four new members have been added to our family.

"Donation Day was observed October 22 at the Home with good attendance. This is the annual opportunity for the residents of our county to see the home, meet the guests and enjoy the hospitality of the board and the home. A fine program was presented by Mrs. George Bond, soloist, accompanied by Mrs. Francis Smiley. Tea was served by the board of managers. Articles of food and $487 in cash were donated.

"The Ministerial Association and the Gideon Society have provided services on Sunday, which have been greatly appreciated.

"A list of donations has been published each month by The Kingston Daily Freemen. The home was made beautiful, warm, and festive place at Christmas through the tireless efforts of Mr. and Mrs. Irving Parks.

"The important event, of the year was the resignation of Mr. and Mrs. Parks, superintendents of the home, after 21 years of capable and loyal service. The board knew it would be difficult to replace management of such high quality. In November, however, the board was very fortunate in securing the services of Mr. and Mrs. Burton Tandy. Mr. Tandy had been general secretary of the local YMCA for 11 years, and resigned September 30. The Tandys have taken up their duties at the home, and we wish to extend to them a cordial welcome and good wishes for a pleasant and rewarding experience in their work.

"Any entertainment is greatly appreciated by the residents of the home, especially during the winter months when it is difficult for them to get out due to the snow and ice. The board is most grateful to all county residents, community groups, and business establishments who have in any way brought happiness to our family at the home."

The newly-elected managers were welcomed at a regular meeting following the annual meeting. Mr. and Mrs. Tandy were also introduced. Both meetings were conducted by Mrs. Matteson.

Condition Is Unchanged

Vatican City, Feb. 2 (AP)—After a week of treatment for a strength-sapping stomach condition, Pope Pius XII's condition was reported "unchanged" today. He passed a quiet and restful night, but the hiccups which have afflicted him since Jan. 26 have not gone completely, according to Vatican sources. Vatican press communiques have been reassuring and have termed the Pope's ailment "slight." But public concern over the 77-year-old pontiff's condition is growing in Rome.

Presents Money to Mother Superior

Mrs. Raymond Wells of 23 Furnace street, winner of $240 on a television show, On Your Account, Friday, Jan. 29, presents the money to the Mother Superior of the Convent of St. Anne, 287 Broadway, to be used toward repair of damage caused last December 17 when fire broke out in the Angel House, a dormitory connected with the convent. (Freeman photo)

Valentine Drive To Repair Angel House Is Launched

Operation Valentine to raise funds for the repair of Angel House, a dormitory at the Convent of St. Anne, 287 Broadway, was launched yesterday with the presentation of $240 in bills by Mrs. Raymond Wells of 23 Furnace street.

The money, won by Mrs. Wells on the WNBT television program, On Your Account, last Friday afternoon, was accepted by the Mother Superior to be used for repair of damage caused by a fire which broke out in the dormitory on the night of December 17.

The Sisters of St. Anne (Episcopal) now have their charges housed in the convent itself. They wish to be able to return them to the dormitory as soon as possible, it was reported.

A committee for Operation Valentine has been organized consisting of Mrs. Wells, chairman, the Rev. and Mrs. Harold Plummer, Mrs. Harry Kaprelian and Mrs. Rudolf Wetterau.

It is estimated that it will take at least $3,000 more than the insurance to repair the roof of Angel House and redecorate and refinish interior walls and floors. A goal of $3,000 has been set.

In an appeal to the community the committee points out that the Sisters have assisted "many others in the past, always without regard to creed or race."

Donations should be mailed to the Convent of St. Anne, Kingston.

Ad Bill Introduced

Albany, Feb. 2 (AP)—Assemblyman Harold I. Tyler, Madison county Republican, proposes broadening the field of publications in which legal notices can be run. He offered a bill yesterday that would permit use of commercial, financial or legal journals, as well as those carrying general and local news. All would have a bonafide circulation and have been published at least 52 consecutive weeks previously. Last year Tyler offered a similar bill, which would have allowed publication of legal notices in law or court journals, along with newspapers. It was passed by the Legislature but vetoed by Gov. Dewey.

Lyons to Leave Hospital

New York, Feb. 2 (AP)—Bronx Borough President James J. Lyons, who underwent an operation Jan. 20, will leave Harkness Pavilion of the Columbia-Presbyterian Medical Center today. His office announced yesterday that Lyons, now serving his sixth term as borough president, underwent a major operation for polypectomy of the intestines.

Zenith Hearing Aids
Chicago, Illinois

Dear Commander McDonald:

We've been in the hearing aid business for 7 years. Every year we think the instruments can't get any better. And every year you and your engineers prove we're wrong.

You know, of course, that we're referring to Zenith's new 3-transistor "Royal-T" with no tubes. It has made a bigger hit with our customers than any instrument we have ever seen. Without a shadow of doubt, the "Royal-T" is the equal of any hearing aid--no matter what price--and superior to many on the market. And when you consider its low price--only $125--then it stands out as even a greater bargain.

Some of our customers wonder, we're sure, just how we're able to sell such a top-quality hearing aid at such a reasonable price, especially when most other transistor aids cost considerably more than the Zenith. You know and we know one of the answers is that one, and here's what we tell our customers and prospective customers; while the profit per unit on Zenith Hearing Aids is much lower than on the more expensive aids, volume sales make the difference. Where we might sell one or two of an expensive long-profit make, we now sell many more Zeniths.

Because of the low selling price and small margin of profit on Zenith Hearing Aids, we do not accept used instruments in trade--moreover, we don't believe in selling secondhand instruments to anyone. Our customers like the fact that they can buy the Zenith "Royal-T" for only $125, keep their vacuum-tube hearing aid for a spare and have two hearing aids for less than what some other transistor aids would cost even with a trade-in allowance of $50.00 or so.

We assure our customers that quality never has been and never will be sacrificed...that back of each Zenith Hearing Aid is the expert workmanship and precision engineering of a company that has been in the electronics field for 35 years and has spent millions in research. Further, we tell them that only a company that is sure of its product could offer Zenith's 10-Day Money Back Guarantee, and back that up with a written 1-year Warranty and 5-year Service Plan.

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, FEBRUARY 2, 1954

LOWERING THE AGE

In his State of the Union message President Eisenhower called for a constitutional amendment which would lower the voting age to eighteen. There seems to be a great deal of sentiment in favor of the idea although most people would prefer to have it done by the states themselves. There seems to be little chance that the amendment the President asked for will be passed at this time.

The New York Times conducted a poll of governors and senators. Twenty-nine governors favored lowering the age, seven opposed it and twelve had not reached a decision. Forty-five senators favored the change, eleven opposed it, two refrained from commenting, 30 were undecided and eight could not be reached. This indicates rather strong sentiment in favor of allowing eighteen-year-old citizens full privileges of citizenship.

Perhaps getting the states to lower the age would be a better idea than trying to put through a Congressional amendment. It is well for states to bring about as many reforms as possible without interference from the federal government. But if the job is to be left to the states they must not defer action too long. If most states do not want the age lowered they discourage any attempt to pass the amendment by voting against it in their state legislatures. If they do not favor the change they can make an amendment unnecessary by the same process.

IKE'S HOUSING PROGRAM

President Eisenhower's approach to the problem of housing, as indicated in his message to Congress, represents an effort to combine the capabilities of government and private industry to find a solution. He called for 140,000 new public housing units in the next four years. But for the most part he placed reliance on private industry with some help from the government.

The President also asked for $950,000,000 for grants and loans to cities in their efforts to get rid of slums. He stressed the need to keep areas from becoming slums. The President showed his awareness of the fact that the health, prosperity and security of all Americans depends in a large measure on providing adequate housing for all Americans.

There will be few who will disagree with the President's aims although there may be some objections to his proposals on the grounds that they still represent government interference with private enterprise. Most Americans, however, will find the President's plan a wise and considered attack on a problem that has been unsolved for too long.

The slums must be cleared. Children must be given healthful and pleasant places in which they can grow into good citizens. So far as is possible this should be carried out through the initiative of private enterprise. Where it is not possible government assistance is quite in order.

HOW CONGRESS ACTS

The first of President Eisenhower's recommended laws has started on its way to passage. Any observer of Congress could have prophesied with certainty that it would be an appropriation bill. The House has just passed a measure appropriating $26,000,000 for an Air Force Academy.

While this is a desirable institution, the promptness with which it has been taken up reflects the natural congressional approval of any expenditure which might mean business for its constituents. Also, there will be Air Force cadets for each congressman to choose, just as now he nominates young men to enter West Point and Annapolis. Members of Congress can see that prospect ahead as clearly as the next person. The presidential advisers could have had no real doubt that this bill would go through.

Congress does not approve every expenditure blindly. It rejects some and cuts others. Yet a bill carrying an appropriation and a prospect of patronage has a good head-start toward passage.

Meet fire with fire is the urging commonly given those striving to get ahead. There are times, of course, when a little water might be more in order.

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

MOLOTOV'S DREAM

The Molotov Proposal to divide the world among five powers really means a line of demarcation between the United States and Soviet Russia. It is a revival of the Molotov-Ribbentrop Pact which was the basis of the Stalin-Hitler Alliance (1939).

The Molotov-Ribbentrop Pact was the immediate cause of World War II, for when its principles were applied to Poland, Great Britain accepted the gauge of war with American support. At both Teheran and Yalta, this same concept was revived, Great Britain being included but not too importantly. The United States rejected this concept of peace by demarcation and proposed the United Nations as a substitute.

Yet even in the United Nations, matters of basic principle are the province of the five permanent members of the Security Council, the United States, Soviet Russia, Great Britain, France and China, each of whom enjoys the right of an absolute veto. The practical elimination of China and the weaknes of France have given to the United States and Soviet Russia a predominance over the United Nations Security Council not anticipated at the San Francisco Conference.

The so-called smaller countries are not so small; They are only weak. The Moslem states could generate a power which could challenge Soviet Russia; the Latin American countries, if ever they united, could build an enormous power. The Molotov resurrection at Berlin of the Molotov-Ribbentrop Pact would preclude that. The River Elbe would be a dividing line in Europe; the southern boundary of China in Eastern Asia and the 38th Parallel in Western Asia. The United States would dominate the American continents and Western Europe; Russia would dominate Eastern Europe and Northern and Eastern Asia. The rest of the world they would divide between them, permitting such countries as Great Britain and France to believe that they possessed power but not permitting them to exercise it.

Ribbentrop sold this idea to Hitler, who fell into the trap and wrecked his state and himself. John Foster Dulles has already rejected it for the United States, as he had to because no American could accept the cynical immorality of such a line of demarcation. The puzzle is: why did Molotov propose it? Perhaps it was psychological: having once sold these wares to Ribbentrop, he believes that they are satisfactory wares. Or, perhaps the Russians are weary of the United Nations and want to kill it. Or maybe Molotov was just having fun.

Molotov is not known to be a humorist or even humorous. His is a dour personality. So, it is possible that Malenkov, who is utterly ignorant of the American mind, cooked this one up and assumed that Americans would like it because it would give the United States parcels of the Earth's surface and masses of population to which we are not entitled. Malenkov would therefore do well to come here and see how a free people lives and works and does not fear. I pick a paragraph from an address delivered by Senator William E. Jenner as an example of what both Molotov and Malenkov need to understand:

"We Americans have not lived for centuries free from governmental compulsion merely because we had ballot boxes. The most ruthless dictatorships of Europe made much of ballot boxes. Americans were able to keep themselves free of government direction because they lived by a creed of self-direction. Americans were their own managers, their own directors, their own commanders, their own planners."

This is a correct view of the American mind and the American personality. And such people do not wish to own other people. If only that could be understood by the Russians. it might me possible to come to some terms. For instance, while Soviet Rusia owns East Germany absolutely, the United States does not own West Germany at all; while the Soviet Empire owns North Korea, the United States does not own South Korea, as Syngman Rhee has proved by his conduct. While Communist China is part of the Soviet Universal State, Nationalist China, existing on tiny Formosa, is not part of the United States. While Guatemala is dominated by the Kremlin, no country in Latin America is dominated by the White House.

It is possible to detail this difference in a thousand instances. The Russians might find a formula for permanent peace with us in it.

DIVERTICULITIS

One of the ailments becoming increasingly common, because more people live longer than formerly, is diverticulosis of the colon, or large intestine, which consists of small pockets in the lining of the colon. When these small pockets become inflamed and pus forms, it is called diverticulitis.

While few, if any men and women die of diverticulitis, it may have many symptoms of a distressing nature.

In the Canadian Medical Association Journal, Dr. H. S. Ford, Victoria, B.C., reports a study and a six-year review of 451 cases, 50 of which required surgical treatment, during the period 1946-1951.

The usual signs and symptoms of diverticulitis of the colon usually give a history of constipation, pain in lower part of abdomen, tenderness and sometimes obstruction of the colon.

Since the discovery of antibiotics (germ killers) most cases of diverticulosis and diverticulitis are treated this way but there are a number which require surgical treatment to remove symptoms and in some cases save life.

The cases of diverticulitis which required surgical treatment are reviewed, being perforation of the colon, obstruction, fistula (opening from colon into an underlying organ), chronic inflammation of the colon, and conditions which greatly resembled cancer (30 in number).

The differentiation between cancer and diverticulitis is always difficult (Drs. W. J. Mayo and C. F. Blunt, in Surgical Clinics of North America). These two surgeons reported 30 cases in which diverticulitis was associated with cancer.

The average age of the group undergoing operation was 65 years. One-third of the group treated by surgery were between 70 and 80 years of age. "It is reasonable to expect that with the ever-increasing life expectancy this disease will become more common. The average duration of the symptoms was three years, the longest 15 years. All had reached the point at which their lives were being made miserable by repeated flare-ups requiring numerous hospital admissions."

Diverticulitis occurs most frequently in the sigmoid section, (lowest part of the colon) because of the narrow lumen, stasis, and pressure of solid faecal (waste) matter in this part of the lower bowel. At this point also, spasm may occur as spasm occurs in parts of the stomach and intestine.

How can the physician and patient know when diverticulitis is present?

The signs and symptoms in 50 cases of diverticulitis were (a) inflammation, (b) obstruction, (c) mass, (d) hemorrhage (e) diarrhoea, (f) fistula.

While there are various types of operation used according to condition found, removal of the part of the colon affected is usually done.

Edson's Washington News Notebook

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

Washington — (NEA) — Reports are just beginning to trickle back to Washington on President Eisenhower's $12-million American Christmas gift of food packages to over four million needy families in 20 countries of Western Europe, the Middle East and Latin America.

What each family got was a filled shopping bag with the U. S. foreign-aid "clasped-hands" seal of friendship, or a CARE package containing about $5 worth of groceries, retail price. It included two pounds of dried fruit, four pounds of vegetable oil shortening, a pound of rice, a pound of dried beans, two pounds of sugar, a can of beef and gravy, three cans of evaporated milk and in some cases a pound of cheese. Supplies were shipped in bulk and bagged abroad.

This will probably go down in history as one of the least publicized of U. S. good deeds. The reason is that Foreign Operations Administrator Harold E. Stassen imposed a virtual news blockout on it.

When a rich man gives Christmas turkeys to poor families on the other side of the tracks, he doesn't brag about it, Administrator Stassen told his staff. To do so would be bad taste, he explained. So the whole operation was carried on without publicity.

As a matter of fact, all FOA got out of it in the U. S. was a black eye. This came through naming four American couples—all of whom just happened to be Republicans—to go abroad and observe the Christmas give-away. All expenses were paid, plus $25 a day "consultants' " fees. This was pointed out by Democratic congressmen as too much of a coincidence. It was said that the job could have been done just as well by government people already in Europe.

Stassen explained that he wanted to get people who had nothing to do with government to go and see that the food actually went to the needy poor, and not to local political favorites. Two of the observing couples have now returned to Washington and made verbal reports to FOA headquarters in Washington.

Mrs. Oscar A. Ahlgren of Whiting, Ind., president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, and her husband watched distribution in Austria. Four hundred thousand bags of food were given out there through the U. S. Army. Bulk supplies to be distributed through the Austrian government weren't received before Christmas.

The Ahlgrens watched the operation in eight of the nine Austrian provinces, including some in the Russian zone. The Army had lists of orphans and institutions befriended in past years, and other lists were made up by churches and charity organizations, which eliminated the names of professional beggars.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Edward Howard of Excelsior, Minn., checked on distribution in Spain. Special trains were made up of bulk supplies. Carload lots were sent to the mayors of various towns. Distribution on "Three Kings' Day"—Jan. 5—was handled through local social welfare workers, each of whom was made responsible for three poor families.

Shipment of bulk supplies to Italy was delayed, so distribution there has not been completed. Mr. and Mrs. Newton Leonard of Providence, R. I., will report later on this give-away. Mrs. Leonard is president of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers.

CARE Played a Major Part

Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Gunderson of Rapid City, S. D., will report on Germany. Mrs. Gunderson is GOP national committeewoman.

In addition to these four countries, the U. S. government also sent supplies to the Greek government, for gifts to its poor. Hadassah, the Jewish women's organization, handled distribution in Israel and the American Near East Relief Agency took care of Arab refugees in Lebanon.

CARE — the Cooperative for American Relief to Europe—played a major part in this act, too. CARE distributed about 500,000 regular $1 food packages in 16 countries. Actually, they were $4 or $5 packages, subsidized by a grant from the U. S. government. The cost to the government was about $3 a package.

The CARE distribution included 200,000 packages in Germany, 47,000 in the United Kingdom, 35,000 in Greece and France, 25,000 in Yugoslavia and Italy, 15,000 in The Netherlands, 8500 in Finland, 7500 in Norway, 100,000 in Israel, 40,000 in Lebanon, 27,500 in Brazil, 20,000 in Chile, 11,000 in Peru, Bolivia and Ecuador, 10,000 in Haiti and Panama.

This great Christmas gift originated in September and it is attributed to President Eisenhower himself. Aware of the criticism that too much American aid in the past had been funneled off at the top to help the rich, and that not enough of it had trickled down to the common people, he sought to do something.

Money to finance the huge Christmas gift came from the President's $100-million fund for foreign relief, administered by FOA. Whether the experiment will be repeated next Christmas hasn't been decided.

Adoption of Democrats' Report on Beeson Would Have Far-Reaching Effects

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Feb. 2—Thought control and the punishing of a man for his previous affiliations or economic beliefs seems to be a bad thing when a "liberal" is the victim, but praiseworthy when the so-called "liberals" themselves want to keep a man out of the government of the United States.

The latest example is the action of the six Democratic members of the Senate Labor Committee who formally recommended in their report to the Senate that the nomination of Albert C. Beeson, as a member of the National Labor Relations Board, be ejected. The report says frankly that the six Democratic senators "do not question Mr. Beeson's candor, honesty or integrity," but that they do question whether his experience as a spokesman for management in collective bargaining in the past would "color" his judgment.

If adopted as a policy in the Senate, it would mean that no man hereafter could work for the Labor Board who had ever served a trade union or the management side. It would mean that an American citizen would be disqualified from holding office and would be adjudged to be devoid of "impartiality" just because he once worked on the management or labor side.

Such a rule would have disqualified Cy Ching, who recently retired as head of the U. S. Conciliation Service and who, prior to his service in the government, was employed as head of the Industrial Relations Division of the U. S. Rubber Company. Yet he did win the confidence of both labor and management.

Carried to its logical conclusion, this discriminatory policy would mean that labor mediators, arbitrators and other personnel could never qualify for service in the government in connection with the labor bureaus and boards of the government if they previously worked for management or labor. It is the most dangerous kind of persecution, and the co-called "liberals" who are sponsoring it are plainly violating the basic principle of fairness in their recommendation.

It was the late President Roosevelt—the hero of the "liberals"—who first proclaimed the doctrine of thought control in respect to appointees for government boards and commissions. In 1933, Mr. Roosevelt wrote a letter removing William E. Humphrey from the Federal Trade Commission because, as Mr. Roosevelt expressed it, he was sure that Mr. Humphrey's decision "would not go along with" the mind of the President.

This case was carried to the Supreme Court of the United States on a claim for back salary, and by a unanimous decision, the court held in May 1935 that Mr. Humphrey was a member of a "quasi-judicial" commission and therefore could not be removed for any such reason.

The National Labor Relations Board is a "quasi-judicial" commission. In selecting members for it, as is the case with judges on a court, it is a serious thing to say that man cannot be impartial after he takes the oath to perform judicial duties.

Yet one of the most noted of all "liberals," the late Senator George Norris of Nebraska, an independent, made a bitter fight against the confirmation of charges Evans Hughes to be Chief Justice because of a charge that Mr. Hughes had accepted fees as a corporation lawyer. Mr. Norris lived to retract his charge and to commend the career of Mr. Hughes.

The same kind of attack was made on Judge John J. Parker, of the U. S. Court of Appeals, who was nominated by President Hoover to the Supreme Court of the United States. Mr. Parker's confirmation was beaten by the shameful tactics of labor-union lobbyists who charged that he once had sided against labor in an important case before the federal courts. Today he is acclaimed far and wide—even by labor unions—as a truly "liberal" judge. But he never got the appointment as supreme court justice that he deserved.

When a man of good character, honesty and integrity comes up for confirmation by the Senate and his previous employment gives him experience in the subject matter, it would seem that all groups would be eager to give him a chance to serve. But the "liberals" in the Senate are playing politics, and they don't seem to mind the punitive tactics of "thought control" when they are doing the punishing.

May I suggest that, until some more permanent plan for alleviating the city's traffic problems can be put into effect, an inexpensive and immediate way of diverting some of the traffic from the uptown area would be:

1. Make a "No Left Turn" from Washington avenue into North Front street.

22 Hoffman Street
Kingston, New York
January 31, 1954

Editor, The Freeman:

I am whole heartedly in favor of the arterial-highway plan which has been suggested for our fair City of Kingston. There have been protests from various sources against this project. The one which intrigued me was the one voiced in your paper on January 29th by several citizens who would be homeless if the plan went through.

It is unfortunate that they must move to other quarters but I am quite sure the city and state would find new, suitable quarters for these people. I would like to add that no one seemed concerned when my father's business and many more businesses on three blocks involved during the Broadway crossing project were blockaded and business was very poor. Therefore, I say let the project come and watch Kingston progress!

Yours sincerely,
JASON GOUMAS

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Ciudad Trujillo, Dominican Republic, Feb. 1—As a chance of pace from my expressions of innocent amazement over the miracles wrought by Generalissimo Trujillo, a title whose grandeur always makes me snicker, I should like to trace my progress to this fictional realm in the Caribbean, starting from Brooklyn on a cold day just before Christmas. I had never sailed on a freighter so when Harry Klemfuss, once of the New York Daily News and now public relations agent of the Dominican Republic, said he could fix me up aboard the S.S. Frances of the Bull Line, a 10,000-ton ship carrying automobiles, radios, iceboxes and thousands of crates of eggs and beer to Puerto Rico and Domingo, I was glad to get away. Harry is the press agent who put over the colossal Rudy Valentino funeral for Campbell's undertaking plant in New York, an incongruous feat by a man so quiet and correct, which somehow snowballed into a historic emotional episode in the life of New York.

I had lost track of Harry Klemfuss, for years, but by coincidence we met again and in a few days Chief Inspector Conrad Rothengast, since retired from the New York Police Department, drove us over to Brooklyn not for any apprehension over the picket-lines of Joe Ryan's longshoremen, but because Mr. Rothengast had made the same voyage himself several times. He is a friend of Captain M. G. Fleming, who lives in Summit, N. J., and, for his retirement, plans not the conventional chicken-farm of ship-masters and police reporters but a mom and pop store in some non-existent dream town to sell candy bars to wet-nosed kids and to go broke selling cereal, canned stuff and an inventory of comics and detective magazines.

Captain Fleming said he would hug the coast as far as Hatteras because we had aboard us just forward of the bridge and the quarters of the captain and passengers a 40-ton yacht belonging to Laurence Rockefeller, who ships this glorified soap-dish down every winter, accompanied by his skipper, Thomas Taxter and his wife, Dorothea, a very pretty young woman, and Charles Karr, the engineer. The yacht had been towed down from Tarrytown in her own cradle and hoisted aboard by a 50-ton crane, at a cost of thousands. Shoreside carpenters were bracing her with timbers and when they finally had her secure we were two hours late getting into the stream.

The sea was moderate all the way down, but the next time the Frances came to Trujillo, Captain Fleming told us that she had rolled as much as 40 degrees for about 48 hours. I said that was almost as far as a ship could go and come back, but the captain said that old theory blew up when the Flying Enterprise lay on her side for days before she filled and sank.

We made San Juan Dec. 23 and I gave ungrudging credit to the longshoremen, who are, I understand Joe Ryan's subjects, as they tore away the lumber from Rockefeller's toy and, with extreme delicacy, hoisted her over the side and set her gently in the water where a tug waited to haul her somewhere. Rockefeller used her to snatch fish by the face around Trinidad, but she has barely enough cruising radius to cross a bathtub. They would be unloading all night with the winches going and men calling so we went ashore to the Caribe Hilton, a bizarre and very expensive resort hotel with beautiful swimming pools and a roulette layout.

Puerto Rico is an expensive ward of the United States and rather more troublesome than less because, for one reason, her equivalent of the western oakies and arkies have been taught by the Communist and Roosevelt-Truman incitation that they are underprivileged and not accountable for behavior that would land better people in prison. The superior types affect a superciliious embarrassment over this troublesome element but they themselves are a liability to the productive American taxpayer, living on subsidies and producing only a deficit for our country. A sharp contrast is seen when you come into Ciudad Trujillo where work is the habit of the people, who have pride in their independence, responsibility and achievement with the gismo shining like a national radiance above all.

We tied loose from San Juan about midnight Christmas Eve with rockets arching against the sky and ran west and south to Mayaguez to drop off more cars, tractors and eggs. I toured a slum area there rather against the purpose of a Mr. Cummings, the agent of the Bull Line, who preferred to show me the home of the richest man in town, a brew-

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, FEBRUARY 2, 1954

LOWERING THE AGE

In his State of the Union message President Eisenhower called for a constitutional amendment which would lower the voting age to eighteen. There seems to be a great deal of sentiment in favor of the idea although most people would prefer to have it done by the states themselves. There seems to be little chance that the amendment the President asked for will be passed at this time.

The New York Times conducted a poll of governors and senators. Twenty-nine governors favored lowering the age, seven opposed it and twelve had not reached a decision. Forty-five senators favored the change, eleven opposed it, two refrained from commenting, 30 were undecided and eight could not be reached. This indicates rather strong sentiment in favor of allowing eighteen-year-old citizens full privileges of citizenship.

Perhaps getting the states to lower the age would be a better idea than trying to put through a Congressional amendment. It is well for states to bring about as many reforms as possible without interference from the federal government. But if the job is to be left to the states they must not defer action too long. If most states do not want the age lowered they discourage any attempt to pass the amendment by voting against it in their state legislatures. If they do not favor the change they can make an amendment unnecessary by the same process.

IKE'S HOUSING PROGRAM

President Eisenhower's approach to the problem of housing, as indicated in his message to Congress, represents an effort to combine the capabilities of government and private industry to find a solution. He called for 140,000 new public housing units in the next four years. But for the most part he placed reliance on private industry with some help from the government.

The President also asked for $950,000,000 for grants and loans to cities in their efforts to get rid of slums. He stressed the need to keep areas from becoming slums. The President showed his awareness of the fact that the health, prosperity and security of all Americans depends in a large measure on providing adequate housing for all Americans.

There will be few who will disagree with the President's aims although there may be some objections to his proposals on the grounds that they still represent government interference with private enterprise. Most Americans, however, will find the President's plan a wise and considered attack on a problem that has been unsolved for too long.

The slums must be cleared. Children must be given healthful and pleasant places in which they can grow into good citizens. So far as is possible this should be carried out through the initiative of private enterprise. Where it is not possible government assistance is quite in order.

HOW CONGRESS ACTS

The first of President Eisenhower's recommended laws has started on its way to passage. Any observer of Congress could have prophesied with certainty that it would be an appropriation bill. The House has just passed a measure appropriating $26,000,000 for an Air Force Academy.

While this is a desirable institution, the promptness with which it has been taken up reflects the natural congressional approval of any expenditure which might mean business for its constituents. Also, there will be Air Force cadets for each congressman to choose, just as now he nominates young men to enter West Point and Annapolis. Members of Congress can see that prospect ahead as clearly as the next person. The presidential advisers could have had no real doubt that this bill would go through.

Congress does not approve every expenditure blindly. It rejects some and cuts others. Yet a bill carrying an appropriation and a prospect of patronage has a good head-start toward passage.

Meet fire with fire is the urging commonly given those striving to get ahead. There are times, of course, when a little water might be more in order.

'These Days'

MOLOTOV'S DREAM

The Molotov Proposal to divide the world among five powers really means a line of demarcation between the United States and Soviet Russia. It is a revival of the Molotov-Ribbentrop Pact which was the basis of the Stalin-Hitler Alliance (1939).

The Molotov-Ribbentrop Pact was the immediate cause of World War II, for when its principles were applied to Poland, Great Britain accepted the gauge of war with American support. At both Teheran and Yalta, this same concept was revived, Great Britain being included but not too importantly. The United States rejected this concept of peace by demarcation and proposed the United Nations as a substitute.

Yet even in the United Nations, matters of basic principle are the province of the five permanent members of the Security Council, the United States, Soviet Russia, Great Britain, France and China, each of whom enjoys the right of an absolute veto. The practical elimination of China and the weaknes of France have given to the United States and Soviet Russia a predominance over the United Nations Security Council not anticipated at the San Francisco Conference.

The so-called smaller countries are not so small; They are only weak. The Moslem states could generate a power which could challenge Soviet Russia; the Latin American countries, if ever they united, could build an enormous power. The Molotov resurrection at Berlin of the Molotov-Ribbentrop Pact would preclude that. The River Elbe would be a dividing line in Europe; the southern boundary of China in Eastern Asia and the 38th Parallel in Western Asia. The United States would dominate the American continents and Western Europe; Russia would dominate Eastern Europe and Northern and Eastern Asia. The rest of the world they would divide between them, permitting such countries as Great Britain and France to believe that they possessed power but not permitting them to exercise it.

Ribbentrop sold this idea to Hitler, who fell into the trap and wrecked his state and himself. John Foster Dulles has already rejected it for the United States, as he had to because no American could accept the cynical immorality of such a line of demarcation. The puzzle is: why did Molotov propose it? Perhaps it was psychological: having once sold these wares to Ribbentrop, he believes that they are satisfactory wares. Or, perhaps the Russians are weary of the United Nations and want to kill it. Or maybe Molotov was just having fun.

Molotov is not known to be a humorist or even humorous. His is a dour personality. So, it is possible that Malenkov, who is utterly ignorant of the American mind, cooked this one up and assumed that Americans would like it because it would give the United States parcels of the Earth's surface and masses of population to which we are not entitled. Malenkov would therefore do well to come here and see how a free people lives and works and does not fear. I pick a paragraph from an address delivered by Senator William E. Jenner as an example of what both Molotov and Malenkov need to understand;

"We Americans have not lived for centuries free from governmental compulsion merely because we had ballot boxes. The most ruthless dictatorships of Europe made much of ballot boxes. Americans were able to keep themselves free of government direction because they lived by a creed of self-direction. Americans were their own managers, their own directors, their own commanders, their own planners."

This is a correct view of the American mind and the American personality. And such people do not wish to own other people. If only that could be understood by the Russians, it might me possible to come to some terms. For instance, while Soviet Rusia owns East Germany absolutely, the United States does not own West Germany at all; while the Soviet Empire owns North Korea, the United States does not own South Korea, as Syngman Rhee has proved by his conduct. While Communist China is part of the Soviet Universal State, Nationalist China, existing on tiny Formosa, is not part of the United States. While Guatemala is dominated by the Kremlin, no country in Latin America is dominated by the White House.

It is possible to detail this difference in a thousand instances. The Russians might find a formula for permanent peace with us in it.

DIVERTICULITIS

One of the ailments becoming increasingly common, because more people live longer than formerly, is diverticulosis of the colon, or large intestine, which consists of small pockets in the lining of the colon. When these small pockets become inflamed and pus forms, it is called diverticulitis.

While few, if any men and women die of diverticulitis, it may have many symptoms of a distressing nature.

In the Canadian Medical Association Journal, Dr. H. S. Ford, Victoria, B.C., reports a study and a six-year review of 451 cases, 50 of which required surgical treatment, during the period 1946-1951.

The usual signs and symptoms of diverticulitis of the colon usually give a history of constipation, pain in lower part of abdomen, tenderness and sometimes obstruction of the colon.

Since the discovery of antibiotics (germ killers) most cases of diverticulosis and diverticulitis are treated this way but there are a number which require surgical treatment to remove symptoms and in some cases save life.

The cases of diverticulitis which required surgical treatment are reviewed, being perforation of the colon, obstruction, fistula (opening from colon into an underlying organ), chronic inflammation of the colon, and conditions which greatly resembled cancer (30 in number).

The differentiation between cancer and diverticulitis is always difficult (Drs. W. J. Mayo and C. F. Blunt, in Surgical Clinics of North America). These two surgeons reported 30 cases in which diverticulitis was associated with cancer.

The average age of the group undergoing operation was 65 years. One-third of the group treated by surgery were between 70 and 80 years of age. "It is reasonable to expect that with the ever-increasing life expectancy this disease will become more common. The average duration of the symptoms was three years, the longest 15 years. All had reached the point at which their lives were being made miserable by repeated flare-ups requiring numerous hospital admissions."

Diverticulitis occurs most frequently in the sigmoid section, (lowest part of the colon) because of the narrow lumen, stasis, and pressure of solid faecal (waste) matter in this part of the lower bowel. At this point also, spasm may occur as spasm occurs in parts of the stomach and intestine.

How can the physician and patient know when diverticulitis is present?

The signs and symptoms in 50 cases of diverticulitis were (a) inflammation, (b) obstruction, (c) mass, (d) hemorrhage (e) diarrhoea, (f) fistula.

While there are various types of operation used according to condition found, removal of the part of the colon affected is usually done.

Edson's Washington News Notebook

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

Washington — (NEA) — Reports are just beginning to trickle back to Washington on President Eisenhower's $12-million American Christmas gift of food packages to over four million needy families in 20 countries of Western Europe, the Middle East and Latin America.

What each family got was a filled shopping bag with the U. S. foreign-aid "clasped-hands" seal of friendship, or a CARE package containing about $5 worth of groceries, retail price. It included two pounds of dried fruit, four pounds of vegetable oil shortening, a pound of rice, a pound of dried beans, two pounds of sugar, a can of beef and gravy, three cans of evaporated milk and in some cases a pound of cheese. Supplies were shipped in bulk and bagged abroad.

This will probably go down in history as one of the least publicized of U. S. good deeds. The reason is that Foreign Operations Administrator Harold E. Stassen imposed a virtual news blockout on it.

When a rich man gives Christmas turkeys to poor families on the other side of the tracks, he doesn't brag about it, Administrator Stassen told his staff. To do so would be bad taste, he explained. So the whole operation was carried on without publicity.

As a matter of fact, all FOA got out of it in the U. S. was a black eye. This came through naming four American couples—all of whom just happened to be Republicans—to go abroad and observe the Christmas give-away. All expenses were paid, plus $25 a day "consultants' " fees. This was pointed out by Democratic congressmen as too much of a coincidence. It was said that the job could have been done just as well by government people already in Europe.

Stassen explained that he wanted to get people who had nothing to do with government to go and see that the food actually went to the needy poor, and not to local political favorites. Two of the observing couples have now returned to Washington and made verbal reports to FOA headquarters in Washington.

Mrs. Oscar A. Ahlgren of Whiting, Ind., president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, and her husband watched distribution in Austria. Four hundred thousand bags of food were given out there through the U. S. Army. Bulk supplies to be distributed through the Austrian government weren't received before Christmas.

The Ahlgrens watched the operation in eight of the nine Austrian provinces, including some in the Russian zone. The Army had lists of orphans and institutions befriended in past years, and other lists were made up by churches and charity organizations, which eliminated the names of professional beggars.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Edward Howard of Excelsior, Minn., checked on distribution in Spain. Special trains were made up of bulk supplies. Carload lots were sent to the mayors of various towns. Distribution on "Three Kings' Day"—Jan. 5—was handled through local social welfare workers, each of whom was made responsible for three poor families.

Shipment of bulk supplies to Italy was delayed, so distribution there has not been completed. Mr. and Mrs. Newton Leonard of Providence, R. I., will report later on this give-away. Mrs. Leonard is president of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers.

CARE Played a Major Part

Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Gunderson of Rapid City, S. D., will report on Germany. Mrs. Gunderson is GOP national committeewoman.

In addition to these four countries, the U. S. government also sent supplies to the Greek government, for gifts to its poor. Hadassah, the Jewish women's organization, handled distribution in Israel and the American Near East Relief Agency took care of Arab refugees in Lebanon.

CARE — the Cooperative for American Relief to Europe—played a major part in this act, too. CARE distributed about 500,000 regular $1 food packages in 16 countries. Actually, they were $4 or $5 packages, subsidized by a grant from the U. S. government. The cost to the government was about $3 a package.

The CARE distribution included 200,000 packages in Germany, 47,000 in the United Kingdom, 35,000 in Greece and France, 25,000 in Yugoslavia and Italy, 15,000 in The Netherlands, 8500 in Finland, 7500 in Norway, 100,000 in Israel, 40,000 in Lebanon, 27,500 in Brazil, 20,000 in Chile, 11,000 in Peru, Bolivia and Ecuador, 10,000 in Haiti and Panama.

This great Christmas gift originated in September and it is attributed to President Eisenhower himself. Aware of the criticism that too much American aid in the past had been funneled off at the top to help the rich, and that not enough of it had trickled down to the common people, he sought to do something.

Money to finance the huge Christmas gift came from the President's $100-million fund for foreign relief, administered by FOA. Whether the experiment will be repeated next Christmas hasn't been decided.

Favors Arterial Plan

22 Hoffman Street
Kingston, New York
January 31, 1954

Editor, The Freeman:

I am whole heartedly in favor of the arterial-highway plan which has been suggested for our fair City of Kingston. There have been protests from various sources against this project. The one which intrigued me was the one voiced in your paper on January 29th by several citizens who would be homeless if the plan went through.

It is unfortunate that they must move to other quarters but I am quite sure the city and state would find new, suitable quarters for these people. I would like to add that no one seemed concerned when my father's business and many more businesses on three blocks involved during the Broadway crossing project were blockaded and business was very poor. Therefore, I say let the project come and watch Kingston progress!

Yours sincerely,
JASON GOUMAS

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Ciudad Trujillo, Dominican Republic, Feb. 1—As a chance of pace from my expressions of innocent amazement over the miracles wrought by Generalissimo Trujillo, a title whose grandeur always makes me snicker, I should like to trace my progress to this fictional realm in the Caribbean, starting from Brooklyn on a cold day just before Christmas. I had never sailed on a freighter so when Harry Klemfuss, once of the New York Daily News and now public relations agent of the Dominican Republic, said he could fix me up aboard the S.S. Frances of the Bull Line, a 10,000-ton ship carrying automobiles, radios, iceboxes and thousands of crates of eggs and beer to Puerto Rico and Domingo, I was glad to get away. Harry is the press agent who put over the colossal Rudy Valentino funeral for Campbell's undertaking plant in New York, an incongruous feat by a man so quiet and correct, which somehow snowballed into a historic emotional episode in the life of New York.

I had lost track of Harry Klemfuss, for years, but by coincidence we met again and in a few days Chief Inspector Conrad Rothengast, since retired from the New York Police Department, drove us over to Brooklyn not for any apprehension over the picket-lines of Joe Ryan's longshoremen, but because Mr. Rothengast had made the same voyage himself several times. He is a friend of Captain M. G. Fleming, who lives in Summit, N. J., and, for his retirement, plans not the conventional chicken-farm of ship-masters and police reporters but a mom and pop store in some non-existent dream town to sell candy bars to wet-nosed kids and to go broke selling cereal, canned stuff and an inventory of comics and detective magazines.

Captain Fleming said he would hug the coast as far as Hatteras because we had aboard us just forward of the bridge and the quarters of the captain and passengers a 40-ton yacht belonging to Laurence Rockefeller, who ships this glorified soap-dish down every winter, accompanied by his skipper, Thomas Taxter and his wife, Dorothea, a very pretty young woman, and Charles Karr, the engineer. The yacht had been towed down from Tarrytown in her own cradle and hoisted aboard by a 50-ton crane, at a cost of thousands. Shoreside carpenters were bracing her with timbers and when they finally had her secure we were two hours late getting into the stream.

The sea was moderate all the way down, but the next time the Frances came to Trujillo, Captain Fleming told us that she had rolled as much as 40 degrees for about 48 hours. I said that was almost as far as a ship could go and come back, but the captain said that old theory blew up when the Flying Enterprise lay on her side for days before she filled and sank.

We made San Juan Dec. 23 and I gave ungrudging credit to the longshoremen, who are, I understand Joe Ryan's subjects, as they tore away the lumber from Rockefeller's toy and, with extreme delicacy, hoisted her over the side and set her gently in the water where a tug waited to haul her somewhere. Rockefeller used her to snatch fish by the face around Trinidad, but she has barely enough cruising radius to cross a bathtub. They would be unloading all night with the winches going and men calling so we went ashore to the Caribe Hilton, a bizarre and very expensive resort hotel with beautiful swimming pools and a roulette layout.

Puerto Rico is an expensive ward of the United States and rather more troublesome than less because, for one reason, her equivalent of the western oakies and arkies have been taught by the Communist and Roosevelt-Truman incitation that they are underprivileged and not accountable for behavior that would land better people in prison. The superior types affect a supercilious embarrassment over this troublesome element but they themselves are a liability to the productive American taxpayer, living on subsidies and producing only a deficit for our country. A sharp contrast is seen when you come into Ciudad Trujillo where work is the habit of the people, who have pride in their independence, responsibility and achievement with the gismo shining like a national radiance above all.

We tied loose from San Juan about midnight Christmas Eve with rockets arching against the sky and ran west and south to Mayaguez to drop off more cars, tractors and eggs. I toured a slum area there rather against the purpose of a Mr. Cummings, the agent of the Bull Line, who preferred to show me the home of the richest man in town, a brew-

Automatic Play Not Always Best

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

Some bridge plays seem pretty automatic, but that doesn't make them right. In today's hand, for example, an early trump lead seems very natural. When the hand was actually played, South thought so too, but he soon discovered his mistake.

West opened the queen of hearts, and declarer won in dummy with the king. Without going into the hand very closely, South decided that a round of trumps would make the opponents play two of their high cards on the same trick. He therefore led a low trump from dummy.

West liked this line of play so much that he enthusiastically continued it. He took his three top trumps and then led the jack of hearts.

South was now in trouble. He could make three trumps in his hand, one ruff in dummy, and five high cards in the side suits. These totaled nine tricks, leaving South one trick short of his contract.

There was no need for South to get the trumps out in a hurry. He could well afford to let the opponents make thee trump tricks regardless of how the trumps were divided.

After dummy wins the first trick with the king of hearts, declarer should cash the ace of diamonds and the ace of clubs. He then ruffs a club and leads the king of diamonds in order to discard the losing heart from the dummy.

This line of play puts South in position to ruff both a low heart and a low diamond in the dummy. He can get to his hand as often as he likes by ruffing dummy's clubs.

An over-ruff is no threat, since that will use up one of the enemy's three trumps. After that, the enemy can remove only two trumps from the dummy.

There is no way for the defenders to get three trumps out of the dummy, so South is sure to get two ruffs in the dummy. That is one trick more than he actually got, and this trick represented the difference between making the contract and going down.

The slum area certainly is not appetizing but is clean and much preferable to the horrid hutches to which a couple of hundred thousand Puerto Ricans have been enticed in the city of New York for no other purpose than political exploitation, mainly by the Communists. And even in those slums there was a sharply noticeable absence of the revolting filth of thousands of dogs which fouls the streets of New York with no paper daring to raise a protest for fear of losing the dog-owners' circulation.

Observing that one slum street was named for General Pedro Del Valle, I asked Mr. Cummings if that was my friend of the marine corps. He said yes. I gathered that the general was a Puerto Rican, which was news to me. This was Christmas Day in Mayaguez and we had a little tree in the dining room and got away that night for Trujillo, arriving at 6 a. m.

The dominican government and some of the people are morose at us for discriminating against them and in favor of Puerto Rico and Cuba in the price of sugar and the amount that we will accept from them at the premium price. Such emotions flicker and flame as conditions change, but the Cubans are, in a general way, regarded as cynical opportunists. This is partly a hangover from an attempt by the Caribbean Legion, composed of Communists, adventurous bums and dominican political exiles, to launch an armed invasion of Domingo from Cuba.

City Hall Falling Down?

Tucson, Ariz. (AP) — Old-time workers in the city hall are a little stunned by what the man who supervised its construction has to say. Architect M. H. Meanwhile, city hall workers tread lightly.

Wrong William

Reading, Pa. (AP)—Mrs. William Moyer heard someone moving about on the ground floor of her home. "Is that you William?" she inquired, thinking it was her husband. "It is William," came the reply. Mrs. Moyer turned to resume her sleep and saw her husband asleep in the bed next to her. A quick check revealed several dollars in cash and a watch had been taken from a downstairs room.

City Hall Falling Down?

Tucson, Ariz. (AP) — Old-time workers in the city hall are a little stunned by what the man who supervised its construction has to say. Architect M. H. Starkweather said the building went up according to faulty plans. He said it was unsound from the day it was built. That was in 1917. "It was falling to pieces then," Starkweather added. Meanwhile, city hall workers tread lightly.

Think It Through

By EDWARD F. HUTTON

No product or service is ever sold permanently.

It must be sold over and over again — if it is to stay sold.

Every businessman who is successful recognizes this principle and applies it. It is the bulwark of the advertising business.

Yet many a businessman is less astute when it comes to using this principle to perpetuate his constiutional right to BE in business — more vital to him than his plant or his raw materials or his own two hands.

Mr. Hutton

But he should and the time is NOW.

If free enterprise is to survive, its essential worth must be resold to the American people.

If the people mistrust business, it may be partly the fault of business which has kept the public ignorant of its problems, hopes and ambitions, of its achievements and the part it has played in maintaining the greatest nation in the world.

All this has to be sold and resold to the people, in the same way commodities and services are sold. Your "Bill of Rights" must be understood and sold to our people.

No businessman should be afraid to try the same approach that sells his toaster, washing machine or lawn mower.

No businessman should be afraid to sell the merits of his and every other person's birthright.

Highland

Highland, Feb. 1 — Lorraine Turner, worthy matron and John C. Blakely, worthy patron, were honored at a reception held by Highland Chapter, OES, at Masonic Temple. Muriel B. Cotant, associate matron, presided. Taking part in a drill during the ceremony were Mrs. Olympia D. Cottine, Mrs. Olive Thompson, Mrs. Mary Roan, Mrs. Frances Corwin, Mrs. M. Kingston, Mrs. Clara Blakely, Mrs. Stella Harp, Mrs. Jennie DuBois, Mrs. Ellen S. Rathgeb, Mrs. Betty DeMare, Mrs. Betty Marks, Mrs. Clarissa Siggelkow, Mrs. Marguerite Glenn, Miss Lorraine Needham, Mrs. Hildreth Freer and Mrs. Mae Parks. It was announced at the meeting that Mrs. Turner was made queen of Highland Chapter for 1954. Alice Scardefield, past grand matron and present grand treasurer, was honored at the meeting. The next meeting will be held in the form of a Valentine party Feb. 9. A film on Care of the Heart will be shown.

Mrs. Arthur Kurtz, musical director of the Music Study Club, accompanied a group from the Singer's Club of Poughkeepsie to New York Friday to attend a performance of Boris Gudunov.

Planning an old-time minstrel show, Lloyd Post, American Legion, and the Hose Company have set the dates of March 19 and 20 for the event. Co-chairmen are Daniel Canora for the Legion and Albert Roberts have appointed the committees: Advertising will be David Murphy, Philip DiStasi, Frank Achille, William Carter, Alex Andrews. Tickets and reservations, Michael Anzivina; stage and properties, Eugene Noe; make-up, Guy Torsone; musical director, Mrs. Harry Thorne who will be assisted by Robert Huddelston. Feb. 3 will be the first rehearsal. Harry B. Cotant, Jr., is in charge of special numbers and will meet each Wednesday night in the Legion Building for auditions.

Ralph Rraino was reelected president of Lloyd Rod and Gun Club at a meeting Tuesday night at the Legion rooms. Joseph Fillips, vice-president; Charles Casaburo, secretary; James Casaburo, treasurer, also were named. The work on the new clubhouse has halted temporarily on account of the weather. William Thompson gave a showing of several reels of hunting, fishing scenes he had taken.

St. Augustine's Church will hold its indoor bazaar Saturday, Feb. 13 and 20. The booth building committee consists of Anthony Williams, Peter Maroldt, Walter Scott, Joseph Scott, Albert Barone, Richard Ciaccarelli, Albert Roberts and Joseph Maroldt.

Man's Best Friend Vital Member of Overseas Air Wing

Man's best friend becomes foes worst enemy would about size up the situation existing at the 51st Field Intelligence Group of the 51st Air Corps Wing in Korea where Airman Second Class Delbert John Alberts, 18, of Hurley is a part in the protection of service buddies along with some help of trained German shepherds.

Airman Alberts, who has been in Korea since July 1953, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John S. Alberts, Lucas avenue extension.

Before joining this interesting work with the 51st in Korea, Airman Alberts enlisted for service August 28, 1952, and served at Sampson Air Force Base, Mitchel Field, L. I., and Camp Stoneman, Calif., before his overseas assignment.

In Selected Corps

Alberts, as are all other men in the K-9 group, is a volunteer. All personnel of the group were selected for several qualities among which are dependability, resourcefulness, patience and intelligence.

The value of the canine members of this overseas unit also is highly recognized by the Air Corps. First of all, the dogs are purchased for about $125 from the All-Japan Shepherd Dog Association but after rigid training produced by the Air Corps the dogs' value jumps to roughly $1,500.

Perhaps it is the high rate of value of these German shepherds that the men themselves feel that in case of danger, the dog comes first. Men learn to think of their dog first, and then themselves.

Dogs which are purchased for use by the Air Corps are usually between one and two years of age, not less than two feet tall and they must weigh at least 50 pounds.

'Basic' for Dogs as Well

As all service recruits must go through basic training following their induction, the German shepherds are no different. The dog's training consists of 14 days basic, 14 days advanced and 21 days with its volunteer trainer from Korea.

During the three weeks, the trainer and dog are put through their paces and the trainer learns to give and the dog to take such commands as "heel," "sit," "come," "watch," and finally "catch." Riding in a truck and becoming accustomed to gunfire also are part of the routine.

Following their return to Korea, the trainer continues training every day with a fellow trainer acting as the "enemy." The dog is repeatedly told to "watch" and then "catch" the man who uses a padded sleeve to protect himself.

Protects as Radar

The K-9 teams have a psychological advantage over anyone attempting to get inside base limits. The dog acts as a radar set, sensing danger and alerting his handler of danger within a 400-yard area. The German shepherds also enable U. S. servicemen to guard more than one prisoner effectively.

As for Airman Alberts, who, according to his parents, is vitally interested in this unusual work in Korea, he is due for rotation from the Far East later this year. Although he still has two more years of his tour of duty with the air force, Alberts is scheduled to leave Korea June 6, 1954, for the U. S., and possibly more work with the popular K-9 member of this branch of service.

EXCURSIONS IN PROMOTION

Uranium, oil, and natrual gas are three resources that promoters are peddling to gullible, unsuspecting investors. The vehicles of their promotions are risk-saturated common stocks selling at low prices. The head waiter in one of New York's leading restaurants has just bought 3,000 shares of an uranium stock for $450 — 15 cents a share.

He carries $2,000 of life insurance. It would have been far better for him to buy a $15,000 insurance contract with that $450. If his promotion fails (and 90 per cent of them do), he will take a loss he can't afford. And if it succeeds, he will continue on his road of unsound speculation, eventually getting nowhere economically.

For over 20 years I have lectured at educational institutions on corporation finance. I have spent more time talking about the element, risk, than any other subject. The understanding of risk in all its ramifications needs to be carried into the security market places of America.

The first few hundred or thousand dollars a person saves should carry a minimum of risk. That is precious money. It can be the balance-wheel of one's economic and social life. Of course, a savings bank account and an insurance program should anchor everything.

Now, when an investor buys promotion stocks for 15 cents a share, he should examine carefully the bases of that capitalization. Usually he never does. What are those bases? There are three:

1. Earning power
2. Replacement value
3. Asset value

A promotion has no established earning power. Hence, buying such stocks promising earnings is dangerous. Replacement value is a most unsatisfactory element in promotion. Maybe it isn't worth a dime. But the promoters 'hook' the public by their optimism about the asset value of their land or ideas.

Readers of these lines who are tempted to buy a lot of low-priced promotion shares should delve deeply into the methods used in establishing share prices.

For example, an uranium company plans to sell 5,000,000 common shares at 15 cents a share. If sold, they will bring $750,000. The promoters will probably collect a commission of 20 per cent or $150,000. Prospective purchasers of these shares should diligently inquire into the real value of the property being capitalized. Is it worth $600,000 after promoters' commissions or $60,000?

I have been a free lance 24 years. During this time I have answered hundreds of letters from disappointed and disillusioned promotion stockholders who have lost millions of dollars. The heartbreaking letters still come in.

America is great because of her risk-taking citizens. But the pathetic thing about some promotions is that the money employed in them is furnished by the wrong people.

Until the average investor has a $5,000 sound investment program established and $10,000 of cash and insurance values in his possession, he should have nothing to do with promotion.

I think that many uranium, oil, and natural gas promotions are badly conceived. The promoters play upon the gullible and improvident instincts of thousands of people who have never been grounded in the principles of thrift, saving and investment. And the result is that millions of dollars are lost yearly by those who can least afford such losses.

The waiter of whom I spoke earlier should have put his money in insurance or in sound securities. And that goes for like-minded people everywhere.

The Forum

(Q) "What do you think of the New York Stock Exchange's plan enabling small investors to buy stocks on partial payments?"

(A) I favor any sound plan that encourages thrifty people to buy good equities systematically out of savings. Such plans help to stabilize the economic life of those who participate in them.

Home Bureau

Specialist to Visit

Miss Sarah Manning, specialist in household management, will be in Ulster county to conduct two important meetings for the Home Bureau on Thursday, Feb. 11. Kitchen and cupboard conference leaders will meet for their final lesson at the Albany Avenue Baptist Church Hall from 9:30 a. m. until 1 p. m. At this meeting Miss Manning will discuss kitchen cupboard arrangement and storage devices that will simplify kitchen storage problems.

At 1 p. m. insurance and other savings leaders will meet at the Home Bureau office, 280 Wall street, to discuss the advisability of a project in this field next year.

To Attend Conference

Miss Everice Parsons, county home demonstration agent, and Mrs. Helen Stantial, assistant county home demonstration agent, are attending the 1954 annual extension conference for agents in Ithaca this week.

Committee to Meet

The Ulster County Home Bureau executive committee will meet February 12 at the Home Bureau Office. Miss Hazel Reed, assistant state leader from the New York State College of Home Economics, will be present.

AND IT'S COLD OUTSIDE — Maybe it's the zoom in coffee prices, but the gals seem to be going for iced tea despite the winter weather. Eight out of every 10 women among the 1500 employes patronizing the office cafeteria operated by Factory Stores at the Bridgeport Brass Company's Indianapolis plant want iced tea with their hot noon meals. ME AND MY BIG MOUTH

It was, I think, Oscar Wilde who said that "all advice is bad, but the worst advice of all is good advice."

I couldn't agree more.

F'rinstance coming up. . . .

A few years back, an actor I know stopped into see me to get my advice on breaking up with his wife. "I'm thinking of divorcing Martha and marrying Sherry Fleecon," he said. "What do you think?"

I didn't know what to say. Sherry was a weather-beaten ingenue who had worked in one of my musical shows, and the backstage stories of her armorous exploits would have made Professor Kinsey blush.

Never one to blow the whistle on a lady, I phrased my answer as tactfully as possible. "You and Sherry are both in show business," I said. "Two careers in one family, as you know, seldom work out. Besides, Martha is a fine girl. I think you ought to wait awhile before you make up your mind."

"Thanks, pal," said my visitor.

A few months later, the actor divorced his wife, and the following week I was invited to his wedding to Sherry.

At the reception, the bride gave me the frosty eye. "When you have eaten a slice of my wedding cake," she said, "you might try eating your words."

Not long after, I got a letter from Hollywood where the actor had wrangled himself a short-term contract with Metro. "Sherry and I are all washed up," it read. "I have reason to believe you knew all about her past. You pitched me a real curve when you advised me to marry her."

I wired him: "Consult a memory expert, you lug. Anyway, congratulations on getting that tomato out of your life."

Next morning I got an answering wire: "Sherry and I have reconciled. We think your telegram in exceedingly bad taste. Why, for a change, don't you mind your own business?"

That fall, the actor drove up to see me at my place in the country. "Sherry threw me over for a cameraman at Paramount and is suing me for divorce," he said. "If you want to make up for what you did, you can advise me as to whether I . . . ."

"Ask me for money," I yelped. "Ask me for my pants. But please, I beg you, don't ask me for advice."

"Stop taking it so big," said the actor. "Lately I've been thinking a lot about Martha, and I wonder if you'd mind telling her I'm in town and would like to see her. You owe me at least that much."

So, me and my big mouth, we passed the news along to Martha.

"Do you think I ought to remarry him?" she asked.

"No speak English," I said.

"Pretty, pretty, please," said Martha.

"Okay," I said, "but remember you asked for it. My advice is, don't. Right now, you represent fireside and carpet slippers to your ex, but give him a year of the old routine and he's a cinch to find himself another tomato, and you'll be back in the ash-can."

As might be expected, as soon as the actor got his divorce, Martha remarried him.

Yesterday I got a letter from her.

"Am leaving for Reno tonight," it read. "I was doing fine until you sicked that hambo on me. Why do you insist on sticking your nose into other people's business?"

Then came the crusher:

"Considering what happened to your own marriage, you're a fine one to give advice!"

Leftover Potatoes

Those leftover boiled potatoes will taste delicious if you dice them and put them into a skillet with some bacon fat. Add some diced onion and fry until golden brown, shaking the pan occasionally. Add salt and freshly-ground pepper, if necessary. Serve with a sprinkling of minced parsely or finely chopped green pepper.

EXCURSIONS IN PROMOTION

Uranium, oil, and natrual gas are three resources that promoters are peddling to gullible, unsuspecting investors. The vehicles of their promotions are risk-saturated common stocks selling at low prices. The head waiter in one of New York's leading restaurants has just bought 3,000 shares of an uranium stock for $450 — 15 cents a share.

He carries $2,000 of life insurance. It would have been far better for him to buy a $15,000 insurance contract with that $450. If his promotion fails (and 90 per cent of them do), he will take a loss he can't afford. And if it succeeds, he will continue on his road of unsound speculation, eventually getting nowhere economically.

For over 20 years I have lectured at educational institutions on corporation finance. I have spent more time talking about the element, risk, than any other subject. The understanding of risk in all its ramifications needs to be carried into the security market places of America.

The first few hundred or thousand dollars a person saves should carry a minimum of risk. That is precious money. It can be the balance-wheel of one's economic and social life. Of course, a savings bank account and an insurance program should anchor everything.

Now, when an investor buys promotion stocks for 15 cents a share, he should examine carefully the bases of that capitalization. Usually he never does. What are those bases? There are three:

1. Earning power
2. Replacement value
3. Asset value

A promotion has no established earning power. Hence, buying such stocks promising earnings is dangerous. Replacement value is a most unsatisfactory element in promotion. Maybe it isn't worth a dime. But the promoters 'hook' the public by their optimism about the asset value of their land or ideas.

Readers of these lines who are tempted to buy a lot of low-priced promotion shares should delve deeply into the methods used in establishing share prices.

For example, an uranium company plans to sell 5,000,000 common shares at 15 cents a share. If sold, they will bring $750,000. The promoters will probably collect a commission of 20 per cent or $150,000. Prospective purchasers of these shares should diligently inquire into the real value of the property being capitalized. Is it worth $600,000 after promoters' commissions or $60,000?

I have been a free lance 24 years. During this time I have answered hundreds of letters from disappointed and disillusioned promotion stockholders who have lost millions of dollars. The heartbreaking letters still come in.

America is great because of her risk-taking citizens. But the pathetic thing about some promotions is that the money employed in them is furnished by the wrong people.

Semmlers Write Of Mexico Trip

Woodstock, Feb. 1—Word has been received from Alexander Semmler composer, pianist and conductor, and his wife Eleanore Semmler, that they have arrived in Mexico City.

"What an enchanting land it is!" Mrs. Semmler writes. "The contrasts are so piecingly sharp at times that you can't believe it. Extreme wealth and poverty seem almost to go hand in hand. Within the city it is quit common to see an Indian famil; camped on the sidewalk of one of the new and beautiful houses They have nothing more than a improvised table and an old, beatn up brazier upon which they coo their food. However, while they are waiting for their dinner the men play their guitars and they all sing merrily away. I am ure the owners of the beautiful house are more concerned that the Indians about the situation. The city has grown so rapidly thatit must have pushed the poor Indians out of their huts and they ae bewildered by the encroaching civilization. They simply do not know how to cope with it."

Suburbs Fanastic

"The new suburbs, Mrs. Semmler continues, "are omething to make anyone sit u and take notice. Pedregal, which is the swankiest, has to be sen to be believed. At first we didn't know quite what to make of it. The colors are rampant and each house competes with the other in fantastic forms. The architect has planned the development to rise out of the lava fields It almost amounts to a new aesthetic thrill. After a time you beome accustomed to it and it is eally quite lovely. The dark cold rey of the lava rock creates a harmony of the colors and they begn to sing."

Mrs. Semmler repors that she has been invited to go on a bookmobile out into the Interlands. "The Benjamin Frankin Library here is doing some excdent work in public relations. I tink their work is probably moreimportant than guns. They go into remote areas with books for te natives and the Indians insist n feeding them. I hope I shall lie through it as one dare not refse to eat with them. Their graitude for the books is very touchng. Sometimes they have scarcey enough to eat themselves."

Educational Paramount

The Mexican government, Mrs. Semmler believes, is dong everything they can to eduate these people. "There is not asingle little village," she says, "vthout its modern school. The oter day I was in the Bellas Artes and there was a little Indian family there. Apparently the parents were illiterate but the little 1-year-old daughter could read. She was very proudly escortig them around and reading everything and explaining to them heir own past culture. I wish ou could have seen their faces. They were beautiful. I don't thin I have ever seen such beautiul faces anywhere in my life. I ust can't get enough of them."

Speaking of native customs, Mrs. Semmler said that Jan. 6 is the Feast of the Three Kings and that a great deal is mae of the day. "We were down in the Zocolo and had the good fortune to see some of the ritual dances of the Indians. They come from all around to pay tribute to their gods. The intensity and devotion almost makes one wish we had some of their simple faith. The principal dancer in one group was totally blind but he had a face that was almost Christ-like. I sometimes wonder if we, in our over-intellectualized civilization have anything to offer such people in place of their simplicity."

Other Side of Picture

"Of course," she concludes, "the picture is not altogether beautiful. There is much that is ugly as well as much that is beautiful. However, when you think of what these people have accomplished in the last 30 or 45 years it is tremendous. They are marching forward with terrific vitality. They will try anything. If they make mistakes they will try it again. One thing they have built is a magnificent university, but it is so far out of town that no one can get to it. So there it stands, completely empty. However, if the city continues to grow at the present tempo it will be in the heart of the city. They do have a terrific traffic problem here because they could never build a subway to take care of the moving population. I don't know how they will solve it because the buildings continue to sink. We are living in a brand new apartment house and the walls are giving in already. I do hope they won't collapse for a while yet."

Village Notes

Miss Elsa Kimball entertained a few friends at a party at her home Friday afternoon.

Mrs. Henry Cowell of Shady is leaving for New York for an extended stay there.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Cooke entertained a few friends at their home Saturday night and showed colored slides of their recent trip to Scotland on which they were accompanied by Mrs. Helen Chase.

Mr. and Mrs. Anton Otto Fischer and their daughter, Katrina, entertained Col. and Mrs. Wallingford for tea Sunday afternoon.

The art section of Time magazine, Jan. 31 carried a feature sory about Julio de Diego, painter and summer resident of this village, along with a photograph of the artist and his former wife, Gypsy Rose Lee. "Soon after he came to the U.S. from Spain in 1914," Time reports, "Painter Julio de Diego found himself with exactly 25 cents to his name. He paid a dime for a ride to the top of the Woolworth Building (then the world's tallest), and gaily flung the other 15 cents over Manhattan's skyline. Says Diego: 'I wanted to start from scratch.' "

Off-Track Bets Urged

New York (AP)—New York city's new administration may press for a law making it legal for you to post bets on horse races at the corner drug store. Mayor Robert Wagner, Jr., discussing possible action on the question, says, "It seems hypocritical to me you can make a bet inside the track, but that betting outside the track is a violation of the law."

Bills in Legislature

Albany, Feb. 2 (AP)—Candidates defeated in a close primary election would be allowed to examine the ballots, under a proposal placed before the Legislature by two Queens Republicans.

Sen. Milton Koerner and Assemblyman Samuel Rabin introduced the bill yesterday and called it a necessary "safeguard" in primary elections where paper ballots are used.

The measure would let the loser check the ballots if he lost by less than one per cent of the total valid vote. The ballots would be saved for a possible recount.

Old cars and aged drivers were the subjects of separate bills designed to give both a break.

Sen. S. Wentworth Horton of Suffolk proposed elimination duplication of effort in preparation of jury lists.

The Republican's bill would exempt towns within a county having a jury commissioner from provision that the supervisor, town clerk and assessor must compile in July a list of persons to serve as trial jurors.

Koerner and Assemblyman Vincent Pitaro, also a Queens Republican, sponsored a bill to raise, from 70 to 80 years, the maximum age limit for jurors.

"It has been established conclusively that in this day and age a man of 80 has complete control of his mental facilities," they said.

Health for All

Fashions in Pneumonia

Not so long ago, when a member of your family came down with pneumonia, you waited with fear and trembling for the crisis that meant life or death. There was little to do but wait. Today, because of the effectiveness of modern drugs, people are almost as casual about old-fashioned pneumonia as they are about the common cold. But also today we have a new-fashioned pneumonia, in some ways more distressing than the cold.

Doctors got their first inkling of this new type of pneumonia only about ten years ago when some patients failed to respond to drugs. They soon learned to recognize two quite different kinds of pneumonia: The "typical bacterial pneumonia and "atypical" or virus pneumonia.

Bacterial pneumonia strikes suddenly with sharp chest pain, chills, rapid pulse, and a cough which raises rust-colored sputum. If the patient is treated promptly with one of the new drugs, usually penicillin, he may be well within two or three days. The disease certainly is not to be taken lightly. It is probably as prevalent as ever, but the death rate has fallen dramatically.

Virus pneumonia develops slowly with occassional chills, headache, a dry, hacking cough, and a general feeling of illness. The fever does not follow any set pattern. Muscular weakness and depression often go along with the illness. The long coughing spells are hard to control. The disease is rarely fatal, but it is extremely trying.

Recovery from virus pneumonia may take several weeks, and any attempt by the patient to get back on his feet and into normal activity too quickly may cause a setback. In this respect, virus pneumonia is much more difficult to deal with than the old-fashioned kind. A setback may mean another long convalescence with weakness, fatigue and depression. It can mean another attack of virus pneumonia, because apparently the patient does not develop immunity to it.

Virus pneumonia is today a far more troublesome disease than bacterial pneumonia. Nothing seems to prevent it. No drug is definitely known to cure it. It is possible to have two or three attacks in one season. The best protection that can be prescribed is to keep the best possible general health and avoid contact with people suffering from the disease.

Miss Donna M. King Of Syracuse, Wed To Harold A. Hyatt

Miss Donna Marie King, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vincent P. King of 966 Bellevue avenue, Poughkeepsie, became the bride of Harold A. Hyatt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold A. Hyatt, Sr., of 198 Ten Broeck avenue.

The ceremony was held Saturday, Jan. 16, in St. Joseph's Chapel, Most Holy Rosary Church, Syracuse, with the Rev. John E. Carey officiating.

Escorted by her father, the bride wore a mauve wool suit with winter white accessories and a corsage of white orchids.

The sister of the bride, Miss Kathleen King, was the only attendant and maid of honor. She wore a dusty pink suit with white velvet accessories and an orchid corsage.

Thomas Turco of Glasco acted as best man.

Following the ceremony, a wedding breakfast was held at the Drumlin Country Club of Syracuse. Upon their return from a wedding trip to New York and Washington, D. C., the couple will reside in Syracuse.

Mrs. Hyatt is a graduate of Poughkeepsie High School, class of 1950, and the Benedictine Hospital School of Nursing, class of 1953. She was formerly a member of the nursing staff of the Benedictine Hospital.

Mr. Hyatt is a graduate of Kingston High School, class of 1947 and is now attending Syracuse University. He served with the U. S. Army in Germany, and attended Lehigh University prior to entering the service.

Planned Parenthood Group Participated In New York Meeting

The Ulster County Committee for Planned Parenthood participated in a meeting of the New York State League for Planned Parenthood held at the University Settlement House, New York, January 28.

The meeting is of special interest since the University Settlement House is the oldest settlement house in the country. It is also the headquarters now for the newest Planned Parenthood Center in New York state. Dr. Charles Cook, director of the settlement, receives entire credit for the equipment and decor of the new center, which was donated by the Settlement for the use of the Planned Parenthood Committee of Mothers' Health Centers.

The Ulster County Committee for Planned Parenthood finances and operates the Ulster County Maternal Health Center, 578 Broadway.

Hadassah Members Are Foster Mothers

Mrs. Oscar London, chairman of the Youth Aliyah Drive, is shown at her home during the Hadassah board meeting to plan the aid to youth.

Israel Youth to Be Helped by Hadassah Sponsored Program

Mrs. Oscar B. London announced that plans for the annual Youth Aliyah (immigration) drive by the Kingston Chapter of Hadassah are now under way. "This drive for funds," said Mrs. London, chairman, "is made to enable Youth Aliyah to maintain and expand its humane task of rebuilding young lives whose initial years were marred by misery and hopelessness."

Since nearly all Hadassah members are themselves mothers, familiar with the problems and pitfalls involved in bringing up healthy, happy youngsters, the youth Aliyah project has a special appeal that is dramatically reflected in the growth of Youth Aliyah settlements and camps throughout Israel, as noted by Mrs. London at the Hadassah Board meeting held at her home. This helps to explain the tremendous enthusiasm for the drive shown among the members, it was reported. Mrs. London and her committee of Mmes. Harry Feldman, Joseph Honig, Jack Smollen, Jennie Handler, Haskel Naigles, Benjamin Schecter, George B. Starkman, Charles Warshaw, and Sidney Wolff, will officially launch the drive today.

The task of Youth Aliyah is a continuing one. Mrs. London who herself recently returned from a trip that included a visit to Israel, says, "still the frantic, desperate need goes on. By the tens of thousands, oppressed North African and Oriental Jews pour into Israel, seeking asylum, seeking life itself. They come from a medieval world of superstitions and customs centuries behind ours. These youths must be taught everything from basic hygiene to trades and skills that will integrate them into the life of Israel. Then they, too, may build toward tomorrow and a democratic way of life."

The drive in Kingston will culminate in the Youth Aliyah Reception to be held March 24 in the Crystal Room of the Governor Clinton Hotel.

Seamon Jacobs Makes Five-City Heart Fund Tour With Dennis Day

Seamon Jacobs, son of Mrs. Harry Jacobs of this city, is accompanying Dennis Day, singing star of the Jack Benny program as well as his own TV show, on a five-city good-will tour. Mr. Day appeared on the TV production, Show of Shows, Saturday night, on behalf of the Heart Fund, and will make appearances in Philadelphia, Cincinnati and Cleveland, having already spoken in Chicago. He sang Sunday at Bellevue Hospital in New York in a benefit for the patients there.

Mrs. Jacobs visited in New York over the weekend, and was a guest of her son at the performance of Show of Shows.

Mr. Jacobs has done extensive script writing for both television and radio, for Ken Murray, Pinky Lee, Fred Allen, and at present, the Beulah show on radio. Mr. and Mrs. Jacobs, whose home is in Beverly Hills, Calif., recently adopted a son.

Miss Gladys Stoutenburgh

Mr. and Mrs. Spencer Stoutenburgh of 22 Ann street announce the engagement of their daughter, Gladys A. Stoutenburgh, to Pfc. Ronald Rice, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Rice of 159 Mary's avenue.

Pfc. Rice is now with the U. S. Marine Corps.

Youth in China Subject of Talk By WSCS Speaker

Mrs. Clyde Wonderly spoke on the topic, Spanish-speaking Americans in the U. S., at a meeting of the Women's Society of Christian Service held at St. James Methodist Church Wednesday.

Mrs. Wonderly then introduced Mrs. Mary Chidester, a resident of New Mexico for some time, who gave an extensive report on the Allison-James School in Santa Fe, under the direction of Presbyterians.

Miss Ruth Harris of New York, guest speaker at the afternoon meeting, spent four years in China as a missionary, and gave a report on conditions among the young people there. Noting hunger as a world problem, she said that the work of Food and Agricultural Organization is aiming toward improving the methods of production and distribution of food. International trade, tariffs, and understanding play their part in the determination of the distribution of food to poorer countries, the speaker concluded.

Miss Harris is associated with the Christian Social Relations Department of the WSCS at the Methodist Headquarters in New York and works with the Methodist representative to the United Nations.

Two Houses to Care For

A reader explains: "My husband's sister lives next door to us. Her husband died a year ago but she still maintains the house, alone. Whenever anything has to be done around the house, such as putting up screens, taking them down, or any other repairs that have to be made, she calls upon my husband to do them. It is not that I don't want him to help his sister, but it seems she always has something that has to be done, and my husband spends most of his free time over there doing things for her. As a result our own house is often neglected. I think she is taking advantage of his good nature and I am really very annoyed over it, but I don't know what to do about it. I am appealing to you for whatever help you can offer in tactfully dealing with this situation."

The obvious thing for you to do is to discuss this matter with your husband, and if there is something of importance to do at home he should explain this to his sister. On the other hand, if he has nothing to do at home it would be very selfish of him to refuse to help her.

A Revolving Door

Dear Mrs. Post: I am involved in a question of courtesy which I would like you to settle if you will. The question is: When going through a revolving door should the man go first so that he may push the door, which is quite heavy, for her?

Answer: She gets in first and he pushes it around to the next compartment where he gets in. From this he can control the speed of the door and quite easily let her out.

A Lady's Flowers

Dear Mrs. Post: When a lady wears a corsage pinned on her coat when going to dinner in a restaurant, what does she do with it at the table?

Answer: She takes it off and pins it on her dress. It would serve no purpose hanging on her coat and would risk being buffeted by every person passing.

Hospital Auxiliary Volunteer Service Helps Patients

Mrs. Parker Brinnier, president of the Kingston Hospital Auxiliary, gave praise and encouragement to the members who are active in the auxiliary's new volunteer project. These members assist with the admission of new patients, routine X-rays, sorting and delivering mail, and delivering flowers to the patients.

This service has proved to be helpful to the hospital, and the auxiliary members enjoy the volunteer program, Mrs. Brinnier added. It was stressed, however, that more volunteers from the auxiliary are needed as the program is maintained five days a week, from 9 a. m. to 11 a. m. and from 1 p. m. to 3 p. m.

Mrs. Vincent Carr, chairman of the sewing committee, distributed articles for mending to the members present at the meeting held at the Nurses' Home.

Mrs. Brinnier expressed appreciation to Mrs. Chester B. Van Gaasbeek who distributed Christmas gifts to the patients at the hospital on Christmas Day. Each lady received a corsage, and each man a tie, and all children were given a toy. Appreciation was also expressed to Stanley Matthews for his donation, and to Mrs. Roy Sutliff who donated all the material and decorated the hospital.

It was reported that Mrs. Frederic W. Holcomb, Sr., Mrs. Austin R. Newcombe and Mrs. Harold S. Loughran acted as guides Tuesday afternoon for a tour of the hospital by the Kingston Ministerial Association.

Mrs. John Wilke, treasurer of this year's annual dance to be given by the auxiliary, reported that all indications point to a successful event. The dance will be held Saturday night at the Governor Clinton Hotel, with proceeds to be used to carry on projects.

Mrs. Elissa Kuhn was welcomed as a new member and as an active member of the volunteer program.

Fololwing the business meeting, refreshments were served by Mrs. Adrian Kaplan and Mrs. George C. Rifenbary, hostesses for the evening. A social hour followed.

Italian Street Scene Is Theme of Bazaar

A bazaar to resemble an Italian street scene is being planned under the auspices of the Woman's Auxiliary of St. Peters Episcopal Church in Stone Ridge for the afternoon and evening of Monday, July 5.

The sidewalk cafe will serve afternoon tea from 2 to 6 p. m. after which Italian spaghetti and coffee will be available until 9 p. m. in the evening. A fortune teller will be on hand during the afternoon.

There will be a midway and children's bazaar and all kinds of entertainment. Pony rides, magician, fish pond, specialty dances, beauty contest, hurdy gurdy, street singers, square dancing in the evening and possibly a celebrity or two.

The booths will be many: aprons, fancy goods, a pantry shelf with home baked goods and canned Italian foods; a flower cart with real orchids from Honolulu; an art exhibit and artist; the market place, baskets, bags, toys and games and a booth for kiddy clothes; and a photographer to take pictures. Mrs. Charles C. Walden Jr., Mrs. H. G. Trelawney and Mrs. H. Edgar Timmerman from West Shokan are chairmen.

Hadassah Members Are Foster Mothers

Mrs. Oscar London, chairman of the Youth Aliyah Drive, is shown at her home during the Hadassah board meeting to plan the aid to youth.

Israel Youth to Be Helped by Hadassah Sponsored Program

Mrs. Oscar B. London announced that plans for the annual Youth Aliyah (immigration) drive by the Kingston Chapter of Hadassah are now under way. "This drive for funds," said Mrs. London, chairman, "is made to enable Youth Aliyah to maintain and expand its humane task of rebuilding young lives whose initial years were marred by misery and hopelessness."

Since nearly all Hadassah members are themselves mothers, familiar with the problems and pitfalls involved in bringing up healthy, happy youngsters, the youth Aliyah project has a special appeal that is dramatically reflected in the growth of Youth Aliyah settlements and camps throughout Israel, as noted by Mrs. London at the Hadassah Board meeting held at her home. This helps to explain the tremendous enthusiasm for the drive shown among the members, it was reported. Mrs. London and her committee of Mmes. Harry Feldman, Joseph Honig, Jack Smollen, Jennie Handler, Haskel Naigles, Benjamin Schecter, George B. Starkman, Charles Warshaw, and Sidney Wolff, will officially launch the drive today.

The task of Youth Aliyah is a continuing one. Mrs. London who herself recently returned from a trip that included a visit to Israel, says, "still the frantic, desperate need goes on. By the tens of thousands, oppressed North African and Oriental Jews pour into Israel, seeking asylum, seeking life itself. They come from a medieval world of superstitions and customs centuries behind ours. These youths must be taught everything from basic hygiene to trades and skills that will integrate them into the life of Israel. Then they, too, may build toward tomorrow and a democratic way of life."

The drive in Kingston will culminate in the Youth Aliyah Reception to be held March 24 in the Crystal Room of the Governor Clinton Hotel.

Seamon Jacobs Makes Five-City Heart Fund Tour With Dennis Day

Seamon Jacobs, son of Mrs. Harry Jacobs of this city, is accompanying Dennis Day, singing star of the Jack Benny program as well as his own TV show, on a five-city good-will tour. Mr. Day appeared on the TV production, Show of Shows, Saturday night, on behalf of the Heart Fund, and will make appearances in Philadelphia, Cincinnati and Cleveland, having already spoken in Chicago. He sang Sunday at Bellevue Hospital in New York in a benefit for the patients there.

Mrs. Jacobs visited in New York over the weekend, and was a guest of her son at the performance of Show of Shows.

Mr. Jacobs has done extensive script writing for both television and radio, for Ken Murray, Pinky Lee, Fred Allen, and at present, the Beulah show on radio. Mr. and Mrs. Jacobs, whose home is in Beverly Hills, Calif., recently adopted a son.

Italian Street Scene Is Theme of Bazaar

A bazaar to resemble an Italian street scene is being planned under the auspices of the Woman's Auxiliary of St. Peters Episcopal Church in Stone Ridge for the afternoon and evening of Monday, July 5.

The sidewalk cafe will serve afternoon tea from 2 to 6 p. m. after which Italian spaghetti and coffee will be available until 9 p. m. in the evening. A fortune teller will be on hand during the afternoon.

There will be a midway and children's bazaar and all kinds of entertainment. Pony rides, magician, fish pond, specialty dances, beauty contest, hurdy gurdy, street singers, square dancing in the evening and possibly a celebrity or two.

The booths will be many: aprons, fancy goods, a pantry shelf with home baked goods and canned Italian foods; a flower cart with real orchids from Honolulu; an art exhibit and artist; the market place, baskets, bags, toys and games and a booth for kiddy clothes; and a photographer to take pictures. Mrs. Charles C. Walden Jr., Mrs. H. G. Trelawney and Mrs. H. Edgar Timmerman from West Shokan are chairmen.

Beauty, Comfort Offered

Here's a preview of the shoes you will be wearing next summer for fun in the sun. They're going along on winter vacations right now, are lightweight and easy to pack. Natural colored raffia (upper left) has red band across the vamp, comes with flexible cork-and-crepe sole that cushions the foot. Washable braid in multi-color (upper right) makes sandal that has straps over the instep to give it firm fit. Denim, important in other fashions for resort wear, makes its appearance here, too. Slip-on (lower left) is charcoal denim with soft cushion insole and lightweight, thick corrugated rubber-and-cork sole. New indoor-outdoor style (lower right) comes in a number of colors, each with white awning stripe vamp. This washable shoe has natural crepe sole.—By Gaile Dugas, NEA Woman's Editor.

Final Legislative Action Slated on Races in Assembly

Albany, Feb. 2 (AP)—Against the background of Democratic charges of "window dressing" the Republican-controlled Assembly moved today toward final legislative approval of Gov. Dewey's bill creating a "czar" to rule the scandal-pocked harness racing industry.

The bill was passed by the GOP-dominated Senate last night, 38-16. Democrats voted against it on the grounds that:

1. Virtually all of the provisions are now in the state law.

2. The measure was an act of "political expediency" on the part of Gov. Dewey to catch headlines and "fool" the people into thinking he was taking "vigorous steps" to purge the sulky-sport mess.

Republican senators asserted that the measure was another step in Dewey's redemption of a pledge to clean up the sport.

Dewey has designated George P. Monaghan, a Democrat and former New York city police commissioner, to be the "czar" of the sport. He will take office at a salary of $18,490 a year, plus $3,000 "in lieu of expenses." He will serve until July 1, 1961.

Monaghan will replace the three-member, non-salaried harness racing commission, which just about threw in the sponge last fall after revelations that a racket-tinged union whose leader was slain dictated the hiring of hundreds of Yonkers Raceway employes, including a number of ex-convicts.

Monaghan's Powers

The bill makes Monaghan a one-man commission with power to:

Investigate the activities of any firm or group financially interested in a harness racing association before granting a license to conduct a meeting with pari-mutuel betting.

Refuse a license because of any objection to the "experience, character and general fitness" of any official or stockholder in a racing association.

Revoke and suspend licenses for an extensive list of causes.

Grant temporary or conditional licenses while any questions about applicants are being decided.

Probe details of leases, contracts, concessions, labor-management agreements and management details of harness tracks.

Appoint investigators and deputies to attend harness racing meetings at pari-mutuel tracks.

What Bill Provides

Require holders of licenses to meet whatever conditions he lays down for the "protection of the public."

The bill provides that Monaghan's membership on the four-man Moreland Act Commission now investigating the sport shall expire June 31.

Sen. Austin W. Erwin led the Republican debate in favor of the bill. The Geneseo Republican called it "the first big step in the redemption of Gov. Dewey's pledge, made with the first disclosures about harness racing last fall, to turn harness racing upside down and shake it."

Sen. Harry Gittleson of Brooklyn, chief spokesman for the Democrats, said that the "czar" was the brain-child of Gov. Dewey, who, he declared, was "trying to fool the state."

Democrats Charge

mission on the courts. He acted just after the Senate had given the measure, introduced by Assemblyman Samuel Rabin, Queens Republican, final legislative approval.

These measures also won final approval in the Legislature:

1. By a unanimous vote in the Senate, an administration bill to provide state aid for an estimated 150,000 deaf and hard-of-hearing children.

2. By a unanimous vote in the Senate, a measure to continue until July 1, 1955, scholarships for 1,200 war veterans (Assemblyman Angelo Graci, R-Queens).

3. By a unanimous vote in the Senate, a bill to continue until Feb. 15, 1955, the temporary state commission studying the financial operations of the state and its municipalities.

4. By a unanimous vote in the Assembly, a proposal to extend the temporary state commission on fire laws until Feb. 1, 1955 (Sen. S. Wentworth Horton, R-Suffolk).

Dewey is expected to sign all four bills.

Mahoney and Bannigan declared that Dewey's proposal for a 350-million-dollar bond issue to build mental hospitals was a "device being used to lock up the income from the war bonus taxes so as to avoid construction of critically needed schools."

Both houses have passed bills to implement the bond-issue plan. One of the measures provides that the bonds would be repaid with revenues from the state's war bonus taxes—a penny-a-pack levy on cigarettes and 10 per cent of the full rate on incomes.

The Democrats had sought to delay the mental hospital bond proposal until next year and substitute a 500-million-dollar bond plan for state aid to school construction. When that move was defeated, they voted unanimously for the mental hospital bonds.

The proposal must be submitted to the voters next fall in a referendum at the general election.

Sen. Walter F. Mahoney, Republican majority leader, said the budget was "tailored to the times." Assembly Speaker Oswald D. Heck, speaking for the GOP majority in the House, said it "shows that government properly administered can be progressive and still avoid extravagances."

Roosevelt Charges Letter Blackmail, Denies Adultery

Los Angeles, Feb. 2 (AP)—James Roosevelt, denying his wife's charges that he committed adultery with 12 women, says he was being black-mailed when he signed a letter admitting nine infidelities.

He says he knew the letter to be false, but he signed it to keep his wife from suing for divorce in 1945, and thereby adding to his father's burdens as President.

This was the answer given in a prepared statement yesterday by the eldest son of the late Franklin D. Roosevelt.

He said also that he will decide before April 2 whether he will run for Congress in the 26th District. Some Democratic party leaders have said they believe he can best serve the party by withdrawing.

Roosevelt announced some time ago his intention to seek the office. April 2 is the final date on which to declare candidacy.

Charges Are Made

Mrs. Romelle Schneider Roosevelt made the charges in filing suit for separate maintenance last Thursday. The letter was filed with her complaint. A preliminary hearing on her demand for support payments has been set for Friday.

"My wife has chosen to make the most ugly accusation which it is possible to make against any man," Roosevelt's statement said. "Each and every allegation of misconduct by the 12 persons mentioned with me is completely false and without foundation."

Roosevelt offered "an especial apology to the nine women named in the letter signed by him.

"Each and every one of them is completely innocent of any misconduct with me," he said. "The harm which has been done them I can never repair, but I can and do emphasize their innocence, ask their forgiveness and understanding of this unfortunate incident."

Says Wife Unreasonable

From the very beginning, Roosevelt said, his wife dsplayed an "unreasoning demand for material security" and developed "an unreasoning fear and jealousy" of his social contacts. The result was "a calculated campaign" to transfer to her all his material assets "and a constant threat to accuse me of imaginary infidelities," he said.

"This pattern reached its climax in the early part of 1945, when I was depeatedly faced with the demand that I acknowledge these imaginary happenings and, as she put it, 'purge my soul,'" his statement said.

"I was given an alternative. She stated that if I once did this she would forever cease these demands and begin our marital life anew. If I did not, she would proceed with a divorce naming all individuals."

This, said Roosevelt, was when he was entering the fifth year of service with the marine corps and when he was "very much below par physically," having contracted malaria and other disabilities in the South Pacific. He said he was promised that if he would sign a letter prepared by attorneys it would never be made public and in time would be destroyed.

His Further Reasons

"That it was blackmail I now recognize, but my desire to keep these innocent people from unjustified attacks while I was overseas and unable to defend myself, my desire to make, if possible, a success of my marriage and my desire to prevent any anguish to my own family led me to believe in the sincerity of my wife's statement," Roosevelt said.

Upon his return from service he made every effort to "achieve a successful marriage," and he believed his wife finally was convinced that her charges were imaginative when they proceeded to have their three children, the statement said. But, he added, her imagined financial insecurity and various psychological factors involved in the marriage "so affected my wife that she had made living together impossible."

"Threats of divorce or suicide," he said, "were an almost daily occurrence."

Mrs. Roosevelt was hospitalized in April, 1948, after taking sleeping pills but police listed the occurrence as an accident.

Roosevelt said that he had turned over to his wife almost all that he possessed in community property and property he owned before their marriage. The insurance man, now 46, described as "an utter and complete falsehood" her statement in an affidavit that he was worth about two million dollars.

His lawyer, Samuel B. Picone, said in a statement that Mrs. Roosevelt has property in her possession valued at more than $90,000, while Roosevelt has a deficit of $28,000. Picone said Roosevelt's life insurance policies, assigned to Mrs. Roosevelt, have a face value of $100,000 and an actual cash value of $21,060. Bonds and stocks in her possession, Picone added, amount to $69,051.

Arthur S. Schifferman, counsel for Mrs. Roosevelt, said she would have no comment until Roosevelt's statement had been carefully studied.

"But a good many don't seem to be interested at all."

Teacher, School

licits your help, as its members stated December 3 when the teachers request for increased pay was brought before that body by representatives of the Kingston Teachers Association and the Kingston Teachers Federation.

"We have to put the true picture before the public," President Clarence S. Rowland said at that time, suggesting an educational program "to show what the people of Kingston are getting for what they are spending."

"We are just the agent of the voters," said William Rylance, a member of the board. "The thing shouldn't be sidestepped."

Richard Kalish, another member, said he felt the teachers "have a case" which should be submitted to public opinion, pointing out that people didn't like to pay higher taxes but that at the same time they wanted the best possible grade of teacher.

Attorney Louis G. Bruhn, board member, agreed with Kalish that the public should be apprised of the situation but called attention to the fact that it was the board's responsibility to recommend or oppose an increase in the school tax.

Teachers Explain Request

The teachers are asking for a $500 cost of living adjustment for 1953-54 and an increase of approximately $1,000 for each teacher for the year 1954-55.

The teachers point out, however, that part of the increase would come from natural increments and that the figure would be substantially reduced by Dewey - recommended additional state aid.

By natural increments they mean that each year a number of teachers are automatically advanced to the next higher pay grade. Under the present schedule 217 teachers are due for increases of from $150 to $300, amounting to a total of $51,350.

Dewey legislation for an additional $25,000,000 in state aid would mean at least $300 more for each teacher in the local system, according to the teacher organizations. This would amount to $70,800 for the city's 236 teachers.

Total Is $122,150

This means that natural increments and state aid together would amount to $122,150 for the school year 1954-55.

The city must provide, therefore, only from $400 to $550 more for each teacher—not $1,000, the teachers claim.

The original $1,000 would be reduced $300 in additional state aid, which is expected to pass at this session, producing a figure of $700. This would again be reduced by natural increment under the local schedule. If a teacher received an increment of $300 it would reduce the $700 to $400. If the teacher received an increment of $150 it would reduce the $700 to $550.

Thus, at most, the teachers point out it would cost the community only from $400 to $550 more for each teacher.

Morale is Factor

The request for increased pay is a matter of public concern. It concerns not only the teacher—but the child as well. It concerns the morale of the teacher and, consequently, in a real sense, the morale of the child.

It concerns the quality of the teaching and the reflection of its results in the child.

It is for these reasons, among others, a very difficult question which requires the careful and considered attention of all residents of the community—as parents, as taxpayers and as citizens of a democracy.

Attorney Louis G. Bruhn, board member, agreed with Kalish that the public should be apprised of the situation but called attention to the fact that it was the board's responsibility to recommend or oppose an increase in the school tax.

Teachers Explain Request

The teachers are asking for a $500 cost of living adjustment for 1953-54 and an increase of approximately $1,000 for each teacher for the year 1954-55.

The teachers point out, however, that part of the increase would come from natural increments and that the figure would be substantially reduced by Dewey - recommended additional state aid.

By natural increments they mean that each year a number of teachers are automatically advanced to the next higher pay grade. Under the present schedule 217 teachers are due for increases of from $150 to $300, amounting to a total of $51,350.

Dewey legislation for an additional $25,000,000 in state aid would mean at least $300 more for each teacher in the local system, according to the teacher organizations. This would amount to $70,800 for the city's 236 teachers.

Total Is $122,150

This means that natural increments and state aid together would amount to $122,150 for the school year 1954-55.

The city must provide, therefore, only from $400 to $550 more for each teacher—not $1,000, the teachers claim.

The original $1,000 would be reduced $300 in additional state aid, which is expected to pass at this session, producing a figure of $700. This would again be reduced by natural increment under the local schedule. If a teacher received an increment of $300 it would reduce the $700 to $400. If the teacher received an increment of $150 it would reduce the $700 to $550.

Thus, at most, the teachers point out it would cost the community only from $400 to $550 more for each teacher.

Morale is Factor

The request for increased pay is a matter of public concern. It concerns not only the teacher—but the child as well. It concerns the morale of the teacher and, consequently, in a real sense, the morale of the child.

It concerns the quality of the teaching and the reflection of its results in the child.

It is for these reasons, among others, a very difficult question which requires the careful and considered attention of all residents of the community—as parents, as taxpayers and as citizens of a democracy.

Giants Trade Thomson For Braves' Antonelli

Milwaukee, Feb. 2 (AP)—The Milwaukee Braves sliced into the best pitching staff in the National League yesterday to secure the long distance hitting of the New York Giants' Bobby Thomson in the Braves' second big player trade of the winter.

To get the brilliant, veteran outfielder Thomson and second string catcher Sam Calderone the Braves had to give up lefthanded pitchers Johnny Antonelli and Don Liddle, utility catcher Ebba St. Clair and rookie Billy Klaus, plus an undisclosed amount of cash.

"Bobby Thomson definitely is my left fielder," Braves manager Charlie Grimm said.

"I want Bobby to hit behind Eddie Mathews," Grimm explained. "He's got a lot of speed and is a hard man to double. Believe me, that boy won't hit into many double plays. What's more, Thomson hits a long ball and can break up a game at any time with that blow over the fence."

His Famous Homer

It was a long blow that gave Thomson a place in baseball history in the final game of the 1951 pennant playoff. With the Dodgers leading 4-2 in the last of the ninth inning, one out and runners on second and third, Thomson drove a pennant-winning home run into the stands.

The Giants could afford to let Thomson go because they have Willie Mays, 1951 Rookie of the Year, coming back from the Army to play centerfield.

The trade still leaves Grimm with his top pitcher Warren Spahn, and Chet Nichols, Bobby Buhl, Lew Burdette, Joey Jay and Gene Conley, veterans like Vern Bickford, Jim Wilson and Ernie Johnson are on hand, in addition to rookies Phil Paine and Ray Crone.

Giants Manager Leo Durocher said, "We certainly hated to part with Bobby Thomson." He added that his club made the trade because the Giants needed pitchers.

"We are pretty high on both Johnny Antonelli and Don Liddle," he added. "We'll know more about how we stand when spring practice begins."

Consistent Slugger

The 30-year-old Thomson, reportedly sought by the Braves since last September, in the last three years has been most consistent in hitting. In 1951 he had 32 homers, 101 RBI's and a .293 average; in 1952, 24 homers, 101 RBI's and .270; last year, 26 homers, 106 RBI's and .288.

Antonelli, a regular starter last year who won't be 24 until April, received a bonus, reportedly $65,000, for signing with the Braves in 1948. Despite illness and injuries last year, he posted a 12-12 record and an excellent 3.19 earned run average.

Liddle, who is 27, was used mostly in relief and had a 3.07 earned run average in his first year in the majors. St. Claire, 32, had a .200 batting mark in 33 games. Klaus is up from Toledo of the American Association, where he batted .275 in 144 contests.

Calderone, who will be 27 on Saturday, batted .222 last summer in 35 contests.

In an earlier trade this winter, the Braves landed infielder Danny O'Connell from Pittsburgh for Sid Gordon and Max Surkont and four minor league players and a sizeable chunk of cash.

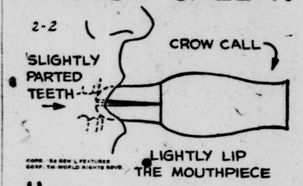
HOW TO SOUND A CROW CALL...



HOLDING CROW CALL BETWEEN LEFT-HAND'S THUMB AND INDEX FINGER, PUT MOUTHPIECE BETWEEN LIPS AND AGAINST THE SLIGHTLY PARTED TEETH. DO NOT BITE OR HOLD CALL WITH THE MOUTH.

USE THE DIAPHRAGM MUSCLES OF YOUR CHEST, SPASM-LIKE, TO GRUNT, "UNH! UNH! UNH!" VOCALLY, THROUGH THE CALL. GRUNTING IS LOST IN THE RAUCOUS CALL'S SOUND. YOU CAN'T PRODUCE THE CORRECT SOUND BY MERELY BLOWING THE CALL. EFFORT (SINGER-LIKE) SHOULD BEGIN DEEP DOWN IN CHEST. AVOID FILLING CALL WITH SALIVA BY MOUTHING IT ONLY TO CALL.

Greene Supports Christenberry's Idea of Levy

Paterson, N. J., Feb. 2 (AP)—Abe Greene, Commissioner of the National Boxing Association, today proposed a two per cent levy on all TV network boxing shows to set up a national fund to help the small clubs.

Greene's idea was an extension of a recent suggestion by Bob Christenberry, chairman of the New York State Athletic Commission, for a two per cent levy in New York state.

"The national fund would be managed by the NBA, TV chains, leading promoters and managers," said Greene. "It would be used to pump life and vitality into regularly organized boxing clubs that have fought depressions and tried to keep alive under murderous conditions."

Under Greene's plan, small clubs in all states, not just one would be helped.

"We have records on the clubs that have been operating for many years on a weekly or regular basis. Take the Newark club, for instance. It has been in operation for 30 years and now is struggling with a local TV show against tremendous odds.

A New York committee including representatives of the Commission, the International Boxing Club, Eastern Parkway and a Syracuse club, already is working on Christenberry's proposal to help the New York clubs.

Fourth Title Near for Howe

Montreal, Feb. 2 (AP)—Detroit's Gordie Howe, steadily closing in on his fourth straight National Hockey League individual scoring crown, held a five point lead over Maurice (The Rocket) Richard of Montreal today.

The flashy Red Wing right winger picked up four points last week, all on assists, to bring his total to 54. Richard gained two points and now has 49. The Canadien ace tops the circuit in goals with 29.

Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrion, Montreal's fiery forward, is third with 45 points.

Fred Glover of the Cleveland Barons holds the American Hockey League record of goals scored in consecutive games. In 1950-51, Glover scored in 11 games in a row.

Frank Leahy resigning the most important college football job in the country will touch off considerable speculation as to why The Master of the Fighting Irish threw in the sponge.

Ill health is the obvious reason and prime motivating factor but there are intangibles that will furnish reams of copy for the nation's sports writers, his friends and critics.

To us Frank Leahy remains synonymous with one of the most dramatic speeches we ever heard. Actually, it wasn't a speech but an introduction woven in the tapestry of superb rhetorics by the late Father Henry E. Herdegen of Kingston.

It was the occasion of Coach Leahy's appearance before the Kingston Athletic Association and for the more than 350 persons who heard it, Father Herdegen's speech was an unforgettable masterpiece.

A tremendous orator in his own right, even Leahy was so overwhelmed by the brilliant rhapsody in words that it took him at least a minute to recover his composure and settle down to his speech.

The response to Father Herdegen's speech on the outside was amazing. We recall being flooded with telephone calls and letters from persons seeking a copy of the introduction speech. But none was available. Father Herdegen had spoken off the cuff and from the heart. Under those circumstances it is often impossible for a man to recreate verbatim his remarks.

We implored Father Herdegen to try to recreate the speech but it was to no avail. "I couldn't do it if I tried for a year," he remarked.

Things were piling up on the man the late Knute Rockne taught football strategy from a hospital bed. A year ago his so-called illegal shift, designed to draw opposing linesmen into offsides, was severely criticized by the press and the coaching fraternity.

During the 1953 season the "fake injuries" perpetrated by that deathless thespian, tackle Frank Varrichone, enabled the Fighting Irish to score two last-second touchdowns against Iowa and preserve a 14-14 tie and an unbeaten season.

The full wrath of the press and the coaching brotherhood descended upon Leahy and Notre for that incident. The same thing had been pulled countless times in football's history and there was the incident of Larry Kelly of Yale using the ancient dodge to help the Bulldogs score an important victory over Princeton. But this was Frank Leahy and Notre Dame and that made it different.

The NCAA football coaches at their recent convention sounded off in high and mighty phrases about the unethical and unsportsmanlike aspects of Varrichone's conduct, as though it was the first it had ever happened. But when it came time to write remedial legislation into the rule book the football committee lacked the courage to stand up and be counted. Instead it recommended a piddling directive be sent to all members of the NCAA urging them to put player and coach on their honor to avert such incidents in the future. You cannot legislate morals and Varrichones will rise again in the future.

At the NCAA convention came further evidence that something was happening to Frank Leahy and Notre Dame. The Irish coach, a proud man, at the last minute cancelled a scheduled speech. There was sharp speculation whether Leahy voluntarily yielded the time alloted for the address or his hand was pushed by the man who announced his resignation Sunday, Father Theodore Hesburgh, the university president. The subject of the talk, allegedly, was to be Leahy's rebuttal to widespread criticism of the fake injury episodes.

Frank Leahy collapsed between halves of a terrific battle between the Irish and a powerful Georgia Tech squad riding on a 35-game winning streak. His detractors and critics snidely insinuated that maybe The Master was pulling a psychological stunt to inspire the South Bend legions to heroic efforts. Later events proved that sort of reasoning to be false and vindictive.

Then came another episode not calculated to smooth Leahy's woes. The incident (or shall we say fracas?) that tossed star backs Ralph Guglielmi and Joe Heap out of Notre Dame was more involved than the public knows and it must have hurt Leahy, who takes great pride in his men. But l'affaire curfew has been patched and the boys are taking makeup exams to get back in school.

The feeling here is that it took more than stomach trouble to get Frank Leahy to throw in the towel.

Roland Post, who was wined and dined by the Lake Katrine Rod and Gun Club Saturday night, was in the spotlight again last night when his 636 series in the Independent League was the highest in the city.

The prominent nimrod reeled off scores of 188, 223 and 225. Milt Cole Sr. shot 235 for high single in the league.

Top woman bowler (no surprise) was Rose Schatzel with 146-194-190 for 530 in the Woman's Major. Rita La Rocca's 209 was high single.

Elsie Dykes earned both marks in the Matinee Club with 181 and 503. Barbara Shults did likewise with 185 and 475 in the Woman's Junior Major.

Pauline Hutton (158) and Joan Krueger (437) were top bowlers in the BYA League.

Ernie Bartroff took it all with 195-219-174 for 588 in the men's Junior Major.

Hermie Sickler Hits 27 Points To Lead Scorers

Improved Violets Beat St. Joseph's

Hermie Sickler was the principal reason why Newkirk Aces tasted defeat for the first time this season, last night in the Recreation Senior League.

Hermie unloaded 27 points—most of them on clutch shots—as Sickler's Delivery smeared the previously unsullied Newkirk record with a 71-65 setback.

It was touch and go most of the way with the Deliverymen leading by a point, 16-15, at the quarter and 33-32 at halftime.

The Aces trailed by two going into the stretch run and a valiant effort by Don Smith, who scored 23 points, failed to close the gap.

Sickler and Smith each hit with 10 baskets, with the former adding seven conversions and Smith three. Vince Van Bramer scored 14 and Don Ferraro and Jackson each had 10 for the winners. Phil McCluskey contributed 17 points to the Newkirk total. Bob Kozlowski 11 and Tiano 10.

Violets Win

A much improved Violet squad defeated St. Joseph's, 51-46, in the other game, gaining their final margin in the fourth quarter.

Ronnie Brandt and Jim Woods tallied 13 points apiece for Violets and John Culjak rimmed 11. Ronnie Ashdown of St. Joseph's was individual leader with 16. Dawkins and Thurin hit 10 apiece.

Milwaukee, Feb. 2 (AP)—The Milwaukee Braves sliced into the best pitching staff in the National League yesterday to secure the long distance hitting of the New York Giants' Bobby Thomson in the Braves' second big player trade of the winter.

To get the brilliant, veteran outfielder Thomson and second string catcher Sam Calderone the Braves had to give up lefthanded pitchers Johnny Antonelli and Don Liddle, utility catcher Ebba St. Clair and rookie Billy Klaus, plus an undisclosed amount of cash.

"Bobby Thomson definitely is my left fielder," Braves manager Charlie Grimm said.

"I want Bobby to hit behind Eddie Mathews," Grimm explained. "He's got a lot of speed and is a hard man to double. Believe me, that boy won't hit into many double plays. What's more, Thomson hits a long ball and can break up a game at any time with that blow over the fence."

His Famous Homer

It was a long blow that gave Thomson a place in baseball history in the final game of the 1951 pennant playoff. With the Dodgers leading 4-2 in the last of the ninth inning, one out and runners on second and third, Thomson drove a pennant-winning home run into the stands.

The Giants could afford to let Thomson go because they have Willie Mays, 1951 Rookie of the Year, coming back from the Army to play centerfield.

The trade still leaves Grimm with his top pitcher Warren Spahn, and Chet Nichols, Bobby Buhl, Lew Burdette, Joey Jay and Gene Conley, veterans like Vern Bickford, Jim Wilson and Ernie Johnson are on hand, in addition to rookies Phil Paine and Ray Crone.

Giants Manager Leo Durocher said, "We certainly hated to part with Bobby Thomson." He added that his club made the trade because the Giants needed pitchers.

"We are pretty high on both Johnny Antonelli and Don Liddle," he added. "We'll know more about how we stand when spring practice begins."

Consistent Slugger

The 30-year-old Thomson, reportedly sought by the Braves since last September, in the last three years has been most consistent in hitting. In 1951 he had 32 homers, 101 RBI's and a .293 average; in 1952, 24 homers, 10 RBI's and .270; last year, 26 homers, 106 RBI's and .288.

Antonelli, a regular starter last year who won't be 24 until April, received a bonus, reportedly $65,000, for signing with the Braves in 1948. Despite illness and injuries last year, he posted a 12-12 record and an excellent 3.19 earned run average.

Liddle, who is 27, was used mostly in relief and had a 3.07 earned run average in his first year in the majors. St. Claire, 32, had a .200 batting mark in 33 games. Klaus is up from Toledo of the American Association, where he batted .275 in 144 contests.

Calderone, who will be 27 on Saturday, batted .222 last summer in 35 contests.

In an earlier trade this winter, the Braves landed infielder Danny O'Connell from Pittsburgh for Sid Gordon and Max Surkont and four minor league players and a sizeable chunk of cash.

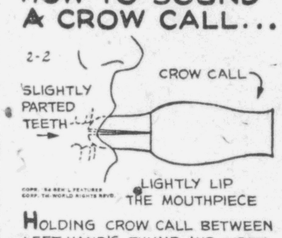
HOW TO SOUND A CROW CALL...



HOLDING CROW CALL BETWEEN LEFT-HAND'S THUMB AND INDEX FINGER, PUT MOUTHPIECE BETWEEN LIPS AND AGAINST THE SLIGHTLY PARTED TEETH. DO NOT BITE OR HOLD CALL WITH THE MOUTH.

USE THE DIAPHRAGM MUSCLES OF YOUR CHEST, SPASM-LIKE, TO GRUNT, "UNH! UNH! UNH!" VOCALLY, THROUGH THE CALL. GRUNTING IS LOST IN THE RAUCOUS CALL'S SOUND. YOU CAN'T PRODUCE THE CORRECT SOUND BY MERELY BLOWING THE CALL. EFFORT (SINGER-LIKE) SHOULD BEGIN DEEP DOWN IN CHEST. AVOID FILLING CALL WITH SALIVA BY MOUTHING IT ONLY TO CALL.

Greene Supports Christenberry's Idea of Levy

Paterson, N. J., Feb. 2 (AP)—Abe Greene, Commissioner of the National Boxing Association, today proposed a two per cent levy on all TV network boxing shows to set up a national fund to help the small clubs.

Greene's idea was an extension of a recent suggestion by Bob Christenberry, chairman of the New York State Athletic Commission, for a two per cent levy in New York state.

"The national fund would be managed by the NBA, TV chains, leading promoters and managers," said Greene. "It would be used to pump life and vitality into regularly organized boxing clubs that have fought depressions and tried to keep alive under murderous conditions."

Under Greene's plan, small clubs in all states, not just one would be helped.

"We have records on the clubs that have been operating for many years on a weekly or regular basis. Take the Newark club, for instance. It has been in operation for 30 years and now is struggling with a local TV show against tremendous odds.

A New York committee including representatives of the Commission, the International Boxing Club, Eastern Parkway and a Syracuse club, already is working on Christenberry's proposal to help the New York clubs.

Fourth Title Near for Howe

Montreal, Feb. 2 (AP)—Detroit's Gordie Howe, steadily closing in on his fourth straight National Hockey League individual scoring crown, held a five point lead over Maurice (The Rocket) Richard of Montreal today.

The flashy Red Wing right winger picked up four points last week, all on assists, to bring his total to 54. Richard gained two points and now has 49. The Canadien ace tops the circuit in goals with 29.

Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrion, Montreal's fiery forward, is third with 45 points.

Sicklers Upset Newkirk Aces, 71-65

SPORTS By Charles J. Tiano Sports Editor

Frank Leahy resigning the most important college football job in the country will touch off considerable speculation as to why The Master of the Fighting Irish threw in the sponge.

Ill health is the obvious reason and prime motivating factor but there are intangibles that will furnish reams of copy for the nation's sports writers, his friends and critics.

To us Frank Leahy remains synonymous with one of the most dramatic speeches we ever heard. Actually, it wasn't a speech but an introduction woven in the tapestry of superb rhetorics by the late Father Henry E. Herdegen of Kingston.

It was the occasion of Coach Leahy's appearance before the Kingston Athletic Association and for the more than 350 persons who heard it, Father Herdegen's speech was an unforgettable masterpiece.

A tremendous orator in his own right, even Leahy was so overwhelmed by the brilliant rhapsody in words that it took him at least a minute to recover his composure and settle down to his speech.

The response to Father Herdegen's speech on the outside was amazing. We recall being flooded with telephone calls and letters from persons seeking a copy of the introduction speech. But none was available. Father Herdegen had spoken off the cuff and from the heart. Under those circumstances it is often impossible for a man to recreate verbatim his remarks.

We implored Father Herdegen to try to recreate the speech but it was to no avail. "I couldn't do it if I tried for a year," he remarked.

Things were piling up on the man the late Knute Rockne taught football strategy from a hospital bed. A year ago his so-called illegal shift, designed to draw opposing linesmen into offsides, was severely criticized by the press and the coaching fraternity.

During the 1953 season the "fake injuries" perpetrated by that deathless thespian, tackle Frank Varrichone, enabled the Fighting Irish to score two last-second touchdowns against Iowa and preserve a 14-14 tie and an unbeaten season.

The full wrath of the press and the coaching brotherhood descended upon Leahy and Notre for that incident. The same thing had been pulled countless times in football's history and there was the incident of Larry Kelly of Yale using the ancient dodge to help the Bulldogs score an important victory over Princeton. But this was Frank Leahy and Notre Dame and that made it different.

The NCAA football coaches at their recent convention sounded off in high and mighty phrases about the unethical and unsportsmanlike aspects of Varrichone's conduct, as though it was the first it had ever happened. But when it came time to write remedial legislation into the rule book the football committee lacked the courage to stand up and be counted. Instead it recommended a piddling directive be sent to all members of the NCAA urging them to put player and coach on their honor to avert such incidents in the future. You cannot legislate morals and Varrichones will rise again in the future.

At the NCAA convention came further evidence that something was happening to Frank Leahy and Notre Dame. The Irish coach, a proud man, at the last minute cancelled a scheduled speech. There was sharp speculation whether Leahy voluntarily yielded the time alloted for the address or his hand was pushed by the man who announced his resignation Sunday, Father Theodore Hesburgh, the university president. The subject of the talk, allegedly, was to be Leahy's rebuttal to widespread criticism of the fake injury episodes.

Frank Leahy collapsed between halves of a terrific battle between the Irish and a powerful Georgia Tech squad riding on a 35-game winning streak. His detractors and critics snidely insinuated that maybe The Master was pulling a psychological stunt to inspire the South Bend legions to heroic efforts. Later events proved that sort of reasoning to be false and vindictive.

Then came another episode not calculated to smooth Leahy's woes. The incident (or shall we say fracas?) that tossed star backs Ralph Guglielmi and Joe Heap out of Notre Dame was more involved than the public knows and it must have hurt Leahy, who takes great pride in his men. But l'affaire curfew has been patched and the boys are taking makeup exams to get back in school.

The feeling here is that it took more than stomach trouble to get Frank Leahy to throw in the towel.

Hermie Sickler Hits 27 Points To Lead Scorers

Improved Violets Beat St. Joseph's

Hermie Sickler was the principal reason why Newkirk Aces tasted defeat for the first time this season, last night in the Recreation Senior League.

Hermie unloaded 27 points—most of them on clutch shots—as Sickler's Delivery smeared the previously unsullied Newkirk record with a 71-65 setback.

It was touch and go most of the way with the Deliverymen leading by a point, 16-15, at the quarter and 33-32 at halftime.

The Aces trailed by two going into the stretch run and a valiant effort by Don Smith, who scored 23 points, failed to close the gap.

Sickler and Smith each hit with 10 baskets, with the former adding seven conversions and Smith three. Vince Van Bramer scored 14 and Don Ferraro and Jackson each had 10 for the winners. Phil McCluskey contributed 17 points to the Newkirk total, Bob Kozlowski 11 and Tiano 10.

Violets Win

A much improved Violet squad defeated St. Joseph's, 51-46, in the other game, gaining their final margin in the fourth quarter.

Ronnie Brandt and Jim Woods tallied 13 points apiece for Violets and John Culjak rimmed 11. Ronnie Ashdown of St. Joseph's was individual leader with 16. Dawkins and Thurin hit 10 apiece.

Leahy Predicts Brennan Great Coach Despite Tender Years

South Bend, Ind., Feb. 2 (AP)—In less than a full day's time Notre Dame rocked the football world with sudden, successive announcements that ended the glory-filled reign of Frank Leahy and started youthful Terry Brennan on a big-time coaching career.

The school's millions of followers barely had time to compose themselves after the unexpected news of Leahy's departure before they learned that the 25-year-old Brennan, an assistant coach, was succeeding him.

The Leahy announcement came at 6 p. m. Sunday, the one about Brennan just 19 hours later—at 1 p. m. Monday.

Thus was Notre Dame football leadership transferred from the hands of one of modern coaching's most successful and dominant personalities to those of a virtual youngster, untried by college coaching standards.

Both Startling

It would be difficult to determine which of the two announcements had the greater impact, but both certainly were startling.

Leahy, 45, stepped down because of worry over his health after a Notre Dame career that, in success on the field, was second only to his onetime teacher, the late, immortal Knute Rockne.

The astonishment that prevailed at Leahy's departure was equalled—or nearly so—when the Rev. Theodore Hesburgh, Notre Dame president, tabbed Brennan to succeed him.

It was felt by many observers that Terry's age would prevent serious consideration for what is probably the most pressure-packed college coaching job in the country.

However, Father Hesburgh, the Rev. Edmund T. Joyce, vice president, and other school officials apparently agreed with Leahy that young Brennan was a good bet for success in his first responsible college coaching position.

Praise From Leahy

Said Leahy, commenting on the choice of Brennan:

Terry is a very talented young man who borders almost on the genius as a coach. His age is no barrier. Coaching is a young man's game. Terry will make good."

The university gave Brennan a three-year contract believed to call for $12,000 a year.

Despite his youth, Brennan is considered a good bet to fulfill the confidence of Notre Dame authorities in him.

As a 165-pound halfback for Notre Dame from 1945-1948, he started 30 of 38 games and Leahy considered him his clutch runner—the boy good for three or four yards in tight situations.

97 Against Army

As a player, he is perhaps best remembered for a 97-yard opening kickoff touchdown run against Army in 1947.

Brennan turned down the professional game to coach Mt. Carmel High School in Chicago and it was his record there that prompted Leahy to summon him to South Bend for an assistant's post. At Mt. Carmel, Brennan turned out three consecutive undefeated city champions, an unprecedented accomplishment.

Some of his Mt. Carmel players now will play for him at Notre Dame—among them co-captains Dan Shannon and Paul Matz, veteran ends.

New Notre Dame Coach

Sports of the Day

(IN BRIEF)
(By The Associated Press)

Football

South Bend, Ind.—Terry Brennan, 25, Notre Dame assistant coach, was named head coach at the University to succeed Frank Leahy.

Starkville, Miss.—Darrell Royal, head coach of the Edmonton Eskimos, succeeded Murray Warmath as head coach at Mississippi State.

Basketball

Clemson, S. C. — Furman's Frank Selvy broke a three-year scoring record for a major college basketball player as he tallied 25 points and brought his total to 1,904 points. The old record of 1,888 points was set by Clyde Lovellette of Kansas in 1952.

New York — Unbeaten Western Kentucky accepted a bid to the National Invitation basketball tournament.

Two Are Injured

A truck driven by Normal Trendell of Albany skidded on Route 9W on the hill leading into Marlborough and struck a stone wall about 6:30 a. m. today, state police reported. Trendell suffered a nose injury and his passenger, Virgil McGee of Athens, had a lacerated scalp, troopers said.

Bill Haber	Guard	Jack Cook
Bob Bondar	Guard	Bill Benton

Furman's Frank Selvy Cracks 3-Year College Scoring Mark

New York, Feb. 2 (AP)—Furman's Frank Selvy, a 6-3 midget among the basketball giants, today seemed a cinch to lift the major college scoring record so high that even the big boys won't be able to touch it for many seasons to come.

The deadeye jump shot artist from Corbin, Ky., got his hands on the record last night by scoring 25 points in a 70-55 victory over Clemson. This gave him 1,904 for 2½ seasons of play with a dozen games left. The old three-year mark of 1,888 was set by Clyde Lovellette of Kansas in 1952.

Selvy's performance was the highlight of a big night in college basketball as the teams started hitting the boards in earnest after a siege of hitting the books for mid-year exams.

Perfect Teams Win

Western Kentucky and Duquesne both triumphed, bringing them a game closer to the elusive perfect season that no major school has attained since army in 1943-44.

Western beat Bowling Green 94-82 for its 20th straight Duquesne notched No. 18 at the expense of Villanova 70-41. Indiana's defending NCAA champions won their 13th against a single loss, defeating Louisville 80-71.

Selvy will wind up his competition in three seasons but he is within easy reach of the top four-year major mark of 2,154 by Jim Lacy of Loyola of Baltimore in 1949.

Selvy needs only 250 more points to break Lacy's total—an average of less than 21 per game for the rest of the year. His average so far this season is an amazing 38.3.

Duke, Impressive

Duquesne, ranked second to Kentucky in this week's Associated Press poll, overpowered Villanova with an all-around team effort. The losers came up with the game's high scorer in Bob Schaefer with 27 points but none of his teammates got close to double figures.

Clutch shooting by Forest Able kept Western Kentucky's streak intact. Bowling Green crept within three points in the third quarter only to have Able hit for six straight points and it was Able who came to the rescue again in the final quarter when Bowling Green once more edged close. Able got 25 points to 31 for teammate Tom Marshall.

Bob Pettit of Louisiana State, runner-up to Selvy in the season's scoring race, was held to 15 points as LSU squeezed past Mississippi 53-52 for its sixth straight Southeastern Conference victory.

Michigan State edged Northwestern 65-62 in a single Big Ten game.

Tommy Harrison Moves to Sixth In Heavy Ratings

New York, Feb. 2 (AP)—Upset defeats of Earl Walls, Yolande Pompey, Danny Nardico and Gerhard Hecht resulted in a vigorous shakeup of the latest boxing ratings, released today by Ring Magazine.

Tommy Harrison, Los Angeles heavyweight, took over the No. 6 spot among the challengers by defeating Walls, the Edmonton, Canada slugger who twice knocked out Rex Layne. Coley Wallace, beaten by Ezzard Charles, was dropped out of the top 10 and was replaced by Clarence Henry of Los Angeles.

Despite a disappointing performance against Jimmy Slade, Philadelphia's Harold Johnson retained his No. 1 spot among light heavy contenders. Joey Maxim, although badly beaten by champion Archie Moore Wednesday, remained in the No. 2 spot. Pompey's first defeat, by Bobby Dawson, dropped him to fourth place.

Nardico Seventh

Nardico, the Tampa, Fla. light heavy, fell all the way to seventh after he was knocked out by Charley Norkus of Bayonne, N. J. Hecht, of Germany, was spotted No. 8 after he was stopped by heavyweight Johnny Williams of England.

Rocky Castellani of Cleveland and Joey Giardello of Philadelphia moved up to become No. 1 and No. 2 middleweight challengers, while Britain's Randy Turpin dropped to third. Dawson earned a ranking among the 160-pounders by his victory over Pompey.

As a result of Paddy Demarco's triumph over Ralph Dupas, the Brooklyn lightweight was rated No. 4 challenger. He has signed to meet champ Jimmy Carter for the title, March 5.

Local Archer Gets First Prize in State Contest

Three other members of the club besides Hahn took deer with bow and arrow. They were Gene Archer, Bill Crosby and Mike Spada, for the second straight year. The average for the club is one deer for each six bowmen.

Kingston placed third among 12 teams competing in the recent New York handicap shooting tournament. Vince Secor compiled a point total of 2595 to capture first place in the Instinctive competition. Joe Heidcamp was second with 2571.

In free style shooting (with sights attached to the bows), Don Wood placed sixth with 2143.

The elder Withington, now a business executive, swallowed the fish to win a $10 bet before the eyes of some 150 astonished students

NOT BLIND TO ACHIEVEMENT—It took 12 years, but Richard Kinney, of East Sparta, Ohio, blind since he was seven and deaf since his first year in college, finally will achieve his goal. He'll graduate this spring from Mt. Union College with a 3.8 average, highest in the college's history. Eyes and ears for the 32-year-old student is Ron Smith, right, who tutored Kinney to the honor. Kinney always wears a glove marked with the letters of the alphabet. Classmates at the Alliance, Ohio, college can "talk" to him by touching letters and spelling out their messages.

Rescue Hook Vols Hear Appeal for Convention Funds

Volunteer firemen from Rescue Hook and Ladder Company, No. 1, were urged to take an active part in raising funds for the proposed Hudson Valley convention and their own 100th anniversary celebration in 1955 at the annual banquet in the Yacht Club Restaurant on Sunday night.

Approximately 100 members, their ladies and friends attended the event marking the company's 99th year of service to the community, and heard the appeal for concentrated action on raising money made by Thomas F. Coughlin, former alderman of the Seventh Ward, and treasurer of Rescue Hook for the past seven years.

As master of ceremonies of the dinner, he introduced other speakers—Mayor Frederick H. Stang, Alderman-at-Large Joseph Kelly, Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy, Captain Edward H. (Yank) Albrecht of the paid fire department, and Nuncio Avella, newly-elected president of Rescue. Louis Buchholtz, retiring president, was also introduced.

Other officers elected for the ensuing year are:

Edward Bruck, first assistant foreman; Thomas J. Coughlin, second assistant; Joseph Radel, secretary for the 19th consecutive year, and Thomas F. Coughlin, treasurer.

Two fire commissioners present for the occasion were Frank Burr and Harold Van Bramer, Charles Derrenbacher having been absent due to a previous commitment.

Congratulates Rescue

Mayor Stang added his felicitations on the 99th anniversary and said he anticipated a big celebration for the centennial next year. He said, "the volunteers play an important part in safeguarding the city," and added, "you give of your time and effort freely to protect our citizens and make the city a better place in which to live."

He paid special tribute to the oldest members of the company, one of whom was present, Michael Graney of Adams street. He has been associated with Rescues for 55 years. Thomas F. Kelly of Fleischmanns, formerly of this city, is the oldest member of the company, with 58 years on his record.

Stang said, " a fire company is as good as the effort we put into it," and stressed that the influx of younger men proves that there is interest in the volunteers.

Praises Chief

The Mayor praised Chief Murphy as one of the best-known and beloved chiefs in the state. "His name is recognized wherever firemanic meetings are held," he said. Murphy has been connected with the paid department for 46 years, and his record as a volunteer goes over the 50 year mark as a member of Union Hose.

When he addressed the assemblage, Chief Murphy told the Rescue volunteers they could be proud of their 99 years of service and added, "I know you will keep up the good record."

Relative to the service given by the volunteers, Murphy said, "Without the aid of you men, the paid department would not be able to cope with large fires.

Explains State Course

He took the occasion to point out the advantages of the mutual aid system operating throughout the county, and stressed "each community needs the assistance of its neighbors in time of disastrous fires."

Mentioning data covering the 200th years of volunteer fire fighting in Kingston, Chief Murphy said he was anxious for each company to sign up volunteers to take the state's special course in modern fire-fighting when it starts in April. He pointed out its advantages in instructing men to use standardized equipment.

Calling for a concentrated drive to raise money for the 1955 Hudson Valley convention, Treasurer Coughlin said, "there is plenty of moral support so far, but finances are needed." Pointing out that it will take approximately $10,000, he said "We have a tough time getting support."

Captain Albrecht, a fire fighter as a volunteer and paid man for approximately a half century demonstrated that he loves his profession when he said, "I consider my job a 24-hour a day assignment." He said the fire department has the same regard for everybody. "When we're called for a fire, we never say whose house is it; we just want to know where is it."

Although he's younger looking than his years, the captain will admit he's one of the oldest men on the department, a fireman with time to give to civic projects such as making special furniture for the cerebral palsy clinic and taking other interests in the children of the community. He has built 16 reclining chairs for palsied youngsters, and boasts his greatest reward was a kiss he received from one of the children, when he presented the gift. "This good work deserves the support of everybody," he said.

Appointed to DUSO Builders Committee

Walter Donnaruma, Kingston real estate and insurance broker, was appointed to the membership committee of the newly organized DUSO Home Builders Association at a meeting in Newburgh last Thursday evening.

The committee will work in the counties of Dutchess, Ulster, Sullivan and Orange recruiting members for the association. Its membership is composed of home builders and those associated with the home building industry.

The next meeting of the association will be at 8 p. m. Tuesday, Feb. 16, at the Palatine Hotel, Newburgh.

Earnings Increase At Central Hudson

Earnings of 90.3 cents per share on the number of shares of Central Hudson common stock outstanding at the end of 1953 were indicated in a letter accompanying the February 1 dividend payment to common stockholders of the utility company. Central Hudson President Ernest R. Acker said that the earnings for the year represented an increase of more than six per cent over 1952, even though there were 12 per cent more shares of common stock outstanding at the end of 1953.

Acker noted that many factors contributed to Central Hudson's improved earnings, including sales of gas and electricity and more effective use of the Danskammer Point electric generating station.

They were estimated gains of seven per cent in gas and electric revenues in 1953, bringing the company's total revenues from regular customers to $21,378,215.

Acker said that the information in the statement to common stockholders was in preliminary form and subject to any adjustments that may be required after completion of the 1953 audit. Final statements for the year 1953 will be included in the company's annual report to be mailed to stockholders prior to the annual meeting March 23, 1954.

Aly Khan Refuses To Talk Romance

Karachi, Pakistan, Feb. 2 (AP)—Dapper Prince Aly Khan pushed aside questions of romance last night as he arrived here from Paris to participate tomorrow in the platinum jubilee weighing ceremony of his father, the 76-year-old Aga Khan.

"I never talk about those things," he told newsmen who asked him if he had plans for marriage. He received wild greetings from his father's followers of the Moslem Ismaili sect.

With Aly as a guest for the celebration was British Viscount Astor.

The prince said he hoped to visit other sections of Asia before returning to Europe, "but that depends on my father's wishes," he added. The public weighing tomorrow before more than 50,000 of the portly Aga Khan's 20 million followers celebrates his 70th anniversary as head of the Ismaili sect. His 50th and 60th milestones were observed by weighing in gold and diamonds, respectively.

Members of the sect match the worth of the amount of precious metal or jewels each time with contributions. The Aga Khan donates the money to charity or improvements.

To Be Symbolic

Tomorrow, however, the weighing will be mostly symbolic. The old leader, who recently has tipped the scales at 206 pounds, said it was a waste to bring that much rare and precious platinum to Karachi just for the ceremony.

Instead, as he sits on one side of a huge scale in a stadium here, an ounce of platinum for each "stone"—14 pounds—of his weight will be placed in the other side of the scale. Special balances will be used to compensate.

Members of the jubilee committee said about $100,000 in donations had been collected for the weighing fund. This time it will be used to set up a "platinum jubilee finance corporation" to help Pakistan Ismailis start their own businesses or enter professions.

Similar jubilee weighings are scheduled at three points in Africa in September.

Leahy Predicts Brennan Great Coach Despite Tender Years

South Bend, Ind., Feb. 2 (AP)—In less than a full day's time Notre Dame rocked the football world with sudden, successive announcements that ended the glory-filled reign of Frank Leahy and started youthful Terry Brennan on a big-time coaching career.

The school's millions of followers barely had time to compose themselves after the unexpected news of Leahy's departure before they learned that the 25-year-old Brennan, an assistant coach, was succeeding him.

The Leahy announcement came at 6 p. m. Sunday, the one about Brennan just 19 hours later—at 1 p. m. Monday.

Thus was Notre Dame football leadership transferred from the hands of one of modern coaching's most successful and dominant personalities to those of a virtual youngster, untried by college coaching standards.

Both Startling

It would be difficult to determine which of the two announcements had the greater impact, but both certainly were startling.

Leahy, 45, stepped down because of worry over his health after a Notre Dame career that, in success on the field, was second only to his onetime teacher, the late, immortal Knute Rockne.

The astonishment that prevailed at Leahy's departure was equalled—or nearly so—when the Rev. Theodore Hesburgh, Notre Dame president, tabbed Brennan to succeed him.

It was felt by many observers that Terry's age would prevent serious consideration for what is probably the most pressure-packed college coaching job in the country.

However, Father Hesburgh, the Rev. Edmund T. Joyce, vice president, and other school officials apparently agreed with Leahy that young Brennan was a good bet for success in his first responsible college coaching position.

Praise From Leahy

Said Leahy, commenting on the choice of Brennan:

Terry is a very talented young man who borders almost on the genius as a coach. His age is no barrier. Coaching is a young man's game. Terry will make good."

The university gave Brennan a three-year contract believed to call for $12,000 a year.

Despite his youth, Brennan is considered a good bet to fulfill the confidence of Notre Dame authorities in him.

As a 165-pound halfback for Notre Dame from 1945-1948, he started 30 of 38 games and Leahy considered him his clutch runner—the boy good for three or four yards in tight situations.

97 Against Army

As a player, he is perhaps best remembered for a 97-yard opening kickoff touchdown run against Army in 1947.

Brennan turned down the professional game to coach Mt. Carmel High School in Chicago and it was his record there that prompted Leahy to summon him to South Bend for an assistant's post. At Mt. Carmel, Brennan turned out three consecutive undefeated city champions, an unprecedented accomplishment.

Some of his Mt. Carmel players now will play for him at Notre Dame—among them co-captains Dan Shannon and Paul Matz, veteran ends.

New Notre Dame Coach

Terry Brennan, 25-year-old Notre Dame football coach named Feb. 1, romps with Terry, Jr., two, while his wife, Mary Louise, and Denise Marian, one month, look on at the home in South Bend. Brennan succeeds Frank Leahy who resigned for "reasons of health." (AP Wirephoto)

(IN BRIEF)
(By The Associated Press)

Football

South Bend, Ind.—Terry Brennan, 25, Notre Dame assistant coach, was named head coach at the University to succeed Frank Leahy.

Starkville, Miss.—Darrell Royal, head coach of the Edmonton Eskimos, succeeded Murray Warmath as head coach at Mississippi State.

Basketball

Clemson, S. C. — Furman's Frank Salvy broke a three-year scoring record for a major college basketball player as he tallied 25 points and brought his total to 1,904 points. The old record of 1,888 points was set by Clyde Lovellette of Kansas in 1952.

New York — Unbeaten Western Kentucky accepted a bid to the National Invitation basketball tournament.

Furman's Frank Selvy Cracks 3-Year College Scoring Mark

New York, Feb. 2 (AP)—Furman's Frank Selvy, a 6-3 midget among the basketball giants, today seemed a cinch to lift the major college scoring record so high that even the big boys won't be able to touch it for many seasons to come.

The deadeye jump shot artist from Corbin, Ky., got his hands on the record last night by scoring 25 points in a 70-55 victory over Clemson. This gave him 1,904 for 2½ seasons of play with a dozen games left. The old three-year mark of 1,888 was set by Clyde Lovellette of Kansas in 1952.

Selvy's performance was the highlight of a big night in college basketball as the teams started hitting the boards in earnest after a siege of hitting the books for mid-year exams.

Perfect Teams Win

Western Kentucky and Duquesne both triumphed, bringing them a game closer to the elusive perfect season that no major school has attained since army in 1943-44.

Western beat Bowling Green 94-82 for its 20th straight Duquesne notched No. 18 at the expense of Villanova 70-41. Indiana's defending NCAA champions won their 13th against a single loss, defeating Louisville 80-71.

Selvy will wind up his competition in three seasons but he is within easy reach of the top four-year major mark of 2,154 by Jim Lacy of Loyola of Baltimore in 1949.

Selvy needs only 250 more points to break Lacy's total—an average of less than 21 per game for the rest of the year. His average so far this season is an amazing 38.3.

Duke, Impressive

Duquesne, ranked second to Kentucky in this week's Associated Press poll, overpowered Villanova with an all-around team effort. The losers came up with the game's high scorer in Bob Schaefer with 27 points but none of his teammates got close to double figures.

Clutch shooting by Forest Able kept Western Kentucky's streak intact. Bowling Green crept within three points in the third quarter only to have Able hit for six straight points and it was Able who came to the rescue again in the final quarter when Bowling Green once more edged close. Able got 25 points to 31 for teammate Tom Marshall.

Bob Pettit of Louisiana State, runner-up to Selvy in the season's scoring race, was held to 15 points as LSU squeezed past Mississippi 53-52 for its sixth straight Southeastern Conference victory.

Michigan State edged Northwestern 65-62 in a single Big Ten game.

Ted Lennox, member of the Michigan State varsity wrestling team, is totally blind.

Tommy Harrison Moves to Sixth In Heavy Ratings

New York, Feb. 2 (AP)—Upset defeats of Earl Walls, Yolande Pompey, Danny Nardico and Gerhard Hecht resulted in a vigorous shakeup of the latest boxing ratings, released today by Ring Magazine.

Tommy Harrison, Los Angeles heavyweight, took over the No. 6 spot among the challengers by defeating Walls, the Edmonton, Canada slugger who twice knocked out Rex Layne. Coley Wallace, beaten by Ezzard Charles, was dropped out of the top 10 and was replaced by Clarence Henry of Los Angeles.

Despite a disappointing performance against Jimmy Slade, Philadelphia's Harold Johnson retained his No. 1 spot among light heavy contenders. Joey Maxim, although badly beaten by champion Archie Moore Wednesday, remained in the No. 2 spot. Pompey's first defeat, by Bobby Dawson, dropped him to fourth place.

Nardico Seventh

Nardico, the Tampa, Fla. light heavy, fell all the way to seventh after he was knocked out by Charley Norkus of Bayonne, N. J. Hecht, of Germany, was spotted No. 8 after he was stopped by heavyweight Johnny Williams of England.

Rocky Castellani of Cleveland and Joey Giardello of Philadelphia moved up to become No. 1 and No. 2 middleweight challengers, while Britain's Randy Turpin dropped to third. Dawson earned a ranking among the 160-pounders by his victory over Pompey.

Billy Graham soared to second position in the welter division and Del Flanagan advanced to fourth by upsetting Johnny Saxton.

As a result of Paddy Demarco's triumph over Ralph Dupas, the Brooklyn lightweight was rated No. 4 challenger. He has signed to meet champ Jimmy Carter for the title, March 5.

Local Archer Gets First Prize in State Contest

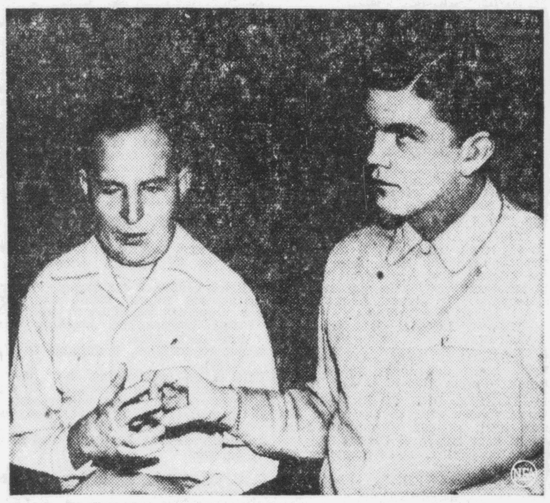
The deer won for Hahn the "prize buck" award in archery competition sponsored by the New York Field Archery Association in 1953.

Three other members of the club besides Hahn took deer with bow and arrow. They were Gene Archer, Bill Crosby and Mike Spada, for the second straight year. The average for the club is one deer for each six bowmen.

Kingston placed third among 12 teams competing in the recent New York handicap shooting tournament. Vince Secor compiled a point total of 2595 to capture first place in the Instinctive competition. Joe Heidcamp was second with 2571.

In free style shooting (with sights attached to the bows), Don Wood placed sixth with 2143.

DOWN THE HATCH—Lorthrop Withington, Jr. right, who started the nationwide goldfish-swallowing craze in 1939 while a freshman at Harvard College, watches his 11-year-old son, Lorthrop III, display his fishy prowess at their Brookline, Mass., home. The elder Withington, now a business executive, swallowed the fish to win a $10 bet before the eyes of some 150 astonished students



NOT BLIND TO ACHIEVEMENT—It took 12 years, but Richard Kinney, of East Sparta, Ohio, blind since he was seven and deaf since his first year in college, finally will achieve his goal. He'll graduate this spring from Mt. Union College with a 3.8 average, highest in the college's history. Eyes and ears for the 32-year-old student is Ron Smith, right, who tutored Kinney to the honor. Kinney always wears a glove marked with the letters of the alphabet. Classmates at the Alliance, Ohio, college can "talk" to him by touching letters and spelling out their messages.

Rescue Hook Vols Hear Appeal for Convention Funds

Volunteer firemen from Rescue Hook and Ladder Company, No. 1, were urged to take an active part in raising funds for the proposed Hudson Valley convention and their own 100th anniversary celebration in 1955 at the annual banquet in the Yacht Club Restaurant on Sunday night.

Approximately 100 members, their ladies and friends attended the event marking the company's 99th year of service to the community, and heard the appeal for concentrated action on raising money made by Thomas F. Coughlin, former alderman of the Seventh Ward, and treasurer of Rescue Hook for the past seven years.

As master of ceremonies of the dinner, he introduced other speakers—Mayor Frederick H. Stang, Alderman-at-Large Joseph Kelly, Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy, Captain Edward H. (Yank) Albrecht of the paid fire department, and Nuncio Avella, newly-elected president of Rescue. Louis Buchholtz, retiring president, was also introduced.

Other officers elected for the ensuing year are:

Edward Bruck, first assistant foreman; Thomas J. Coughlin, second assistant; Joseph Radel, secretary for the 19th consecutive year, and Thomas F. Coughlin, treasurer.

Two fire commissioners present for the occasion were Frank Burr and Harold Van Bramer, Charles Derrenbacher having been absent due to a previous commitment.

Congratulates Rescue

Mayor Stang added his felicitations on the 99th anniversary and said he anticipated a big celebration for the centennial next year. He said, "the volunteers play an important part in safeguarding the city," and added, "you give of your time and effort freely to protect our citizens and make the city a better place in which to live."

He paid special tribute to the oldest members of the company, one of whom was present, Michael Graney of Adams street. He has been associated with Rescues for 55 years. Thomas F. Kelly of Fleischmanns, formerly of this city, is the oldest member of the company, with 58 years on his record.

Stang said, " a fire company is as good as the effort we put into it," and stressed that the influx of younger men proves that there is interest in the volunteers.

Praises Chief

The Mayor praised Chief Murphy as one of the best-known and beloved chiefs in the state. "His name is recognized wherever firemanic meetings are held," he said. Murphy has been connected with the paid department for 46 years, and his record as a volunteer goes over the 50 year mark as a member of Union Hose.

When he addressed the assemblage, Chief Murphy told the Rescue volunteers they could be proud of their 99 years of service and added, "I know you will keep up the good record."

Relative to the service given by the volunteers, Murphy said, "Without the aid of you men, the paid department would not be able to cope with large fires.

Explains State Course

He took the occasion to point out the advantages of the mutual aid system operating throughout the county, and stressed "each community needs the assistance of its neighbors in time of disastrous fires."

Mentioning data covering the 200th years of volunteer fire fighting in Kingston, Chief Murphy said he was anxious for each company to sign up volunteers to take the state's special course in modern fire-fighting when it starts in April. He pointed out its advantages in instructing men to use standardized equipment.

Calling for a concentrated drive to raise money for the 1955 Hudson Valley convention, Treasurer Coughlin said, "there is plenty of moral support so far, but finances are needed." Pointing out that it will take approximately $10,000, he said "We have a tough time getting support."

Captain Albrecht, a fire fighter as a volunteer and paid man for approximately a half century demonstrated that he loves his profession when he said, "I consider my job a 24-hour a day assignment." He said the fire department has the same regard for everybody. "When we're called for a fire, we never say whose house is it; we just want to know where is it."

Although he's younger looking than his years, the captain will admit he's one of the oldest men on the department, a fireman with time to give to civic projects such as making special furniture for the cerebral palsy clinic and taking other interests in the children of the community. He has built 16 reclining chairs for palsied youngsters, and boasts his greatest reward was a kiss he received from one of the children, when he presented the gift. "This good work deserves the support of everybody," he said.

A collection was taken for the March of Dimes at the supper.

Appointed to DUSO Builders Committee

Walter Donnaruma, Kingston real estate and insurance broker, was appointed to the membership committee of the newly organized DUSO Home Builders Association at a meeting in Newburgh last Thursday evening.

The committee will work in the counties of Dutchess, Ulster, Sullivan and Orange recruiting members for the association. Its membership is composed of home builders and those associated with the home building industry.

The next meeting of the association will be at 8 p. m. Tuesday, Feb. 16, at the Palatine Hotel, Newburgh.

Earnings Increase At Central Hudson

Earnings of 90.3 cents per share on the number of shares of Central Hudson common stock outstanding at the end of 1953 were indicated in a letter accompanying the February 1 dividend payment to common stockholders of the utility company. Central Hudson President Ernest R. Acker said that the earnings for the year represented an increase of more than six per cent over 1952, even though there were 12 per cent more shares of common stock outstanding at the end of 1953.

Acker noted that many factors contributed to Central Hudson's improved earnings, including sales of gas and electricity and more effective use of the Danskammer Point electric generating station.

They were estimated gains of seven per cent in gas and electric revenues in 1953, bringing the company's total revenues from regular customers to $21,378,215.

Acker said that the information in the statement to common stockholders was in preliminary form and subject to any adjustments that may be required after completion of the 1953 audit. Final statements for the year 1953 will be included in the company's annual report to be mailed to stockholders prior to the annual meeting March 23, 1954.

Looks Like Ape

Taipeh, Formosa, Feb. 2 (AP)—A Formosan newspaper today reported the discovery of a 13-year-old boy who looks like a hairless ape, climbs trees with simian agility and lives on snakes and insects.

Aly Khan Refuses To Talk Romance

Karachi, Pakistan, Feb. 2 (AP)—Dapper Prince Aly Khan pushed aside questions of romance last night as he arrived here from Paris to participate tomorrow in the platinum jubilee weighing ceremony of his father, the 76-year-old Aga Khan.

"I never talk about those things," he told newsmen who asked him if he had plans for marriage. He received wild greetings from his father's followers of the Moslem Ismaili sect.

With Aly as a guest for the celebration was British Viscount Astor.

The prince said he hoped to visit other sections of Asia before returning to Europe, "but that depends on my father's wishes," he added. The public weighing tomorrow before more than 50,000 of the portly Aga Khan's 20 million followers celebrates his 70th anniversary as head of the Ismaili sect. His 50th and 60th milestones were observed by weighing in gold and diamonds, respectively.

Members of the sect match the worth of the amount of precious metal or jewels each time with contributions. The Aga Khan donates the money to charity or improvements.

To Be Symbolic

Tomorrow, however, the weighing will be mostly symbolic. The old leader, who recently has tipped the scales at 206 pounds, said it was a waste to bring that much rare and precious platinum to Karachi just for the ceremony.

Instead, as he sits on one side of a huge scale in a stadium here, an ounce of platinum for each "stone"—14 pounds—of his weight will be placed in the other side of the scale. Special balances will be used to compensate.

Members of the jubilee committee said about $100,000 in donations had been collected for the weighing fund. This time it will be used to set up a "platinum jubilee finance corporation" to help Pakistan Ismailis start their own businesses or enter professions.

Similar jubilee weighings are scheduled at three points in Africa in September.

NOTICE OF SALE

COUNTY COURT, ULSTER COUNTY —THE HOME-SEEKERS' SAVINGS AND LOAN ASSOCIATION OF KINGSTON, NEW YORK, Plaintiff, against LESTER S. HYMES AND JABER MUSTAPHA, Defendants.

In pursuance of a judgment of foreclosure and sale, duly made and entered in the above entitled section and bearing date the 21st day of January, 1954, I, the undersigned, the Referee in the judgment named, will sell at public auction at the entrance of the Ulster County Court House in the City of Kingston, New York at 11:00 a. m. on the 19th day of February, 1954, the premises directed by said judgment to be sold and therein described as follows:-

ALL THAT TRACT OR PARCEL OF LAND, situate, lying and being in the City of Kingston, in the County of Ulster, in the State of New York, bounded and described as follows:

Beginning at a point on the southerly street line of Meadow street, said point being south 65 degrees 45 minutes west 80.03 feet from the intersection formed by the southerly street line of Meadow Street with the westerly street line of Chambers Street and running thence from said point of beginning south 23 degrees 49 minutes east 74.65 feet to a point; thence south 30 degrees 46 minutes east 45.80 feet to a point; thence south 56 degrees 32 minutes west 21.60 feet to a fence post; thence along an old fence north 30 degrees 32 minutes west 94.83 feet to a fence post; thence north 24 degrees 07 minutes west 29.35 feet to a point on the southerly street line of Meadow Street; thence along said southerly street line of Meadow Street north 65 degrees 45 minutes east 26.97 feet to the place of beginning.

Being the westerly portion of Lot No. 108 of the Meadow Lots of Jansen Hasbrouck.

The bearings and distances south 23 degrees 49 minutes East and south 30 degrees 46 minutes East are the center line of a driveway.

The party of the first part for himself, his heirs and assigns reserve the use and enjoyment for the purpose of driveway a strip of land four feet in width adjoining the premises hereby conveyed to the northwest of said Center line. The party of the first part grants to the party of the second part the use and enjoyment for the purposes of a driveway of a strip of land four feet in width adjoining the premises hereby conveyed to the northeast of said center line. The two parcels each of a width of four feet together forming a driveway eight feet in width and extending from Meadow Street southeasterly to the rear line of the property, forming a common driveway for the use and enjoyment of the party of the first part and the party of the second part. Said Right of Way is to be an open Right of Way and to be in no manner obstructed.

Being the same premises conveyed by Jaber Mustapha to Lester S Hymes by Deed dated August 2, 1950 and recorded in the Ulster County Clerk's Office in Deed Book 772 at 527 simultaneously with this mortgage which is given to secure a part of the purchase price.

Time Lost Eating

New York (AP) — You either leave your watch with the cashier, or have trouble with it, when you take a table along the south wall of the old La Fayette restaurant in downtown Manhattan. Electric utility dynamos, which have operated for 50 years in an adjacent building, have built up such strong magnetism on the restaurant's south side that it makes watches go haywire.

Schifano's Trial

a plea of innocent and was granted 20 days for motions and bail continued.

Charles J. Vigna, represented by John Larkin, entered a plea of innocent to the same charge and bail was continued.

Albert J. Ashdown and Alfred Buchanan, charged with the same offense on January 6, were represented by Harry Gold and innocent pleas were entered, 20 days given for motions and Ashdown's bail was continued. In the case of Buchanan bail was set at $250 cash and he was paroled in custody of his counsel pending securing bail.

Jesse Caprotti, represented by John Larkin, also entered a plea of innocent when arraigned, was granted 20 days for motions and bail was continued.

Warren Brown, represented by James G. Connelly, entered a plea of innocent to a charge of violation of Section 974 on January 1, 1954. Bail was continued and 20 days granted for motions.

Charles Perry, represented by Francis Martocci, entered a plea of innocent to violation of Section 974, alleged to have been committed on January 6, 1954, and bail was continued and 20 days granted for motions.

Frank Kelly, charged with perjury, second degree, was represented by Joseph Avis and entered a plea of innocent. The indictment alleged the act took place on January 21, 1954. Bail was continued and 20 days granted for motions.

Albert J. Ashdown was also indicted on a conspiracy charge. Harry Gold appeared for this and a plea of innocent was entered. Bail posted in city court will be transferred to apply to this case in County Court. The charge is a misdemeanor.

Nolan Pleads Innocent

Joseph Anthony Nolan was charged with assault, second degree, alleged to have been committed on December 18, 1953. A plea of innocent was entered, bail continued and 20 days granted for motions. A second charge of violation of Section 1851, was also included in the indictment.

John Joseph Garofalo was arraigned under five indictments charging assault, second degree; assault, third degree; violation of Section 483, Sub. 2; perjury, second degree and rape, second degree. Francis Martocci appeared for defendant and a plea of innocent was entered and 20 days granted for motions. These indictments superceded an indictment returned in June which contained six counts. A motion was made to dismiss that indictment since it contained charges of more than one crime. Decision on that motion had been reserved by the Court. Meanwhile the case was re-submitted to the grand jury. The old indictment also remains on the present criminal calendar.

Hartung Arraigned

William Joseph Hartung, charged with possession of a fire arm without a license, was arraigned and on motion of his counsel Ralph Millman, Judge Cashin adjudged defendant eligible to be treated as a Youthful Offender and directed the indictment be sealed.

Roger Douglas Thompson, charged with illegal possession of a firearm on January 1, 1954, entered a plea of innocent and bail was continued and 20 days granted for motions.

Robert Vincent, 49 Dunneman avenue, who was arrested in a raid on 650 Broadway last April, was reported to be in Florida and failed to appear in County Court to which an appeal had been taken from a conviction in City Court, District Attorney St. John reported. He asked that the $200 bail which had been posted be forfeited and that a bench warrant be issued for his arrest. St. John said Vincent's attorney had been notified and advised to produce the defendant in court. Motion granted.

Diklich Case Adjourned

Peter Diklich, charged with forgery, second degree, had his case adjourned until Wednesday when Arthur A. Davis, Jr., asked to be relieved from the case. He said he and Diklich were unable to agree and Diklich said he would arrange for another attorney.

Carl Rosengarten, charged with violation of Section 1897, Sub. 4, and Section 185 of the Conservation law, was arraigned. Abraham Streifer appeared for the defendant and a plea of innocent was entered, 20 days granted for motions and bail was continued. The alleged violation is charged on November 16, 1953.

Alton Parker Vandermark of New Paltz changed a former innocent plea to one of guilty to grand larceny, second degree. He is charged with having taken a power saw valued at about $200. Richard Lent appeared for Vandermark and sentence was postponed until Wednesday, February 3 at 2 p. m. Defendant was remanded to the custody of the sheriff.

On the criminal calendar call several cases were set down for disposition on Wednesday.

The Mature Parent

Reversing Our Decisions Puts Strain on Little Boy

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

In the supermarket, Martin's mother is picking out a ham. Martin gets bored. Wandering off to the candy department, he returns with a bottle of sugar balls. He says, "Get these, mom; buy these, will you?"

"No," says his mother. "Put the bottle back. You have candy at home."

Martin does not obey. Though canned goods, cereals and bakery products, he trails his mother, demanding that she purchase the candy. At the cashier's counter when he presents it again to her attention, she says impatiently, "Can't you ever take 'No' for an answer?" Remember now, if I buy this bottle for you, you can't have any candy out of it before supper . . ."

Four blocks from the supermarket, Martin begins agitation to reverse his mother's second decision. "Can I have a candy now, mom?" he asks. "Just one?"

He succeeds in countermanding her again to the same accompaniment of vexation and attack. Angrily, his mother opens the candy bottle, shoves a sugar ball at him and cries, "Pester, pester, pester — that's all you can do! Just you wait til your father gets home and I tell him how you've been pestering me . . ."

Sucking his candy, seven-year-old Martin has no idea whatever of the price he has paid for it.

At his age, he does not know that making decisions puts strains upon his self-confidence. He does not realize that reversing the decisions of authority puts even more strain upon his self-confidence.

Nor, poor little boy, does he know that when these reserved decisions are accompanied by his mother's threats, they can put his self-confidence entirely out of commission.

We don't ask the President of the United States. We don't ask the leader of our nation to veto a Congressional decision alone, without support.

But his mother has asked Martin to do that about her decision.

That's why he's an overactive and nervous little boy. It is why he grinds his teeth at night and can't concentrate at school. It is why he fights other children so aggressively on his block.

He is nervously exhausted by the fearful responsibility of serving as his own authority under persistent angry attack.

When we mean what we say to children, we shield them against this appaling form of responsibility. And if we find it reasonable to reverse what we've said, we don't attack them for changing our minds for us.

Bill Goes to Dewey

Albany, Feb. 2 (AP)—The Senate today approved and sent to Gov. Dewey an administration bill proposing a 200-million-dollar bond issue for public housing and slum clearance. The vote was 49-5. The dissenters were Republicans. The measure was passed last week by the Assembly, where 26 members of the Republican majority voted against it. Before it can become effective, the bond issue must be approved by the people. It will be submitted to them at the general election next fall. The five members of the Senate Republican majority who voted against the housing bill were Ernest I. Hatfield of Poughkeepsie, George T. Manning of Rochester, Frank E. Van Lare of Rochester, John H. Cooke of Alden and George H. Pierce.

Will Elect President

Taipeh, Formosa, Feb. 2 (AP)—A president of Nationalist China will be elected by the Assembly March 20, the government announced today. Chiang Kai-shek is assured a new six-year term as president, although there may be token opposition.

Narriman Wins Cairo Divorce

Cairo, Egypt, Feb. 2 (AP)—Beautiful, 20-year-old former Queen Narriman won a quick divorce in a Mosleum Religious Court here today from Tubby ex-King Farouk after a month of behind-the-scene negotiations.

The girl Farouk first saw in 1949 as she shopped for her engagement ring with another man renounced custody to her two-year-old son, Ahmed Faud, and also dropped her demand that the ex-king personally pay her monthly alimony of 5,000 Egyptian pounds ($14,400) and a dowry allowance of 10,000 pounds ($28,800).

Instead, her lawyer said, Narriman will ask President Mohamed Naguib's revolutionary government to pay her those moneys out of Farouk's properties in Egypt, which the new regime confiscated when it dethroned and exiled him in July, 1952.

Her chances of getting the money appear problematical.

Charges Are Made

Narriman in her divorce suit had charged her husband with adultery, maltreatment, mental cruelty and estrangement. The settlement prevented the airing of any details that may have escaped newspaper reporters who have avidly followed the ex-king's cavortings about Europe with a succession of young women.

Neither the ex-king, whose home in exile is in Italy, nor Narriman, who lives with her family in suburban Heliopolis, was in the packed courtroom today.

After their lawyers presented the agreement renouncing alimony and the child's custody, the judge pronounced the divorce.

It was the second such marital severance for Farouk, who will be 34 next month. In 1938 he married the teen-age daughter of an Egyptian diplomat and she became Queen Farida. He divorced her in 1948.

Coffee Ruling

been permitted to occur, with such costly effects, too frequently in recent years."

The senator disclosed that an unidentified "firm of coffee brokers on Front street in New York city" had warned him last July 30 that retail coffee prices would climb to above a dollar a pound.

This firm, Gillette said, wrote that Brazilian interests were forcing up coffee prices here by buying contracts for future delivery.

"I am sure you will agree with me that the price of coffee to the consumer at $1 or more per pound is absolutely ridiculous," the broker wrote.

"It appears that Brazil is buying our future market with our own money and making this fictitious rise, which will be borne by every coffee consumer in our country."

Aiken, in opening the hearing, said all congressmen are getting protests against the recent jump in coffee prices.

He said the wholesale price of coffee had gone up 17½ cents a pound in the last year, retail prices had climbed even more and some restaurants were charging "50 per cent more per cup."

Aiken lauded President Eisenhower's announcement that the Federal Trade Commission is investigating coffee price increases. He said FTC "has the machinery" for the probe.

The Senate chairman said the Justice Department is checking for "possible law violations" and the Agricultural Department is aiding in ways to increase coffee production.

Haymes and Rita

Her attorney, Lewis Greenbaum, said that included in the amount sought by Miss Dru is $26,000 in California taxes which she paid and other debts.

Greenbaum was on the scene last night with Miss Hayworth's lawyer, Bartley Crum, who acted for Haymes. Crum talked to the couple through the door. Later Crum and Greenbaum said they would meet tomorrow. Crum said they would try "to arrange an agreement out of court." Greenbaum refused to confirm this.

Would Aid Rita

Crum told newsmen he would do anything he could to "alleviate the mental anguish suffered by Miss Hayworth." The attorney said Hames is "unwilling to go into bankruptcy . . . really wants to pay his debts" and "is not working now."

The California order calls for Haymes' arrest on bail of $26,000, apparently the sum he must post as security in the case if he wants to remain free.

The singer also has other problems. A deportation case is now pending before the Federal Immigration Service. He is a native of Argentina and is alleged to have re-entered the United States illegally last spring after a trip to Hawaii to visit Miss Hayworth.

Crum also said last night that Haymes "is broke and managed to get an arrangement with the Treasury Department on his income tax problems.

Efforts May Collapse

Washington, Feb. 2 (AP)—Grim Republican leaders faced the possibility today that their efforts to comprise the Bricker constitutional amendment on treaty powers might collapse in a legal welter of words. Sens. Knowland of California, Ferguson of Michigan and Milliken of Colorado planned to continue the search for language that would be acceptable to President Eisenhower and Sen. Bricker (R-Ohio).

Baby Blankets

Baby blankets are now available with plastic rings or elastic bands that attach firmly to the sides of the crib, thus eliminating the age-old worry of baby getting tangled in the blanket and suffocating.

Schifano's Trial

a plea of innocent and was granted 20 days for motions and bail continued.

Charles J. Vigna, represented by John Larkin, entered a plea of innocent to the same charge and bail was continued.

Albert J. Ashdown and Alfred Buchanan, charged with the same offense on January 6, were represented by Harry Gold and innocent pleas were entered, 20 days given for motions and Ashdown's bail was continued. In the case of Buchanan bail was set at $250 cash and he was paroled in custody of his counsel pending securing bail.

Jesse Caprotti, represented by John Larkin, also entered a plea of innocent when arraigned, was granted 20 days for motions and bail was continued.

Warren Brown, represented by James G. Connelly, entered a plea of innocent to a charge of violation of Section 974 on January 1, 1954. Bail was continued and 20 days granted for motions.

Charles Perry, represented by Francis Martocci, entered a plea of innocent to violation of Section 974, alleged to have been committed on January 6, 1954, and bail was continued and 20 days granted for motions.

Frank Kelly, charged with perjury, second degree, was represented by Joseph Avis and entered a plea of innocent. The indictment alleged the act took place on January 21, 1954. Bail was continued and 20 days granted for motions.

Albert J. Ashdown was also indicted on a conspiracy charge. Harry Gold appeared for this and a plea of innocent was entered. Bail posted in city court will be transferred to apply to this case in County Court. The charge is a misdemeanor.

Nolan Pleads Innocent

Joseph Anthony Nolan was charged with assault, second degree, alleged to have been committed on December 18, 1953. A plea of innocent was entered, bail continued and 20 days granted for motions. A second charge of violation of Section 1851, was also included in the indictment.

John Joseph Garofalo was arraigned under five indictments charging assault, second degree; assault, third degree; violation of Section 483, Sub. 2; perjury, second degree and rape, second degree. Francis Martocci appeared for defendant and a plea of innocent was entered and 20 days granted for motions. These indictments superceded an indictment returned in June which contained six counts. A motion was made to dismiss that indictment since it contained charges of more than one crime. Decision on that motion had been reserved by the Court. Meanwhile the case was re-submitted to the grand jury. The old indictment also remains on the present criminal calendar.

Hartung Arraigned

William Joseph Hartung, charged with possession of a fire arm without a license, was arraigned and on motion of his counsel Ralph Millman, Judge Cashin adjudged defendant eligible to be treated as a Youthful Offender and directed the indictment be sealed.

Roger Douglas Thompson, charged with illegal possession of a firearm on January 1, 1954, entered a plea of innocent and bail was continued and 20 days granted for motions.

Robert Vincent, 49 Dunneman avenue, who was arrested in a raid on 650 Broadway last April, was reported to be in Florida and failed to appear in County Court to which an appeal had been taken from a conviction in City Court, District Attorney St. John reported. He asked that the $200 bail which had been posted be forfeited and that a bench warrant be issued for his arrest. St. John said Vincent's attorney had been notified and advised to produce the defendant in court. Motion granted.

Diklich Case Adjourned

Peter Diklich, charged with forgery, second degree, had his case adjourned until Wednesday when Arthur A. Davis, Jr., asked to be relieved from the case. He said he and Diklich were unable to agree and Diklich said he would arrange for another attorney.

Carl Rosengarten, charged with violation of Section 1897, Sub. 4, and Section 185 of the Conservation law, was arraigned. Abraham Streifer appeared for the defendant and a plea of innocent was entered, 20 days granted for motions and bail was continued. The alleged violation is charged on November 16, 1953.

Alton Parker Vandermark of New Paltz changed a former innocent plea to one of guilty to grand larceny, second degree. He is charged with having taken a power saw valued at about $200. Richard Lent appeared for Vandermark and sentence was postponed until Wednesday, February 3 at 2 p. m. Defendant was remanded to the custody of the sheriff.

On the criminal calendar call several cases were set down for disposition on Wednesday.

The Mature Parent

Reversing Our Decisions Puts Strain on Little Boy

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

In the supermarket, Martin's mother is picking out a ham. Martin gets bored. Wandering off to the candy department, he returns with a bottle of sugar balls. He says, "Get these, mom; buy these, will you?"

"No," says his mother. "Put the bottle back. You have candy at home."

Martin does not obey. Though canned goods, cereals and bakery products, he trails his mother, demanding that she purchase the candy. At the cashier's counter when he presents it again to her attention, she says impatiently, "Can't you ever take 'No' for an answer?" Remember now, if I buy this bottle for you, you can't have any candy out of it before supper . . ."

Four blocks from the supermarket, Martin begins agitation to reverse his mother's second decision. "Can I have a candy now, mom?" he asks. "Just one?"

He succeeds in countermanding her again to the same accompaniment of vexation and attack. Angrily, his mother opens the candy bottle, shoves a sugar ball at him and cries, "Pester, pester, pester — that's all you can do! Just you wait til your father gets home and I tell him how you've been pestering me . . ."

Sucking his candy, seven-year-old Martin has no idea whatever of the price he has paid for it.

At his age, he does not know that making decisions puts strains upon his self-confidence. He does not realize that reversing the decisions of authority puts even more strain upon his self-confidence.

Nor, poor little boy, does he know that when these reserved decisions are accompanied by his mother's threats, they can put his self-confidence entirely out of commission.

We don't ask the President of the United States. We don't ask the leader of our nation to veto a Congressional decision alone, without support.

But his mother has asked Martin to do that about her decision.

That's why he's an overactive and nervous little boy. It is why he grinds his teeth at night and can't concentrate at school. It is why he fights other children so aggressively on his block.

He is nervously exhausted by the fearful responsibility of serving as his own authority under persistent angry attack.

When we mean what we say to children, we shield them against this appaling form of responsibility. And if we find it reasonable to reverse what we've said, we don't attack them for changing our minds for us.

Bill Goes to Dewey

Albany, Feb. 2 (AP)—The Senate today approved and sent to Gov. Dewey an administration bill proposing a 200-million-dollar bond issue for public housing and slum clearance. The vote was 49-5. The dissenters were Republicans. The measure was passed last week by the Assembly, where 26 members of the Republican majority voted against it. Before it can become effective, the bond issue must be approved by the people. It will be submitted to them at the general election next fall. The five members of the Senate Republican majority who voted against the housing bill were Ernest I. Hatfield of Poughkeepsie, George T. Manning of Rochester, Frank E. Van Lare of Rochester, John H. Cooke of Alden and George H. Pierce.

Narriman Wins Cairo Divorce

Cairo, Egypt, Feb. 2 (AP)—Beautiful, 20-year-old former Queen Narriman won a quick divorce in a Mosleum Religious Court here today from Tubby ex-King Farouk after a month of behind-the-scene negotiations.

The girl Farouk first saw in 1949 as she shopped for her engagement ring with another man renounced custody to her two-year-old son, Ahmed Faud, and also dropped her demand that the ex-king personally pay her monthly alimony of 5,000 Egyptian pounds ($14,400) and a dowry allowance of 10,000 pounds ($28,800).

Instead, her lawyer said, Narriman will ask President Mohamed Naguib's revolutionary government to pay her those moneys out of Farouk's properties in Egypt, which the new regime confiscated when it dethroned and exiled him in July, 1952.

Her chances of getting the money appear problematical.

Charges Are Made

Narriman in her divorce suit had charged her husband with adultery, maltreatment, mental cruelty and estrangement. The settlement prevented the airing of any details that may have escaped newspaper reporters who have avidly followed the ex-king's cavortings about Europe with a succession of young women.

Neither the ex-king, whose home in exile is in Italy, nor Narriman, who lives with her family in suburban Heliopolis, was in the packed courtroom today.

After their lawyers presented the agreement renouncing alimony and the child's custody, the judge pronounced the divorce.

It was the second such marital severance for Farouk, who will be 34 next month. In 1938 he married the teen-age daughter of an Egyptian diplomat and she became Queen Farida. He divorced her in 1948.

Coffee Ruling

been permitted to occur, with such costly effects, too frequently in recent years."

The senator disclosed that an unidentified "firm of coffee brokers on Front street in New York city" had warned him last July 30 that retail coffee prices would climb to above a dollar a pound.

This firm, Gillette said, wrote that Brazilian interests were forcing up coffee prices here by buying contracts for future delivery.

"I am sure you will agree with me that the price of coffee to the consumer at $1 or more per pound is absolutely ridiculous," the broker wrote.

"It appears that Brazil is buying our future market with our own money and making this fictitious rise, which will be borne by every coffee consumer in our country."

Aiken, in opening the hearing, said all congressmen are getting protests against the recent jump in coffee prices.

He said the wholesale price of coffee had gone up 17½ cents a pound in the last year, retail prices had climbed even more and some restaurants were charging "50 per cent more per cup."

Aiken lauded President Eisenhower's announcement that the Federal Trade Commission is investigating coffee price increases. He said FTC "has the machinery" for the probe.

The Senate chairman said the Justice Department is checking for "possible law violations" and the Agricultural Department is aiding in ways to increase coffee production.

Haymes and Rita

Her attorney, Lewis Greenbaum, said that included in the amount sought by Miss Dru is $26,000 in California taxes which she paid and other debts.

Greenbaum was on the scene last night with Miss Hayworth's lawyer, Bartley Crum, who acted for Haymes. Crum talked to the couple through the door. Later Crum and Greenbaum said they would meet tomorrow. Crum said they would try "to arrange an agreement out of court." Greenbaum refused to confirm this.

Would Aid Rita

Crum told newsmen he would do anything he could to "alleviate the mental anguish suffered by Miss Hayworth." The attorney said Hames is "unwilling to go into bankruptcy . . . really wants to pay his debts" and "is not working now."

The California order calls for Haymes' arrest on bail of $26,000, apparently the sum he must post as security in the case if he wants to remain free.

The singer also has other problems. A deportation case is now pending before the Federal Immigration Service. He is a native of Argentina and is alleged to have re-entered the United States illegally last spring after a trip to Hawaii to visit Miss Hayworth.

Crum also said last night that Haymes "is broke and managed to get an arrangement with the Treasury Department on his income tax problems.

Efforts May Collapse

Washington, Feb. 2 (AP)—Grim Republican leaders faced the possibility today that their efforts to comprise the Bricker constitutional amendment on treaty powers might collapse in a legal welter of words. Sens. Knowland of California, Ferguson of Michigan and Milliken of Colorado planned to continue the search for language that would be acceptable to President Eisenhower and Sen. Bricker (R-Ohio).

Baby Blankets

Baby blankets are now available with plastic rings or elastic bands that attach firmly to the sides of the crib, thus eliminating the age-old worry of baby getting tangled in the blanket and suffocating.

Fair Weather Indicates Shadow for Ground Hog

(By The Associated Press)

Fair and mild weather — a good chance for the ground hog to see his shadow—continued today in nearly all sections of the country. There were a few cold spots, northern New England, the northern Great Lakes region and in sections of the Rockies. Legend has it that there'll be six more weeks of cold weather if the ground hog sees his shadow today. If he doesn't winter is on the way out. Temperatures yesterday ranged from a high of 89 at Thermal, Calif., to 12 above at Caribou, Maine.

The first steam locomotive built in America was credited to Peter Cooper in 1830.

supermarkets here and in upstate New York in the past month. The prisoner denied any part in cashing the 14 checks, but told freely of "my own" dealings in the garment center.

Supermarket managers identified Kaminski's photograph and police traced him by checking his known addresses. He later was identified by a victimized supermarket manager.

Kaminski and others allegedly cashed the 14 checks for $83.97 each—which they had printed to resemble Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co. payroll checks—at various supermarkets. The stores were in Manhattan and Queens in New York city; Yonkers, Rochester and Syracuse, N. Y.; Hartford, Conn., and Jersey City, N. J.

Kaminski was booked specifically on a forgery charge involving one of the 14 checks.

Police alleged — and Kaminski denied—that he was involved in passing a number of phony checks to clients of the Burns Detective Agency. Kaminski or Naselli reportedly would go to a Burns client, show a badge, gun and identification card, and ask that a check — purportedly a Burns salary check—be cashed. The number of such checks and the total amount were not revealed by police. The Burns Agency some time ago sent its clients warning circulars bearing pictures of Kaminski and Nastelli.

Harley said Kaminski was sentenced to Elmira Reformatory in 1944 to serve 5 to 10 years for grand larceny, and served through the year 1952 in the Federal Correctional Institution at Danbury, Conn., for violation of parole in connection with a mail theft charge four years earlier.

Harley said Naselli was arrested in New York city by the forgery squad last November, was turned over to Nassau county authorities, jumped $2,500 bail and disappeared.

Tug Strike Is Set

was the most serious and immediate problem for the port of New York.

If effective, it could choke off vast quantities of water-borne fuel oil and food and other supplies needed by the city. It also could hamper long-distance navigation by forcing big liners and freighters to dock and sail without the assistance, usually necessary, of tugs.

City officials yesterday began taking emergency action to deal with the fuel situation in the event of a walkout. It was estimated that New York had a 7-to-10-day supply of fuel oil, depending on the weather. Mayor Robert F. Wagner appointed a committee to study the matter.

Appear No Closer

Federal Mediator Thomas G. Dougherty said last night that the two parties in the dispute appeared to be no closer to agreement than last week. The contract expired Sunday midnight, and the union set a 48-hour interval before any strike action.

The union has demanded a 25 per cent wage increase and rejected employer offers of either a 4 per cent boost or welfare benefit improvements. Present wages range from $1.56 an hour for deckhands to $2.26 for captains.

A total of 450 harbor craft—tugs, tankers and oil and freight barges—would be affected by a strike.

Tax Cuts to Mean

a series of changes in business taxes, and taxes on dividend income, than from direct cuts in their own tax bill.

"Everyone will benefit because the economy will benefit with the creation of more jobs with better tools and machinery to produce higher payrolls and cheaper, better things for public consumption."

Humphrey especially urged a proposed sharp cut in taxes on dividends, and more rapid tax deductions for depreciation of new business plants and equipment.

In the past 10 years, he said, private industry has had to raise 75 per cent of its financing by going into debt—borrowing from banks or selling bonds requiring fixed repayments—rather than by selling stock shares.

"It means simply that we have enterprise heavily in debt so that it doesn't develop as well or as quickly as it would without heavy debts hanging over it. Should business turn down, a company in heavy debt is, of course, easily drawn into trouble."

Humphrey said the new schedule would spur business to invest in new facilities and this "helps our economy to stay modern and up to date, and so to grow and expand faster."

Thruway Probe Asked

Albany, Feb. 2 (AP)—Democratic legislative leaders today urged Gov. Dewey to investigate the New York State Thruway Authority, which they accused of laxity, inefficiency, carelessness and negligence. The plea followed by less than a day an announcement by the authority that it would need additional funds to complete the super-highway as originally planned.

Tug Strike Is Set

was the most serious and immediate problem for the port of New York.

If effective, it could choke off vast quantities of water-borne fuel oil and food and other supplies needed by the city. It also could hamper long-distance navigation by forcing big liners and freighters to dock and sail without the assistance, usually necessary, of tugs.

City officials yesterday began taking emergency action to deal with the fuel situation in the event of a walkout. It was estimated that New York had a 7-to-10-day supply of fuel oil, depending on the weather. Mayor Robert F. Wagner appointed a committee to study the matter.

Appear No Closer

Federal Mediator Thomas G. Dougherty said last night that the two parties in the dispute appeared to be no closer to agreement than last week. The contract expired Sunday midnight, and the union set a 48-hour interval before any strike action.

The union has demanded a 25 per cent wage increase and rejected employer offers of either a 4 per cent boost or welfare benefit improvements. Present wages range from $1.56 an hour for deckhands to $2.26 for captains.

A total of 450 harbor craft—tugs, tankers and oil and freight barges—would be affected by a strike.

a series of changes in business taxes, and taxes on dividend income, than from direct cuts in their own tax bill.

"Everyone will benefit because the economy will benefit with the creation of more jobs with better tools and machinery to produce higher payrolls and cheaper, better things for public consumption."

Humphrey especially urged a proposed sharp cut in taxes on dividends, and more rapid tax deductions for depreciation of new business plants and equipment.

In the past 10 years, he said, private industry has had to raise 75 per cent of its financing by going into debt—borrowing from banks or selling bonds requiring fixed repayments—rather than by selling stock shares.

"It means simply that we have enterprise heavily in debt so that it doesn't develop as well or as quickly as it would without heavy debts hanging over it. Should business turn down, a company in heavy debt is, of course, easily drawn into trouble."

Humphrey said the new schedule would spur business to invest in new facilities and this "helps our economy to stay modern and up to date, and so to grow and expand faster."

Thruway Probe Asked

Albany, Feb. 2 (AP)—Democratic legislative leaders today urged Gov. Dewey to investigate the New York State Thruway Authority, which they accused of laxity, inefficiency, carelessness and negligence. The plea followed by less than a day an announcement by the authority that it would need additional funds to complete the super-highway as originally planned.

Oatmeal Builds Health and Ful-O-Pep Chick Starter is built around oatmeal!

Baby chicks are a lot like youngsters. They get more energy from wholesome, nutritious oatmeal than from any other cereal grain. And that's why oatmeal is the base for Ful-O-Pep Chick Starter . . . because it gives chicks the extra food values they need to grow strong bones and sound bodies for a faster start. Two lbs. per chick's all you need.
